SECRET QUIZ ON GIRL SLAYING

'TECHNOCRACY' FIGHTING WORD FOR SCIENTISTS

Auto Maker Leads Attack on It.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The prime dilemma facing western, mechanized civilization—namely material distress amidst fabulous bounty—caught the lively notice today of 4,500 scientists attending the ninety-first midwinter session of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Controversy ruled in the improvised classic groves facing the boardwalk and a stormy Atlantic.

Here was chaos—and no unified diagnosis or proposed remedy. A sure undertone ran through the utterances of economists, industrialists, agronomists. No one doubted that the times were out of joint, but doubts were expressed that technocracy would set them right.

Man Power Called Obsolete.

In fact, technocracy became virtually a fighting word. Mankind, it was pointed out inferentially by Prof. Walter Rautenstrauch, head of the department of industrial engineering at Columbia university, is obsolete as a source of energy in productive industry. Man has gone the way of the horse as a source of power.

Dr. Rautenstrauch spoke, in a mildly deprecatory way, for technocracy. He was challenged—and the discussion ran along. Technocracy, in case you haven't heard, is a formula for measuring the values of our economic order as an energy determinant. Howard Scott, for many years a voluble Greenwich village philosopher, is the prophet of technocracy. He and his staff have house room at Columbia university and only this week won from Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, in his annual report to the trustees, a sympathetically qualified indorsement.

Machine, Not Buyers.

Technocracy points out that we face a stalemate. Automatic machinery displaces man. Man is a consuming unit. The machine is not. The price system, i. e., the capitalistic order, cannot survive in competition with the machine. The machine has been under this and other philosophic attacks for a half century.

Today technocracy, a word and a technique popularly unknown two months ago, stole the show at this gathering. Dr. Dugald C. Jackson, head of the department of electrical engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, resolutely disputed the findings of technocracy. Man has not been shelved by the machine, said Dr. Jackson. Given good times, he asserted, and new issues will be found for man as a producing animal.

Welcomes Technocrats as Rivals.

Charles F. Kettering, vice president of General Motors and chief of the research department of that corporation, tentatively denied the revolutionary social implications of technocracy. "We hear a lot about technocracy," Mr. Kettering said. "The only thing I have to say is that I wish I had as some of its sponsors my competitors in the automotive industry."

"I'd like to take the automobile technocracy has talked about building, which it is said might last for fifty years," he said in a derisive tone. "Set a price on it this year. Put in a showcase and keep it unused and then put a price on it next year. This year the price might be $10,000. Next year it would be less, and in ten years the only man who would make a bid on it would be the junk man. What I mean to bring out is that there is a depreciation with time as we advance mentally.

"It is all right for us to be planning for future generations, but not to execute those plans. Better for us to keep our noses to the grindstone and work out our problems in the present."

Mr. Kettering said he had "plotted an ignorance curve," and that teaches that we cannot consider our civilization as fixed, for "we don't know enough."

"The next generation," he added, "will be as smart as we are, perhaps smarter. It will settle its own problems."

Admits Debt to Scott.

Dr. Rautenstrauch acknowledged his indebtedness to Mr. Scott and his associates for the material in his paper. He brought, he said, "the message of technocracy." He reviewed the historical basis for the technocratic gospel.

"For a period of 6,000 years," he said, "before the beginning of the nineteenth century, the physical basis

Geo. M. Reynolds Resigns Bank Post

HEALTH FORCES RETIREMENT OF NOTED LEADER

Active as Financier for Half Century.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

George M. Reynolds, chairman of the board of directors of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, yesterday announced his resignation from that office and his retirement from active banking.

Mr. Reynolds' resignation becomes effective Jan. 7. He expects to depart shortly to spend the rest of the winter in California. He will remain a director of the bank. Considerations of health and a desire to have a few years of rest after more than a half century of banking, Mr. Reynolds said, led to his decision to retire. He will be 68 years old on Jan. 15.

Calls Reporters to Office.

Late yesterday afternoon Mr. Reynolds summoned reporters to his office on the second floor of the bank building to make an announcement. Present were James R. Leavell, president of the bank; Stanley Field, chairman of the bank's executive committee, and a few other officers.

Mr. Reynolds distributed copies of a statement which read:

"On the fifteenth of January I shall be 68 years old. I have been in the banking business for more than 52 years. Since the age of 15 I have had no freedom from business responsibilities.

"For some time I have felt that I should like the remaining years of my life to be free from business and its demands so that Mrs. Reynolds and I might do some of those things which we have long wanted to do.

"Turnabout Seems Fair Play."

"She has accommodated herself to my schedule for so long that a turnabout seems fair play. This desire to retire from active responsibility in the management of the bank has been known to my associates, but recently I came to the conclusion that I could properly ask to be relieved of those definite duties imposed on me by my position as chairman of the board of directors.

"Accordingly I have tendered my resignation and it has been accepted, effective Jan. 7, 1933.

"When I came to Chicago, the first of December, 1897, the population of the city was 1,600,000. It is now approximately 3,600,000. The deposits in the city at that time were approximately $250,000,000. They are now approximately $3,200,000,000, and during this period of time the development of Chicago and this section of America, and America itself, has been the greatest in any equal period of time in any country of the world."

A Leading Financial Figure.

Mr. Reynolds, as chairman of the board of the largest bank west of New York City, has been one of the leading financial figures of the country. In addition to retiring from active service with his own bank he will give up the chairmanship of the Chicago Clearing House association, a position that he has held since he succeeded James R. Forgan ten years ago. He will also retire from the board of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago after eighteen years' service and will relinquish the chairmanship of the National Credit corporation.

No successor to Mr. Reynolds as chairman of the board has been decided on, it was indicated yesterday. It is considered probable that the matter will be taken up at the directors' meeting on Jan. 13. A stockholders' meeting will be held the same day, when the annual election of directors will occur. Election of officers by directors will follow.

Begins as Bank Clerk.

Mr. Reynolds began his career as a clerk in a small town bank in Guthrie county, Iowa. He moved to Hastings, Neb., in 1886 and engaged in the farm loan business for two years. Later he was cashier of the Des Moines National bank, Des Moines, Ia., in 1895 becoming president of that institution.

In 1897 he was summoned to Chicago to take the job of cashier of the Continental National bank of Chicago, a position that he held for five years. Then after serving as vice president for four years he became president of that bank in 1906 and continued as president after the consolidation with the [illegible] National bank until

POLICEMEN HUNT BURGLAR AND GET SOME ONE'S GOAT

A woman's frightened voice greeted Desk Sergeant Tom Phelan of the Chicago Lawn station when he picked up the telephone receiver this morning.

"There's a burglar on the back porch," she whispered. "I can hear him now, knocking at the back door. Send police quick."

The speaker was Mrs. Richard J. Branigan and the address was 7330 South Irving avenue. Sergt. Phelan sent Detectives Fred Nicholson and William Kenny to the scene. They arrived in a few minutes. Drawing their revolvers, they crept stealthily around to the rear.

At the porch Kenny flashed a light and shouted, "Stick 'em up, we're police officers." The answer was a sudden stamping of feet and a quick dash of an obscure form. Kenny dived after the fleeting shadow. So did Nicholson. There was a momentary struggle. Then the policemen looked at their prisoner. It was a goat. The "burglar" was locked up at the station.

CALVIN COOLIDGE CHOOSES TO SHUN STATE POLITICS

Boston, Mass., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Former President Calvin Coolidge, as a former governor of Massachusetts, was asked to take part in the selection of a chairman of the new Republican state committee which meets next Wednesday afternoon for organization. He replied through his secretary:

"Mr. Coolidge is not sufficiently conversant with the subject you mention in your letter of the 22d instant to give an opinion on it."

Charges Wife Nagged Him Down Below Her Weight

Orrin H. Lutman, 51 years old, 6913 Cornell avenue, charged yesterday that he had weighed 180 pounds until recently, when his wife, Josephine, 49 years old, 7558 Rhodes avenue, "nagged him down below that weight," which was 165 pounds, and then forced him to leave home. The assertion was made in a divorce bill charging cruelty, which was filed in the superior court by Attorney Harry X. Cole. The bill asked for an injunction to restrain Mrs. Lutman from molesting her husband.

Soviet Decrees Everyone Must Have Passport

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Dec. 28.—Russia's former internal passport system, which enabled the late czar's officials to control rigidly the movements of inhabitants throughout the country and which was abolished in the early years of the revolution, has been readopted by the soviet government.

The council of national commissars announced that beginning in January, all inhabitants over 16 years of age must carry passports, which will be controlled by police. Inhabitants moving from one locality to another must immediately register with the police. Measures which helped the czar to control revolutionists are now, according to the soviet press, expected to aid the Gay Pay Ou [soviet espionage system] to control counter-revolutionists. Violation of the decree will be punished by exile.

Would Prevent Return of Exiles.

The official reason for the soviet government's adoption of one of the czarist regime's most disliked measures is given by Moscow as a desire to obtain statistical information about persons not participating in productive work—kulaks and other anti-social elements—who, under present laws, are not permitted to live in the larger cities.

Another reason for the new decree is Moscow's desire to prevent hundreds of thousands of families exiled in northern Russia and Siberia since the inauguration of the five year plan from returning to their home villages.

The exile system is carried out systematically, the government attempting to use the surviving kulak families to populate the large uninhabited semi-polar regions.

Puts Police under Gay Pay Ou.

In connection with the new decree, Pravda mentions the appointment of Prokofieff, third assistant chief of the Gay Pay Ou, as head of the soviet police force. Prokofieff retains his post in the Gay Pay Ou, revealing that the appointment really places the Gay Pay Ou in control of the police, which hereafter will have greatly increased authority.

With famine conditions getting worse throughout the country, the soviet government has published a number of edicts aimed to strengthen the government's control over the inhabitants.

BRITAIN MAY FREE GANDHI AND 20,000 OTHERS IN INDIA

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Dec. 28.—The Daily Herald said today that it has virtually been decided that Mahatma Gandhi and other nonviolent political prisoners in India shall be released from jail as a gesture of good will on New Year's day. [The latest estimate of the number of civil disobedience prisoners in India was about 20,000.]

Gandhi Postpones Fast.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BOMBAY, Dec. 28. — Mahatma Gandhi decided to postpone indefinitely his fast on the question raised by the refusal of the Hindus to allow the untouchables to enter Guruvayoor temple after a five hour talk today with leaders of the untouchables. He promised to issue a statement tomorrow.

Gandhi is understood to be satisfied with the progress of the work of the removal of the stigma of untouchability. For three days he had been engaged in debating theological points about the untouchables and their admission to the temples with men learned in Hindu scriptures from all parts of India.

23 Rescuers in Mine Trap Dig Way to Safety

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Moweaqua, Ill., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Twenty-three rescuers trapped in the west workings of the wrecked Shafer mine tonight dug themselves to safety. A fall of rock had cut them off from the other rescuers in the main shaft. All are safe.

This mishap came shortly after the discovery of two more bodies in the mine this evening. This made a total of seven bodies recovered today and accounts for all but seven of the fifty-four men who were the victims of an explosion and fire on Saturday.

Five Bodies Found Earlier.

Five bodies were uncovered early this morning in the north shaft. Forty bodies had previously been removed since the explosion last Saturday.

Only men equipped with gas masks and 60 pound oxygen tanks on their backs can penetrate to the scene, and these men could not carry the bodies back the 1,000 feet to the main shaft.

Therefore the workers were busy all today shoring up the walls of the passageway and removing debris in order that the ventilating system may be put in order.

The workers came upon a tense drama of death when the five bodies were discovered today. The miners had apparently been killed outright by the searing sheet of flame which swept the north shaft. Their bodies were blackened and charred.

This party of five had been proceeding northward in the shaft when the explosion occurred. Four men had been riding in the small truck being hauled by one mule. The other had been leading the mule and had fallen by the animal's head.

Funerals for 28.

Twenty-six men were buried today, making a total of 34 who have been carried to their graves. Requiem high mass was celebrated by the Rt. Rev. James A. Griffin, bishop of Springfield, over the bodies of fourteen Catholic victims who lay in caskets in the high school auditorium.

Hundreds followed the funeral procession to Calvary cemetery at Pana, Ill., where more than 2,000 miners from throughout the mining districts had gathered to watch their fellow workers laid to rest.

Protestant services, some singly and some in groups, were conducted in various churches and homes throughout the day. At the Presbyterian church a father and two sons, Andy Corby, Andy Jr. and John Corby, laid side by side in their coffins.

TRAINMEN DIE AS VANDALS WRECK WABASH TRAIN

Jacksonville, Ill., Dec. 28.—(AP)—The engineer and firemen of Wabash passenger train No. 2, bound for Detroit from Kansas City, were killed tonight when the train was wrecked after vandals apparently had tampered with a switch.

The dead: Engineer John Rapp of Springfield, Fireman H. L. Meyer of Decatur. Two others seriously injured were Harry Ross of Jacksonville, baggageman, and London Simmons, Negro cook, of Decatur.

Officials began a search for vandals who had filed a lock from a switch, turned the switch, and extinguished the red danger signal which would have warned the engineer.

Persons near the tracks said that Engineer Rapp evidently sensed something as he had started to slow down his train before it struck the switch.

It is known that bridges near here and in the Springfield and Decatur areas have been under guards for some time.

PAWNS CLOTHES TO REACH CHAIR IN LEGISLATURE

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Another call was made today upon Democratic leaders who gave $350 last week to outfit and transport to the state capital, Olympia, 11 of King county's newly elected legislators who were without funds.

The five party chiefs who contributed the money were informed today a member of the group had pawned a new suit to get subsistence until his pay starts in January. They forgave him.

"Poor fellow," said one, Charles A. Reynolds, "we'll get him another suit."

Love Affair Blamed for Killing.

Three suspects were being held incommunicado by Du Page county authorities at Wheaton last night in connection with the mysterious murder of Miss Gertrude Modrow, 19 years old, who was shot to death in typical gangland fashion on a country road near Addison early Christmas morning.

All three prisoners are men. Up to midnight last night they had been grilled unceasingly for six hours behind locked doors in the state's attorney's office. None of the suspects is a known member of a hoodlum gang and the investigators, it was reported, were quizzing them in pursuance of their newest theories—that Miss Modrow was slain over a love affair with a married man. Earlier police had believed that the girl was slain by hoodlums, possibly because she knew too much about their activities.

Report Maywood Suspect Held.

From Maywood it was said Raymond Klasen, 27 years old, of 701 South 2d avenue, a yardmaster in the Proviso yards of the North Western railroad, had been taken to Wheaton for questioning in the belief that he might be able to throw some light on the case. He is a married man, father of two children, and reputedly a model husband.

At 5:15 o'clock last evening two Maywood policemen, accompanied by two deputy sheriffs of Du Page county, visited the Klasen home. Klasen was called to the door and agreed to accompany the policeman. He was taken to Wheaton by automobile and immediately questioned, according to Maywood authorities.

Du Page county investigators declined to admit that Klasen was being held or that any one else was being questioned in the case. They refused to permit newspaper men to come in the immediate vicinity of the offices where the examinations were being conducted. All outer doors were locked.

Trace Secret Love Affair.

Maywood police said they were informed that the Du Page officials were investigating reports that Miss Modrow had a love affair with a married man and that she had threatened to expose him.

At Klasen's home his wife, Ruth, asserted she did not know why he was arrested. Nor did she know where he was taken, she said. She denied that Klasen was friendly with other women and said she had never heard of a girl named Gertrude.

"My husband works from 6 o'clock at night to 6 in the morning," said Mrs. Klasen. "He is not the kind of a man to run around. He is devoted to his home and his children."

Mrs. Klasen traced her husband's movements on Saturday afternoon. Miss Modrow was killed some time Saturday night and her body left by a lonely road. She left the home of her employers, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Lejonstein of 1208 North Russell avenue, Oak Park, Saturday afternoon to buy a pair of shoes. She made the purchase before she was killed, for when she was found she was wearing new shoes.

Trims Christmas Tree.

"My husband got up about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon," said Mrs. Klasen. "From that time until about 4:30 he was busy trimming our Christmas tree. At 5:40, after we had our dinner, I drove him to the Proviso yards. I do that every day. We had our children with us."

The wife's statement that her husband worked last Saturday night and Sunday morning was verified this morning at the Proviso yards. Klasen was not on duty last night, an official said. He said he understood that the yard master had been arrested by Wheaton authorities.

While Mrs. Klasen was relating these incidents she received a telephone call from her sister-in-law, Mrs. Violet Klasen of Chicago, wife of Joseph Klasen, a brother of Raymond. Mrs. Violet Klasen was inquiring as to the whereabouts of her husband, Joseph. Mrs. Raymond Klasen explained. Joseph is employed as a passenger train brakeman on the North Western.

While officials were concentrating on the theory that Miss Modrow was slain as the result of a romance with a married man, they were also following other trails. Among these trails was the hoodlum angle, but this, they admitted, has almost been discerded. For nearly two days it was considered that the Melrose Park alcohol ring might have decreed the girl's death.

Classmate Gives Clew.

It was not until the story of George Guerine, a law student and brother of Guy Guerine, an official of Melrose Park, was learned that this theory was thrust into the background.

George Guerine's story was that on Friday he had met Miss Modrow, whom he knew as a classmate at the Proviso Township High school. Guerine said that Miss Modrow had confided to him that she was alarmed over an affair with a married man. Just how serious this affair was—if it existed—was not determined. It was medically determined that the girl was not to become a mother.

Miss Modrow, according to friends, was not a girl to make enemies. She was a graduate of the Proviso High school and at the time of her death was employed as a maid by the Le Jonsteins. As a school girl she was not an intellectual, according to information given to Chief Deputy Sheriff Arthur Bennett of Du Page county. She "had no imagination and was a plodding, conscientious sort of a girl," one informant told Bennett. She was shy and didn't go out with boys, Bennett also learned.

Mourners to Be Questioned.

"Yet I believe there is a love affair somewhere in this case," said Chief Deputy Bennett. "It is possible gangsters killed her, but unlikely. We will question everyone who knows anything about Miss Modrow."

This will include many of the mourners who attended Miss Modrow's funeral yesterday. The services were held in Robillard's undertaking rooms in Elmhurst. Burial was in Oak Ridge cemetery.

BANK KILLER IS TRACED HERE BY HIS LOST HAT

Frank Glenday, 26 years old, 357 East 24th street, was arrested last night by Lieut. Edward Kelly as an alleged member of a band of gunmen who on Nov. 28 raided a bank at Stamping Ground, Ky., took $4,300 and killed the cashier. After questioning, Glenday, according to Kelly, confessed and admitted firing a shot in the holdup.

The arrest was the result of good detective work on the part of Lieut. Kelly and his men, aided by Police Chief Ernst Thompson of Stamping Ground.

After the bank robbery the bandits fled into the mountains, and one of the men, who later turned out to be Glenday, concealed his hat under a mountain boulder. Three of his companions were subsequently seized. While they did not know their confederate's name they directed Chief Thompson to the boulder, where the hat was found. In the hat the chief discovered a mark of the Sterling Cleaning company, 109 North State street, Chicago. He brought this clew to Chicago yesterday.

Lieut. Kelly traced the mark to 357 East 24th street, and last night, after searching the neighborhood for several hours, found Glenday, who admitted living at that address. Not long afterward, Kelly said, Glenday confessed.

BANK IS ROBBED AS CALLER TRIES TO SELL TEAR GAS

Gloucester, N. J., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—While a tear gas gun salesman was explaining to employés of the Gloucester branch of the Camden Safe Deposit and Trust company how to frustrate bandits, four men, two of whom wore handkerchief masks, entered the bank today, drove four employés and the salesman into the vault, and rode away with $8,941. A fifth confederate had waited for them outside the bank in a car bearing Pennsylvania license plates.

The bank's burglar alarm and five shots fired into the air by Edward Williams of Gloucester, the receiving teller, warned nearby shopkeepers of the robbery. No opportunity occurred, however, to sound the alarm until the bandits were speeding away, carrying their loot in a large paper bag.

D. A. R. First Donor Here to Fund for Mine Victims

The Chicago chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was the first contributor yesterday morning after the appeal issued on Tuesday by the American Red Cross for relief funds to aid the dependent families of victims of the Moweaqua mine disaster. Other contributions were received during the day. James T. Nicholson, manager of the chapter, said the first day's response had been satisfactory. Checks should be made payable to the Moweaqua mine relief fund and should be sent to 616 South Michigan avenue, in care of the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross.

STATE CRITICS ASSAIL STATUE OF COLUMBUS

Protest Its Erection in Report to Governor.

The proposed statue of Christopher Columbus which is to be erected in Grant park is "very bad," in the opinion of the state board of art advisers, and should not be placed on public land. This criticism was made yesterday in the board's annual report to Gov. Emmerson. The board also urged a state-wide campaign against highway advertising, recommending the elimination of billboards on the ground that these advertisements obscure the landscape and create traffic hazards.

Much of the report is aimed at the Columbus statue. This monument, the gift of Italian-American citizens of Chicago and Cook county, has been approved by the south park board and is to be placed at Columbus drive and Roosevelt road. It has been sent to Italy to be cast in bronze and will reach the United States on Jan. 15.

Fail to Consult Art Board.

"Permission to erect this monument was granted by the south park board without consultation with the board of art advisers," the report said. "In fact, the monument was designed and the contract let, to the best of our knowledge, without the public knowing of the project until a cut appeared in the newspapers. Opinions of the different members of the board were obtained by the chairman, as was also the opinion of other authorities on art.

"The opinion of each of these was that if the published reproduction properly represented the monument it was very bad and that it should not be erected on public land. Examination of larger photographs confirmed this opinion in the mind of the chairman of the board. The board uttered vigorous protest to the chairman of the south park board, but was unable to get the board to reconsider the design other than an oral statement that nothing would be erected which was not a work of art and satisfactory to the board of art advisers and others qualified to judge."

Protest Goes Unanswered.

The south park board failed to furnish models of the statue to the art board as promised, the report said, and a further communication to the park board was not answered.

"The board, not having other than advisory powers, has got to report a failure in an earnest effort to save the people of Chicago from what we believe will be a monument unworthy in its artistic expression to its location or purpose," the report said.

The present board of art advisers was appointed in 1929 by Gov. Emmerson and was reappointed in 1931. The board is given advisory powers only. The members are Thomas E. Tallmadge of Chicago, chairman; Walter S. Brewster, Lake Forest; Edwin H. Clark, Chicago; Rexford Newcomb, Urbana; Lorado Taft, Albin Polasek, and John W. Norton, Chicago, and Otto G. Schaffer, Urbana.

Borrelli Defends Statue.

Judge Francis Borrelli, who was instrumental in obtaining the statue, said yesterday that it had been approved by other artists. The members of the board of art advisers have not seen the statue, he said, and have judged it from photographs. The statue has constructed by the Brioschi-Numiti Company of St. Paul, Minn. It is to be 11 feet 7½ inches in height and is to be mounted on a pedestal of Italian granite 21 feet high.

The report of the board of art advisers disclosed it had approved the bridges of the division of waterways in Joliet, after some revision, on the proposed State street, Halsted street and Ogden avenue bridges, and the model for the proposed Leif Ericson monument.

Two Naval Building Bills to Die with 72d Congress

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Democratic leaders today disclosed that the Hale and Vinson bills authorizing the construction of new warships costing in the neighborhood of a billion dollars will be allowed to die with the seventy-second congress, March 4.

The net result of the Democratic decision is to shunt the whole question of building the navy to London treaty strength over to the Roosevelt administration. Economic conditions dictating stricter federal retrenchment if the budget is to be balanced was one factor influencing the Democrats. Another factor was the desire by Democrats to await the outcome of the Geneva disarmament conference before going ahead with plans for strengthening the fleet.

Davis Advises Roosevelt.

Whether the recent visit to Albany of Norman H. Davis, American delegate to the disarmament conference played any part in the decision to postpone action on warship legislation was not disclosed. It was recalled, however, that Mr. Davis recently advised President Elect Roosevelt that in his opinion results would be obtained at Geneva which would permit smaller expenditures for armaments.

"With the federal deficit piling up at the rate of 100 millions a month this is no time to talk of building up the fleet," Representative Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.], majority leader of the house, declared.

"There is no chance for a warship bill to get through this session. Our big job now is to cut the cost of government down to where the budget can be balanced."

The Hale bill authorizes the construction of ships needed to bring the United States fleet up to a parity with Great Britain and its London treaty ratio with Great Britain. This measure passed the senate last year but was pigeon holed by the house pending consideration of the Vinson 750 million dollar bill. This bill never has been reported out by Chairman Carl Vinson [Dem., Ga.] of the house naval affairs committee. The total cost of the Hale measure would have been in excess of a billion dollars if all ships had been built. The construction period would have been over ten years.

Hearings Are Planned.

Notwithstanding the decision to pass up naval legislation at this session, Chairman Vinson plans shortly to rise in the house to call national attention to the rapid strides made by other powers in new warship construction during the last few years. He plans also to arrange for short hearings by his committee on the Vinson bill. At these sessions, Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams and ranking officials of the navy will be called upon to testify as to the ships necessary if this country is to build up to parity with Britain.

It was learned today that during the Vinson hearings the general board of the navy is to be asked to submit its recommendation for new construction in 1934. These call for the laying down, prior to June 30, 1934, of forty new warships, a majority of which are as yet unauthorized. The total cost of these vessels would be in excess of 250 million dollars.

U. S. Is Outstripped.

Figures made available to Chairman Vinson by the navy department show that all other Washington treaty powers have outstripped this country in building warships since the original five signatories ratified the document in 1923. They show also that Great Britain, France, and Italy, all powers owing large war debt obligations to the United States have been building at a much greater rate than the United States.

REFUND ENDS THEFT CASE.

A charge of embezzlement against John J. Luken, 1956 Lincoln avenue, a German war veteran, was dismissed yesterday by Municipal Judge Frank M. Padden. Luken repaid the money, $255 to Theodore Levender, the complainant, with whom he lived.

FIND INSURANCE OF $37,000 FOR SLAIN MUSICIAN

Schildhauer's Widow Is Inquest Witness.

Insurance policies on the life of Edwin O. Schildhauer, bandmaster of the Austin High school who was kidnaped in front of his home and slain on Dec. 10, were introduced in evidence at the inquest yesterday by Deputy Coroner Jacob Schewel. One policy was for $15,000. It was taken out in March, 1931. Another was for $1,000, and a third, in a fraternal order, was for $5,000. The $15,000 and $1,000 policies contained provisions for double payment in the event of death by accident.

Mrs. Frances Schildhauer, the widow, was on the witness stand when Deputy Schewel demanded the policies. Mrs. Schildhauer said she didn't know how much insurance her husband carried—that the papers were in the safety deposit box of her mother, Mrs. George E. Birkinshaw. Sergt. Frank Donohue was sent with Mrs. Birkinshaw to get them.

Birkinshaw Roomer Quizzed.

Mrs. Birkinshaw was the first witness. She was followed on the stand by Paul Palmer, an employé of Birkinshaw who lives with the Birkinshaws in the flat above that formerly occupied by the Schildhauers at 3455 Fulton street.

Asked how long he had lived there, Palmer said about seven years. He was asked if he knew a man named Greenwood. He said he did not.

Mrs. Schildhauer was then called to the stand and asked if she knew Greenwood. She also said she did not.

The widow was then asked if she had ever been in business. She said she had not. Asked if she had not been a part owner of a beauty shop she explained that she had studied in one to become a beauty operator. Her husband had lent $200 to the owner, Jean Caravetti, she said. A note securing that loan was found in the safety deposit box by Sergt. Donohue.

School Principal Testifies.

Wilbur H. Wright, principal of the Austin High school, testified that he knew of no cause for the murder of Schildhauer. The slain bandmaster had been intensely interested in his work, the principal said. Paul Duck, 3343 Ohio street, a pupil, volunteered a story of rivalry between the bands of Austin and Harrison High schools.

Deputy Coroner Schewel, in continuing the inquest until Jan. 14, said the private affairs of Schildhauer and his pretty widow were being investigated in seeking a motive for the murder.

COUPLE SEIZED WITH DOPE.

William Kelly, 30 years old, and his wife, Helen, 33, were arrested yesterday in their room at 4009 Sheridan road by Sergt. George Melican. In the room Sergt. Melican found a can containing one pound of morphine which, he said, sells for $100 an ounce.

SCHOOL BOARD ACTS TO UTILIZE VACANT ROOMS

Would Ease Congestion in High Schools.

The board of education took steps yesterday to utilize some of the vacant rooms in Chicago's elementary school buildings. The measures were suggested by Supt. William J. Bogan and Don C. Rogers, director of building survey, as means of relieving the congestion in Chicago's senior and junior high schools.

Briefly, Mr. Bogan's program consists of the installation of senior and junior high school branches in grade school buildings. Other devices included a list of new school boundaries and the holding of seventh grade pupils, who would otherwise be sent to junior high schools, for instruction in elementary school classrooms.

136 Vacant Rooms Available.

Through the plan 136 vacant rooms would be used. The number of vacant rooms in Chicago's grade school buildings has been estimated as low as 400 and as high as 800. There are 1,500 more rooms than classes charged up to teachers, according to the records.

An attack on the practices set up in the superintendent's plan was launched later in the day by a newly organized group of parents. The group is known as the Parents' Public School Association of Chicago, of which Mrs. Harvey A. Tyler is president.

Parents Issue Statement.

"There is no reason," said a statement issued by the group, "for sending children away from their elementary schools for their seventh and eighth grade work if this same building is to house a branch junior high.

"Every child should be taught to appreciate the finer things of life along with the very essential 'three R's.' Teaching these things does not necessarily mean expensive administrative bureaus or expensive equipment.

"The mere spending of money does not mean good education. There is ample proof of this in our own Chicago schools. We shou'l think of our schools as primarily for the education of the children and not as institutions for supplying jobs, whether they be teaching, administrative, or operating.

Charge System Is Wrong.

"We are confident that a system of education, whether it is due to curriculum or administration, that creates hundreds of vacant rooms in one unit and an extremely overcrowded condition in another, such as we find between the senior high and elementary schools, is inherently wrong."

The school board did not discuss reductions in the 1933 budget or salary cuts for teachers and other employés at the meeting. A majority of the board have advanced opinions that salary cuts are necessary in order to stay within the anticipated revenue for next year.

ARREST NOTARY ACCUSED OF TAX SCHEDULE FRAUD

Former Assessor's Clerk Blames Lawyer.

Samuel Flaxman, 50 years old, 3734 Windsor avenue, a former employé of the county assessor's office, was arrested yesterday and charged with fraudulently placing a notary seal on personal property tax schedules with the intention of defrauding the county of large sums in taxes.

The complaint came from the office of Assessor J. L. Jacobs. Flaxman was surrendered to Lieut. John McGinnis of the detective bureau. Questioned by Lieut. McGinnis and members of the assessor's staff, Flaxman, who is a notary public, admitted signing the names of several taxpayers to schedules and then making the usual notary's acknowledgement that the taxpayers themselves had signed.

Fills Out the Schedules.

He said that he had been called to the office of an attorney and given the schedules. Some of them, he added, he actually filled out with figures furnished by the attorney. He admitted that he had used different pens in signing the taxpayers' names and his own.

Records in the office of Assessor Jacobs show that the Ziv Steel and Wire company and the Western Screw and Manufacturing company were among the corporations for which Flaxman signed and notarized schedules. The Ziv concern's schedule was for $5,700, and the assessor raised the assessed valuation to $30,000. Western's return of about $5,000 was increased to $30,000 also.

Attorne to Be Questioned.

Assessor Jacobs announced that everybody concerned with the affidavits handled by Flaxman would be questioned, including the attorney.

Flaxman was employed by the old board of assessors from 1916 to March, 1932, and had become chief clerk of the real estate division. He was let out, with 400 others, when Mr. Jacobs took charge last March. He has had no regular employment since his release, he told the police.

"MOIST THROAT" FOUND SECRET OF COUGH RELIEF

Your throat and bronchial tubes are lined with millions of pores like tiny bottles continually supplying moisture to the delicate tissues . . . until you "catch cold."

Then these "bottles" get plugged up, phlegm accumulates, affording dangerous germs a breeding place. Your throat feels hot and dry. Tickling, irritation and coughing set in.

Your cough will be cured only when the flow of the natural fluid is increased, loosening the phlegm so that it can be expelled. Many cough "remedies" contain numbing drugs which merely deaden the nerves . . . but don't get at the root of the trouble.

PERTUSSIN, a scientific remedy, which doctors have prescribed for many years, is the extract of a famous herb which opens the tiny glands, stimulates the flow of the throat's natural moisture and brings quick relief. It helps nature heal that cough from the inside out.

When you feel that warning dryness take a few spoons of PERTUSSIN. It's absolutely safe. Sold at all drug stores, 60¢.

SCRIP DOLLARS START ROLLING OVER EVANSTON

Merchants Hope It Will Help Them and City.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Five thousand dollars in new scrip or certificate money began to circulate in Evanston yesterday. It came in the form of $1 bills stamped with a picture of Theodore Roosevelt and bearing the name of the Evanston Independent Retail Merchants' association as guarantor of its purchasing power.

This is the beginning of a plan to restore prosperity to the merchants of Evanston and sell tax anticipation warrants to hold up the credit of the city. If it is successful it may be extended to the Evanston school system and to other cities. It is already being discussed in Chicago, and Milwaukee is on the verge of adopting a similar plan at a special meeting of its city council tomorrow.

The Plan Is Outlined.

The new money is known as Elrma dollars, after the initials of the merchants' association. For each of the 5,000 Elrma dollars a gold dollar is on deposit in an Evanston bank vault. No matter what happens, this scrip dollar is protected. Where its expansion and forcing process comes in is in the stamp plan that goes with it.

When an Elrma dollar is presented at the store in payment of goods the merchants have agreed to affix in a space provided on the back of the dollar a 2 cent trade discount stamp, cancel the stamp, and send the dollar into circulation again. The money received for these trade discount stamps must equal the amount of Elrma dollars sold and is invested in city of Evanston tax anticipation warrants.

Warrants Put in Trust.

These warrants are placed in trust and are disposed of only upon resolution of the merchants' association. Eventually the warrants or the proceeds from their sale will be distributed to each merchant in proportion to their purchase of trade discount stamps.

The questions which immediately began to arise in connection with this plan will be answered soon in practice rather than in theory. Ald. Herbert S. Simpson, chairman of the finance committee of the Evanston city council, said that the plan had been examined by the board of directors of the merchants' association, local bankers, and Prof. F. E. Clark and associates at Northwestern university before its approval by the council. There is no disposition to claim it as a panacea for business troubles or financial difficulties of the city, but it was regarded as something worth trying in such a community. It is not recommended to Chicago as yet.

No Inflation, Simpson Says.

"There is no inflation of currency in it," said Mr. Simpson. "The Elrma dollar has the full value of legal tender. The operation of the plan provides for all business institutions, such as the Public Service company, the Illinois Bell Telephone company, banks, dairies, and large branch stores situated in Evanston, as well as for professional men and women.

"It assures the city of the sale of a substantial amount of tax warrants each month. The purchase can be extended to $20,000 a month or more. The individual merchant, doctor or dentist will not feel the effect of this investment. No one takes a loss at any time, nor is there any opportunity for cheating or defrauding.

"It is agreed that the interest on tax anticipation warrants purchased under the plan be retained by the city of Evanston, with the exception of one-half of 1 per cent, which will be used for expenses of printing the new dollars.

Every One to Take Part.

"The chief accomplishment is that within a few months every citizen of our city will directly or indirectly invest in the purchase of tax warrants. It is hoped and intended that this plan can be further developed to include the school taxing bodies of Evanston."

Ald. George A. Paddock, investment broker, who is chairman of the committee on the sale of tax warrants, said that it was doubtful whether such a plan could be made workable in Chicago, but pointed out that there are now at least 500 equivalents for money in circulation in Cook county. The Elrma money, he thought, would soon be in use as regular money, without any inflation, as it had back of it a gold dollar. He compared it with a note issued by a bank, but said that the Elrma dollar was self-liquidating.

"The merchant is under promise to affix a 2-cent stamp on the back of the dollar each time a dollar is received in trade," he said. "Whether he would do it for the purchase of a 5 cent cigar is something that will have to work itself out. He might do it for good will, just as a drug store sells stamps.

Sees N Chance of Cheating.

"As to the possibilities of cheating, the members of the association know about each other's business, and if a member takes in a lot of dollars without buying an equivalent of stamps, the others will know about it. There is no prize connected with it, no lottery, no possibility of counterfeit."

Bankers and economists in Chicago listed these objections:

1. The merchant must absorb the stamp cost or pass it on to the customer, thus driving the customer away. If he absorbs it he ties up his profits, unless he can pay his own bills with this money.

2. Merchants will get a flood of stamp money and little of the other kind.

3. It is a scheme to sell tax warrants rather than to restore prosperity.

Three Plans in Milwaukee.

Three measures dealing with scrip money are to be considered at the Milwaukee council meeting. Mayor Dan W. Hoan wants a plan adopted by Jan. 1.

Dr. J. W. Murdoch, Milwaukee city treasurer, held up the school pay roll of $523,000 yesterday until the council has acted on a scrip plan.

Mayor Hoan's scrip plan was filed with the city clerk in the form of a resolution. It explains that an emergency exists in the financial resources of the city for 1933, that all available cash must be conserved to meet loans and bonded debt, and that an additional circulating medium of exchange is needed. It proposes scrip in denominations from one to one hundred dollars, of which 25 per cent would be used in paying city obligations wherever possible. This would include salaries. It provides for the issuance of a total of $7,500,000 in scrip.

Propose Public Works Scrip.

Another plan is for stamped scrip to finance a public works program employing the idle. This would require the attachment of stamps by merchants to whom it was tendered and the proceeds of the stamp sale would go for the employment program.

Another complicated plan was proposed by Ald. Stormy Thompson and Sherman Brown, an official of the park board. This would require public employés to take 60 per cent scrip and in addition has the special stamp feature, much as in Evanston.

R. O. Wipperman, tax analyst and Wisconsin authority on public finances, declares any scrip plan is an indirect means of increasing the public debt beyond the limit set by the state constitution. A second objection is that scrip would be discounted for cash and would concentrate in the hands of brokers.

"Instead of issuing scrip," he said, "the city's solution is the reduction of public expenditures by the 25 per cent needed."

Mary Pickford Is Injured in Studio

Struck by Lamp

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—While conversing with Douglas Fairbanks, her husband, on a set at United Artists studio, Mary Pickford was knocked unconscious by a huge "rifle" lamp, used in lighting movie sets, which fell on her. Miss Pickford was carried by Fairbanks to a dressing room on the stage, where she was quickly revived by emergency treatment. She suffered painful bruises on the arm and shoulder and a large bump on her head. The lamp toppled when an electrician stumbled over the cable attached to it.

GREECE TO DENY U. S. AN APPEAL ON INSULL CASE

Decision of Athens Court Is Called Final.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 28.—Charles A. Bellows, assistant state's attorney of Cook county, Ill., left Athens tonight for Paris. He will return to the United States on the S. S. Champlain, sailing on Jan. 4 from Havre.

Bellows will return to Chicago to report to State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney on the rejection by the Greek court of appeals yesterday of the United States government's request for extradition of Samuel Insull, who was indicted in Chicago in October on charges of larceny and embezzlement.

Assistant State's Attorney Andrew J. Vlaches, who accompanied Bellows to Greece for the Insull extradition proceedings, is remaining in Athens temporarily at the request of the American legation.

Believe Appeal Impossible.

Whether further American action will follow the rejection of the extradition request on the warrant signed by President Hoover could not be learned tonight. Legation officials said they had no comments to make on the outcome of the extradition hearing.

Reports from Chicago were printed in the Greek press today, quoting State's Attorney Courtney as saying he would ask legation authorities to appeal yesterday's decision, but it is said here that no appeal is possible. According to Vradini [Evening Gazette], a government paper, "the decision of the appeals court is binding on the government. Only in event the court had decided to extradite Insull would administrative authorities have had the right either to act or not on the court's decision."

Another government paper, Proia [Morning Gazette], said "the decision of the court responds to the general conception of Greek public opinion on the case." A majority of the newspapers today lauded the court's decision in warm terms.

Insull moved today from Aretaeion clinic to the luxurious Petit Palais hotel. It was said he is planning to have his wife join him here from Paris.

Mrs. Insull Refuses Comment.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PARIS, Dec. 28.—Mrs. Samuel Insull today avoided reporters and continued to refuse to divulge her plans or offer any comment on her husband's release by the Greek Court of Appeals yesterday.

She was out early in the morning and did not return to the Hotel Tremoille, where she is staying, until late this evening. She refused to see THE TRIBUNE's correspondent when she returned. Over the telephone she exclaimed petulantly:

"What do you call me for? What have I got to say?"

Before banging down the receiver, however, she indicated that she might have something to say tomorrow.

Martin Insull Confident.

ORILLIA, Ont., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Martin J. Insull expressed confidence today that the Canadian courts would follow the "precedent of Greece" and refuse to permit his extradition to Chicago. He appeared amused by the receipt of information that State's Attorney Courtney had declared he would make every effort to guard against technicalities which might prevent or delay extradition.

"He had better talk to my lawyer," Insull said.

FLOYD THOMPSON EXPLAINS PART IN INSULL CASE

Tells of Affidavits Sent to Greece.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Santa Ana, Cal., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Floyd E. Thompson, Chicago attorney, who is visiting here and who made out an affidavit on the Samuel Insull case which helped the Greek courts reach a decision to free the utilities magnate, made a statement tonight explaining his part in the case.

Mr. Thompson, who was formerly chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court, said that he "carefully read the affidavits attached to the petition for Insull's extradition and did not consider the facts as stated in the affidavits constituted the crime of embezzlement or the crime of larceny as charged." He added that he incorporated his conclusions in his statement sent to Greece, wholly from the matter included in papers attached to the extradition petition and he did not know what other information was in the possession of the grand jury that indicted Insull.

Explains His Affidavit.

"It was impossible," said Mr. Thompson, "for the authorities in Greece to obtain the impression from my affidavit that I was still chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court, because I said in so many words that I was now practicing law in Chicago and had been for four years and I gave my firm name and its address in Chicago and I do not believe that I mentioned any place in my affidavit that I had been chief justice.

"I stated I had been state's attorney of Rock Island county for seven years and had been judge of the State Supreme court nine years and I also stated that I had resigned from the state Supreme court in 1928."

Attorney Thompson described the Insull case as "one of those cases where, if the company had gone along and continued to make money, no one would have considered it a crime."

"But," he went on, "when the company went broke and people lost money, then they wanted to look around and find a victim somewhere.

"The law is that an act is either a crime when committed or it never is a crime. And to constitute a crime you must have an act plus intent. Now, if Mr. Insull at the time he authorized this loan had no criminal intent, then he didn't have criminal intent afterward because a thing turned out badly which he didn't anticipate.

His Part in Case.

"As to my part in making my affidavit: I am not now, nor have I ever been, an attorney for any of the Insull companies. I was employed, subsequent to the statement I made out, to represent Samuel Insull Jr. in advising with him when he was called before the federal court in connection with a bankruptcy proceeding. That was the first time I ever represented any of the Insulls. As to the affidavit I made out, I was asked to prepare the affidavit by attorneys whom I had known long and known well and agreed to do so."

U. S. AND STATE BOTH UNDECIDED ON NEXT STEP IN INSULL CASE

Although both state and federal authorities announced that the freeing of Samuel Insull in Greece would not stop further efforts to bring him back to Chicago for trial, they were still at a loss yesterday as to the next steps to be taken.

State's Attorney Courtney was awaiting word from his assistants in Athens. The state department at Washington was awaiting a translation of the proceedings and had not decided whether to attempt a reopening of the case or to make diplomatic representations.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green said the government's investigation of the Insull operations, which is near the stage for presenting evidence, would not be stopped. The treaty with Greece, however, does not provide for extraditing persons accused of misuse of the mails.

The extradition treaty with Canada also fails to recognize this offense. Martin Insull, brother of Samuel, is in Orillia, Ont. However, the state may be able to extradite Martin, who is under indictment on charges of larceny and embezzlement.

FIND NEW WILL OF STUDEBAKER, LOST IN COURT

Discovery Invalidates Earlier Document.

The last will of Clement Studebaker Jr., former president of the North American Light and Power company, which had been mislaid in the Probate court, was found yesterday and admitted to probate by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to the probate judge. In the will, which invalidates an earlier document held on file until yesterday, Mrs. Alice Studebaker, of 1500 Lake Shore drive, the widow, was left most of her husband's $2,000,000 estate. The will was dated Sept. 26, 1931.

To his son, Clement Studebaker III., and his daughter, Mrs. Esther S. Peticolas, 1209 Astor street, Mr. Studebaker bequeathed his jewelry and other personal belongings.

Provisions of Old Will.

In the earlier document, executed July 1, 1929, Mr. Studebaker provided that his personal belongings and a New Hampshire estate should be given to his widow outright, and that she should have half the income from a trust composed of the rest of his property. Under this will the other half of the income was to be divided by the children.

The old will also provided a reversionary interest for Northwestern university, De Pauw university, Illinois Wesleyan university at Bloomington, and Blackburn college at Carlinville, Ill.

Old Will Filed by Mistake.

None of these provisions appears in the newer will. The later and valid document had been sent to the court along with the old will at the time the formal proceedings for admittance to probate were held. At that time a clerk picked up the old will by mistake, stamped it with the proper credentials, and placed it on file.

Yesterday a clerk, while correcting the records of the court, discovered the new will. A comparison of the dates on the two documents disclosed that the last will, which attorneys and the family had supposed to be on file, was never admitted to probate. Mr. Caplan immediately took the proper action to invalidate the earlier will and placed the proper one in the permanent records of the court.

ENDS LIFE IN HOME.

REPORTS DROP IN DONATIONS TO WELFARE FUND

As subscriptions to the Emergency Welfare fund dwindled yesterday, Robert A. Gardner, chairman of the campaign for $7,500,000 for the city's private charities, gave a warning of an increase in calls for assistance for the needy. The total subscriptions to the fund last night were only $4,096,990.

"Passing of the holiday week was expected to give impetus to the campaign," Mr. Gardner said, "but instead the gifts have fallen off.

"Joel D. Hunter, superintendent of the United Charities, one of the major private agencies, has revealed that calls for assistance are increasing at the rate of several hundred a day. This means that, with the public relief funds virtually exhausted, the private agencies will be forced to carry greater loads than ever before."

The women's division yesterday received fourteen pledges ranging from $2.50 to $1,214, bringing their total to about $54,000. The Field Museum of Natural History donated $1,214. John F. Cuneo added $1,000 to pledges of his employés and the Cuneo Press, making a total of $6,000 for the Cuneo unit.

2 DIE, 8 SHOT AS BULGARIANS RIOT AT KING'S PALACE

Macedonia Feud Carried Into Heart of Capital.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Dec. 28.—Civil war in front of the royal palace was witnessed by King Boris III. today.

While Ivan Malinoff, president of the sobranye [national assembly] and head of the Democratic party, was visiting King Boris to discuss the governmental crisis resulting from the resignation of the cabinet at noon, two rival groups of Macedonian organizations started shooting outside. An employé of the ministry of war, who was watching the fight from a window, and a policeman were killed and eight are in hospitals seriously wounded. Among the wounded is Simon Eftimoff, editor of the newspaper Macedonia.

Attackers Disguised as Hunters.

Feuds between rival groups in Bulgaria have cost more than 50 lives this year. Clashes are an almost daily occurrence. When the firing started today the king ordered the royal guards out of the palace and they opened fire on both groups until police arrived.

The casualties might have been greater if a bomb which was thrown had exploded. The attackers wore hunting outfits and led dogs to ward off suspicion. They carried rifles, pistols, and bombs. It is believed the attackers were members of the Protogerovist faction. They first opened fire on Eftimoff and his bodyguard. Today's events began yesterday, when three agrarian members of the cabinet resigned, protesting the refusal of the Democratic members to accept their policies. This noon Premier Nicolas Mouschanoff handed in the resignation of the cabinet.

Fertile Soil for Reds.

Bulgaria is regarded as the most fertile soil of communism outside Russia, but the government did not become alarmed at Red activities until in September, when communists won majorities in most municipal councils of the country. This engendered boldness which threatened the government, though Mouschanoff and King Boris insisted that no Reds would be admitted into the federal cabinet.

A Red revolt began in southern Bulgaria—the Macedonian sector next to the Greek border—in October and is still going on. Occasionally refugees have crossed the Greek border and armed insurgents have been reported as attacking Greek trains.

Rust and storm damage to crops this year have aggravated a political situation which has been touchy since June, 1931. A Democratic cabinet was formed then, but there have been continual internal bickerings over charges of favoritism or laxity on the part of various ministers. There has been a sharp difference of urban and peasant representatives, which nurses grievances extending over a decade, and it has been asserted recently that communism has grasped some of the ministers.

Ziegfeld Home Built for $80,000 Sold for $2,500

QUEBEC, Que., Dec. 28.—(AP)—A summer home built by the late Florenz Ziegfeld for $80,000 was sold at a sheriff's sale today for $2,500. The lodge, on Kit Clark's island, Lake Edward, was occupied summers by the theatrical producer and his wife, Billie Burke. The sale was made to satisfy a claim against the estate. Dr. Downes Brousseau of Quebec was the purchaser.

Two Killed, One Injured as Truck and Auto Collide

Benton Harbor, Mich., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Two men were killed and one was injured tonight in a crash between an auto and a truck in the village of Millburg. The dead are Gust Minikel, 50, and John King, 40, both of Benton Harbor. The injured man is O. W. Horton, 48, South St. Joseph, driver of the truck.

EARTH AND SUN EQUAL IN AGE, LATEST THEORY

Closer to Bible than Former Beliefs.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Reaching out into solar systems beyond the one which includes the earth, delving into secrets by aid of the spectroscope and microscopes, science brought the latest theories for mankind and his world today.

For the Bible student there was more than scientific interest when Prof. Harlow Shapley of Harvard upheld a theory that the sun, moon, earth and other members of this solar system are about the same age. Before a sectional meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, he added that astronomers should increase their search into the other solar systems outside "our own."

Before another group of scientists a New York psychiatrist said man is at his mental best before 25, then beginning to decline. Still another New Yorker described effects of light rays to which he attributed the subtle difference that makes no two human beings exactly alike.

Still Seeking Clews.

"We have no convincing clew yet to the mystery of the origin of the earth and the moon some billions of years ago," Prof. Shapley said, "though we have much observational data. If, as seems likely, the tidal theories fail to account satisfactorily for the origin of the moon and planets I propose that we consider the possibility that the moon, earth, planets and sun are all of the same age, and that they have arisen in a secondary swirl or eddy of the parental spiral nebula, but out of which the local galaxy may be supposed to have generated.

"On this view the moon has not been born from the earth, nor the earth from the sun, but the present members of our solar system are merely survivals of the original heterogeneous population of this particular secondary swirl."

In the opinion of many astronomers, Dr. Shapley said, we are now "practically without any theory of the evolution of the stars. We have a great burden of facts and seasonable explanations of superficial things about the stars, but inside facts are lacking.

Vast Number of Galaxies.

"We don't know how the galaxies came to exist," he said, "but have observations of the general gravitation and radiation behavior of the stars, with actual observations of over 100,000 galaxies, and with an estimate of over a million within our present reach, and we fancy there are hundreds of thousands of millions in the universe. But whether our galaxy is a simple typical system, or a complex system of two, three or more galaxies we cannot tell. We are just at the start of our knowledge of the galaxies as galaxies. But in ten years we may have a clearer picture, thanks to the present rapid accumulation of powerful telescopes.

"There is no indication from a study of the galaxy distribution that our galaxy is of any particular significance, either in stellar or nebular constitution, or in its position within the universe."

Calls Twenty Best Age.

The new idea of man's mental powers was given by Dr. David Wechsler of Bellevue hospital.

"Such evidence as we have clearly shows that by the age of 25 the average man is already on the decline, intellectually as well as physically," said Dr. Wechsler. "There is no doubt in my mind that in a fair test of native intellectual capacity—that is, one in which the benefit of experience could be ruled out—the man of 30 would have as little chance against the man of 20 as the prize fighter of 35 has against one of 25 in the ring.

"The elevation of old men to high places in politics and positions of authority in intellectual fields has been specially detrimental. Most university professors could be retired with profit to science at the age of fifty."

Why People Are Different.

Dr. Dimitri Borodin said he has found rays beyond the shortest ones visible that are responsible for the "mutations" which cause every person to be different in some details from every other. These "mutations" (changes) are caused by alternations in "genes," the determiners of hereditary characteristics for all men, animals, and plants. The rays, he said, are generated by all living bodies and affect the genes. The rays are ultraviolet. He observed them with the spectroscope.

More Light on T. B.

Prof. Morton G. Kahn of Cornell medical college reported he found the tubercule bacillus reproduces itself by dividing into small oval pieces. These turn into granules, which grow into small rodlike objects. These rods then develop to the size and shape of the parent bacillus, and are capable of producing tuberculosis in guinea pigs.

'TECHNOCRACY' FIGHTING WORD FOR SCIENTISTS

Auto Maker Leads Attack on It.

of civilization in any continental area resided in man himself.

"Regardless of the presence of earth's abundant resources, the material advancement of society was held in check by the limitations of means by which these materials could be converted into use forms.

Man's Labor Chief Factor.

"Civilization during this vast period of time was dependent on the energy of man power for the goods and services provided. From the technologists' point of view there was no social change whatever during this vast period of time. These were 6,000 static years."

The dogmas of the technocrats were touched upon by the speaker. He pointed out that in 1932 only ninety man hours of work are required to make a motor car, whereas in 1904 1,300 man hours were necessary. Man's importance as an industrial productive unit manifestly is declining, in Dr. Rautenstrauch's opinion.

The speakers at today's sessions viewed with considerable alarm the social symptoms which they chose to recognize. Even Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, expressed a sense of despair in a paper on the subject of idleness insurance.

"There are cogent reasons," said Dr. Compton, "for believing that, unless our present social organization follows this second course" (a generalized scheme for such assurance), "it not only will become progressively sicker and sicker but actually may be destroyed and replaced by some different social organization which will better cope with the new situations created by modern science and invention.

Raps Traditional Views.

"The situation," Dr. Compton added, "demands farsightedness and willingness, if necessary, to discard those traditions which grew out of the requirements of a social order which has been displaced by a new social order with new problems demanding new treatments."

Dr. Jackson even more vigorously rejected the conclusions of the technocrats.

"Men love shibboleths," said Dr. Jackson. "Now it is the machine age which is to be man's moral and social destruction. A moratorium on inventions is seriously proposed to restrain the monster machine. However, a shibboleth seldom expresses a sound grouping of facts."

The antagonist of technocracy drew the familiar contrast between the material state of man in the preindustrial age and within the present cycle. He scorned the idea that automatic machinery, creating what is known as technological unemployment, is a predominant cause for the current economic distress.

For Cut in Expenses.

Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric company, proposed reduction of governmental expenses for "routine public service," new works of community benefit, and a thirty hour week.

"All we can do about the depression," said Mr. Swope, "so it seems to me, is to have confidence that we shall find a way out by limiting our expenditures for routine public service and by inaugurating new work of use to the community, which can be paid for by its use, and to divide all the work to be done equitably by a limitation, as far as possible, through a maximum of thirty hours per week."

Gillette, the president.

LISTS TOPICS FOR THE WORLD TRADE PARLEY

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Subjects which the United States will propose for discussion at the forthcoming world economic conference at London were revealed today by Norman H. Davis, United States representative on the organizing committee for the conference.

He indicated that this country is, above all things, interested in concerted world action on the question of tariffs, quotas, and other restrictions stifling world trade today.

Mr. Davis believes that there would even have been no need for an economic conference if most, if not all, of the countries of the world had not been pursuing policies adding to the difficulties of the situation confronting the world. It is his opinion that foreign trade is drying up and that something must be done if it is not to stop entirely.

Edmund E. Day and Prof. John H. Williams of Harvard university, American experts, sailed tonight to attend the experts' preparatory meeting, a preliminary of the conference.

TOWNS IN COUNTY CONSIDER JOINT ELECTION SAVING

Two hundred school board and park district trustees and mayors of suburban municipalities in Cook county which now are not under the control of the Chicago board of election commissioners, met with County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer yesterday to discuss the advisability of consolidating all the various elections scheduled for the next six months into the June 5, county-wide judicial election as an economy measure. After a two hour conference those present decided to calculate the exact cost of such a consolidated election and meet again next Wednesday.

Under the suggested plan all the elections in the county would be directed by County Judge Jarecki and his election commissioners.

Several of the county commissioners and County Clerk Sweitzer assured the gathering that the cost sheets for the election would show a saving of several hundred thousand dollars under the present system of holding local elections at several different times.

CLAIMS EARTH'S STRENGTH IS IN ITS THIN CRUST

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 28.—(AP)—The true strength of the earth is confined almost entirely to its comparatively thin crust, Prof. Reginald A. Daly of Harvard, retiring president of the Geological Society of America, told that body here tonight.

"Because more than 97 per cent of the earth is too hot to crystallize, its body is extremely weak," he said. "True strength is almost entirely confined to the crust, which, being so thin, must bend if, over wide areas, it becomes newly loaded with glacial ice, ocean water, or deposits of sand and mud.

"It must bend in the opposite sense if widely extended loads of such material be removed. The theory thus accounts for some of the major reshapings of the planet during its long history," he said.

FIVE DAY WEEK HEARING TO BE HELD IN CAPITAL

Black Bill Will Come Up on Jan. 5.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Serious congressional consideration is to be given the shorter work week as a national policy at hearings by a senate judiciary subcommittee starting Jan. 5.

The bill, which is to be the starting point of the inquiry, is that sponsored by Senator Hugo Black [Dem., Ala.], in which it is sought to prevent interstate commerce in articles produced in industrial activities in which persons are employed more than five days a week or six hours a day.

Senators are dubious concerning the constitutionality of the Black measure which seeks to accomplish by indirection that which congress has no constitutional power to reach directly.

Senator George W. Norris [Rad., Neb.], chairman of the committee, declared, however, in favor of extended hearings, in order that every type of opinion might be expressed.

The members of the subcommittee who will hear the testimony are Senators Norris, Black, Borah [Rad. Rep., Idaho], Walsh [Dem., Mont.], and Robinson [Rep., Ind.].

At an informal discussion among the committee members today it was disclosed that there is a wide divergence of opinion among employers as to the benefits to accrue from the proposal. Communications received by the senators since the measure first was offered in the senate, Dec. 21, were said to have revealed a feeling on the part of some employers that it was a step in the right direction and that it should be fostered as permanent policy.

Other employers were represented by the senators as objecting to the plan as a permanent policy, but as favoring it for emergency purposes. Others are flatly against any such legislation by congress, and they were said to resent it as an unnecessary interference by the congress with the normal activities and practices of business.

MAKES REPORTS ON ATTEMPT TO CURE PARALYSIS

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 28.—(AP)—A daring new experiment with infantile paralysis which is giving a fair amount of immunity to monkeys was reported to the Society of American Bacteriologists today by Maurice Brodie of McGill university, Montreal.

The monkeys are innoculated with the virus of the disease itself, and at the same time with human convalescent serum, the fluid so generally used in recent epidemics as a possible preventive for human beings.

Innoculation with the raw virus, the invisible substance which causes infantile paralysis, should give the monkeys the disease and probably kill them. But when counterbalanced with the serum it gave, Dr. Brodie reports, "considerable immunity."

The treatment has not been tried on human beings.

ROOSEVELT BAR ON A SALES TAX STUMPS PARTY

Congressional Leaders in Quandary.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The congressional radical group was the only one that was jubilant today over Gov. Roosevelt's "horror" at the idea of a sales tax.

Democratic leaders who have looked upon the sales tax as a life preserver in case other means of balancing the budget fail were left floundering helplessly.

More than one member of congress speculated as to whether the attitude of the President elect already presaged a split between the next President and his leaders in congress, with Mr. Roosevelt traveling along the left hand road of so-called "progressivism," with Huey Long and the Rankin-Doughton group in the house.

Garner Back in the Silences.

Speaker Garner, whose budget balancing plans were dropped on the concrete with a thud when the governor turned thumbs down on the sales tax, was back in the speechless condition of preelection days. He reiterated his belief in the necessity of balancing the budget, but beyond that lapsed into generalities.

He asserted any statement concerning a proposed conference between himself and Gov. Roosevelt must come from Albany. He had nothing to say about the sales tax, and when pressed said somewhat vaguely that the coming ways and means committee study of the tax situation should include "all revenue plans."

One of these plans, it developed, will be the McKeown bill to place a 1 per cent tax on the manufacture, distribution, and retailing of all articles in interstate commerce. At the last session the plan was tossed out as one of the many pieces of "nut" legislation introduced at every session.

Rankin Pleased by Stand.

Among the radicals who welcomed Gov. Roosevelt's rejection of a sales tax were Representative J. E. Rankin [Dem., Miss.], who was one of those who wrecked the tax at the last session. Another was Senator C. C. Dill [Dem., Wash.].

Representative Rankin said it would have been "betrayal of the American people" had this congress passed a sales tax. Senator Dill leaped to the fore with pledges of economy which might even result in cutting taxes.

He did not explain however how economy was to be achieved and at the same time congress was to adopt the program advocated by the left wing radical group for a three billion dollar public works appropriation and one billion dollars for unemployment relief.

Republican gadflies were inspired by the evidence of so early a dissension in the Democratic ranks. Representative Fred A. Britten of Chicago characterized Gov. Roosevelt's opposition to a sales tax as "the first great disappointment of the American people over the election of a Democratic President." He taunted the governor with having offended W. R. Hearst, "his creator," who has long advocated a sales tax. And he stung Speaker Garner with the remark that "the crack of the whip has been heard, if not felt."

Representative Allen T. Treadway, [Rep., Mass.], said the Democrats were already "marching up the hill and marching down again."

Beer Sole Hope of Budget.

With the sales tax out, the means of balancing the budget in 1934 are narrowed down to passage of the beer bill, which is counted on to produce a minimum of 150 millions, and reenactment of the one cent gasoline tax, to produce 137 millions.

These two taxes are all that is in sight to fill up a gap which at its smallest the treasury estimates at 307 millions. And this 307 million deficit presupposes that expenditures will be cut 480 millions below this year's and that payments on the foreign debts totaling 329 millions will be received.

U. S. Refunds 80 Millions to Taxpayers in Last Year

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—More than eighty million dollars in actual cash, representing erroneously collected taxes, was returned to taxpayers by the government during the year 1932, according to figures made public today by the bureau of internal revenue.

The total of $80,583,504 represented an increase of more than ten millions over the amount refunded in the previous year. It was lower by 46 millions, however, than the total returned in the fiscal year 1930. Refunds in 1931 amounted to $69,476,930, while in 1930 they totaled $126,636,833.

In addition to the cash refunds, a total of $127,981,053 was credited or abated to tax payers' accounts during the year, bringing the amount involved in recognized overassessment of taxes to $208,565,557.

Bulk Income Taxes.

Of the total refunded in cash, $72,112,874 represented illegally collected income taxes, according to the bureau. Estate tax refunds were the second largest, totaling $7,164,611, with refunds of other miscellaneous taxes following in comparatively small amounts.

The eighty million dollars repaid to taxpayers because it had been collected from them through error served to bring still lower the year's aggregate internal revenue receipts, which already showed a decline of more than 870 million dollars from the previous year. Deducting the cash refunds from gross refund collections, the net collections for the fiscal year 1932, according to the report, would amount to $1,477,145,538.

The largest single refund during the year was one of $2,960,297 to the United Fruit company of Boston, Mass. Only four other corporations received refunds in excess of a million dollars. They were the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company of Wilkesbarre, Pa., $2,189,133; National Aniline and Chemical company of New York, $1,455,693; the Reading company, Philadelphia, $1,288,129, and the United States Cartridge company of New York, $1,221,096.

Fair Trust Gets $949,909.

The largest single refund in Illinois during the year went to the Fair Stock Trust of Chicago in the amount of $949,909. Second largest in the state was a refund of $284,295 to the Marine Securities company of Evanston.

Several well known Chicagoans were listed among those receiving refunds. Rufus C. Dawes, brother of former Vice President and Ambassador Charles G. Dawes and chairman of A Century of Progress commission, received a refund of $1,353.

Potter Palmer and Honoré Palmer, both members of the prominent Chicago family, received $1,433 and $3,925, respectively. Melville Rothschild was granted $1,685, while Fred D. Sadler received $3,339. The Chicago White Sox got a refund of $3,063.

Andrew W. Mellon, former secretary of the treasury and now ambassador to Great Britain, received a refund this year of only $7,869, as compared with the $89,000 he received last year.

Caruso's Estate Gets $664.

The estate of Enrico Caruso, late tenor of the Metropolitan Opera company, received a refund of $664. Caruso's daughter, Dorothy Caruso, received $37,098. Rosa Ponselle, opera star, was returned $1,001, while Alma Gluck, another famous singer, was given $2,439. Effrem Zimbalist, famous violinist, received a refund of $2,133.

Anne Morrow Lindbergh, wife of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and daughter of the late Senator Dwight Morrow of New Jersey, received a refund of $1,243, while her sister, Miss Constance Morrow, was returned $1,668 and her mother, widow of the senator, received $1,904. Dwight Morrow Jr. was returned $1,665, while Miss Elizabeth R. Morrow, another sister of Mrs. Lindbergh, received $876.

Several members of the Hollywood movie colony received refunds. Douglas Fairbanks got $72,186, Conrad Nagel received $4,398, Ramon Navarro received $7,604, William C. De Mille, well known motion picture producer, was given $2,345.

Refunds Over $5,000 Listed.

Refunds over $5,000 to corporations and individuals in Illinois were as follows:

Abbott Laboratories, North Chicago, $5,492.
Addressograph Co., Chicago, $6,736.
American Bond and Mortgage Co., Chicago, $26,979.

3 CHICAGO CLUBS ARE GRANTED TAX REFUNDS BY U. S.

Three Chicago clubs, the City club, Sky Line club, and the Cordon, were among those organizations and individuals granted tax refunds in the fiscal year 1932, as announced yesterday by the bureau of internal revenue.

The club refunds were all granted on similar grounds, on payments of taxes which the government imposes on club memberships and dues. Arnold Baar, president of the City club, explained that this tax is intended to apply only to clubs which are primarily social in purpose, and that the City club obtained a $49,038 refund by estbalishing that it is a civic organization. The Cordon club received a refund of $6,572, and the Sky Line club, $7,674. A number of other Chicago luncheon and business clubs are understood to have obtained refunds since June 30, the end of the federal fiscal year.

The largest refund in the Chicago tax collection district was $949,909 to the Fair stock trust. This trust fund is part of the assets of the Lehmann estate, former owner of the Fair department store. Attorney Herbert Pope, counsel for the estate, said that the refund was on income taxes paid by the trust fund in 1917 and 1918, and in litigation until about 18 months ago, when the case was settled and the refund paid to the estate.

Internal revenue officials had assessed the incomes of the trust as a lump sum, which made it liable under the higher surtax brackets. The estate established that the tax should have been collected from the beneficiaries of the trust fund, at lower rates.

Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee Railroad Co., Chicago, $181,389.
Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad Co., Chicago, $156,890.

COLDS ARE NOW REACHING OUT FOR VICTIMS!

Be Wise—Be Careful—Adopt This Simple Precautionary Measure!

Colds are increasing. In some sections Influenza is breaking out. Don't be alarmed, but don't be careless.

A cold is much easier avoided than cured! Do the sensible thing and adopt the ounce of prevention policy. Stay out of crowds as much as you can. Avoid coughers and sneezers. Dress warmly, keep your feet dry and sleep in a well-ventilated room.

Every morning and night take a tablet or two of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. This will keep your bowels open and combat infection by cold germs.

Millions know Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine as an excellent cold remedy, but not enough know it as an equally excellent preventive. Learn its efficacy and keep a package handy all winter long as your "safety first" measure.

If you have already caught cold there is nothing better you can take than Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. It doesn't merely suppress the cold—it drives it completely out of the system. At the same time, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

For more than forty years Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Now in two sizes—30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and look for the initials L B Q stamped on every tablet. Reliable dealers will not try to sell you a substitute.

The first "Thompson's" restaurant set a new mark in quality of foods at its scale of prices. The latest "Thompson's" restaurant became one of a group of 116 which have progressed to standards possible, at their prices, only to an organization which purchases and sells many millions of dollars' worth of foods annually. Managers of "Thompson's" restaurants know that this announcement means exactly what it says and that "Thompson's" supremacy in quality must be maintained at any cost.

GUN BUTT BEER SALES METHODS TOLD TO JURORS

Court Guarded as Joyce Accuses Quirk.

The gun-butt salesmanship of Martin [Sonny Boy] Quirk, south side beer peddler, was described to a jury before Municipal Judge Robert J. Dunne yesterday by Patrick Joyce, restaurant keeper and former speakeasy owner, who accused Quirk of slugging him and closing his restaurant when he refused to buy beer.

Before Joyce took the witness stand two other prosecution witnesses, who appeared uneasy as they testified, had been accused by Prosecutor Charles Dougherty of retracting identifications which they had previously made of Quirk.

Joyce Under Police Guard.

Although the charge on which Quirk is being tried—assault with a deadly weapon—is a misdemeanor, tried dozens of times a day in Chicago courts, the jurors are kept locked up as in a murder case. Extra bailiffs are on duty in the courtroom. Joyce is escorted from and to his home daily by a detective bureau squad.

When newspaper photographers asked Joyce to pose yesterday, Capt. Michael Hughes of the Woodlawn police, who gathered the evidence in the case, interceded for him.

"I know how you boys feel about it," said Capt. Hughes, "but please lay off Joyce. He's doing a fine job by coming out in court and accusing hoodlums of something which we know goes on every day, but which we have never been able to get witnesses to testify to. He's on the spot right now and as soon as police stop guarding him he will be in danger of being shot or beaten up."

Dougherty Opens for State.

Selection of the jury was completed in the morning session of court. Prosecutor Dougherty began the afternoon session with his opening statement. He told the jury that prosecution witnesses would testify that Joyce formerly operated a speakeasy and bought beer and alcohol from Quirk, but that when he opened a restaurant at 6440 Cottage Grove avenue a month ago he told Quirk that he was going to run a legitimate business and would buy no more beer. Quirk and some of his followers invaded the restaurant on Dec. 9, slugged Joyce, and made him lock up the place, the prosecutor said.

"Joyce is a reformed bootlegger," asserted Attorney George Crane in his opening statement on behalf of Quirk. "The restaurant which they say was legitimate was a dive where any one of the elements of an orgy could be found—beer, gin, and women for sale. Joyce had welched on bets. Any one of fifty men had a motive for the attack which Quirk is charged with making on him. Quirk was ten miles away on the night of the assault."

Joyce Tells His Story.

Joyce is slight and of medium height, with black hair. He chewed gum nervously as he testified. He ran a restaurant for ten years, until he went broke, he testified. For a short time he ran a speakeasy at 6308 University avenue, he said, and then he bought a half interest in another speakeasy at 455 East 63d street, with a partner whom he identified only as "Big Jeff."

He first met Quirk at that place, he said, when Quirk called and demanded that he pay for alcohol which had been delivered to the former owner of the place. Quirk called at the speakeasy several other times to collect for beer or alcohol, and Joyce had some minor disputes with him over bills, Joyce testified.

"Wanted to Quit Beer."

"I didn't see Quirk from the time I moved into the restaurant on Cottage Grove avenue until the night of the assault," said Joyce. "I didn't want to handle any more beer—wanted to get out of the business. About 5 p. m. that day I had a telephone conversation with Quirk. He wanted me to buy a barrel of beer. I told him half a barrel was all I could handle.

"Quirk said, 'I don't think I can get you a half barrel.' I said, 'That's O. K. I'm going to stop taking beer anyway.' He said he was coming over and break my place up and close it. Later he came in with three other men while two customers were in the place. Quirk said: 'Why did you sass me and my clerk over the phone? Come back in the kitchen. I want to talk to you.'

"I told him I couldn't leave my customers and he said, 'Who are they, cops?' Before I could answer he pulled a gun and went over to their table. The men said they were insurance men.

Tells of the Slugging.

"Then Quirk turned to me and slugged me across the forehead and nose with his gun, knocking off my glasses and knocking me down. Then he hit me behind the ear with the gun barrel and that kind of knocked me out. The next thing that I remember, I was pulling myself up from the floor by the legs of a table. I saw that Fred Farley [one of Quirk's assistants] was back in the kitchen looking around to see if I was taking beer from some one else. Quirk was back there, too. He took a kick at the cooling coil and said, 'I ought to make you break that up yourself.'

"Then Farley pulled a bottle out of the icebox and Quirk said: 'Now, damn you, I've got you. You've been buying bottled beer.' I told him it was near beer. He made me walk back into the restaurant and then he backed off a little bit and said, 'I'd get the damnedest kick out of shooting you.'"

Place Is Locked Up.

"What did you say then?" asked Prosecutor Dougherty.

"I couldn't say anything," said Joyce. "I paid Quirk $15 I owed him on half a barrel of beer and then he told me to get my coat and hat, that I was through. He made everybody leave, including the two customers. I locked the door myself and Quirk said: 'When you get ready to open up come and see us and we'll see about it.'"

The Fred Farley to whom Joyce referred is 35 years old and lives at 4219 South Halsted street. He was arrested with Quirk after the alleged slugging and charged with assault with a deadly weapon, but was granted a separate trial.

Insurance Men Testify.

The insurance men who were in the restaurant when Quirk is charged with invading it were Thomas F. Griffin, 7018 Carpenter street, and Thomas Cox, 6600 Greenwood avenue. They were the first witnesses.

They said they had dinner and three highballs apiece at the restaurant on the night in question. They saw two men enter, they testified, heard the name "Marty" mentioned, saw a gun displayed and saw blood later on Joyce's face, but said they saw no blows struck.

On cross-examination Attorney James M. Burke of defense counsel had Quirk and Farley stand up before the witnesses. Neither would identify the pair as the men they saw in the restaurant. On redirect examination, Prosecutor Dougherty asked Cox about seeing Quirk at a previous hearing in the Felony court.

"That was the first time I ever saw him," asserted Cox.

Dougherty objected to the statement and became involved in a long argument with Attorney Burke. In its course he told Judge Dunne:

"This witness has taken the state absolutely by surprise. We don't want to be bound by the testimony of a witness who says one thing at one time and another thing another time."

Attorney Burke objected to that statement and was sustained.

"Did you ever tell any one in authority that Quirk was not the man you saw in the restaurant?" Dougherty then asked Cox.

"No, I said there was a resemblance," said Cox, nervously. The trial will continue today.

BANK RECEIVER'S ARREST ORDERED; SHORTAGE FOUND

Accuse Emil Wentzlaff of $9,029 Embezzlement.

Municipal Judge Frank M. Padden issued a warrant yesterday in the Felony court charging Emil Wentzlaff, politician and former city hall pay roller, with embezzlement after he had been told that Wentzlaff had embezzled $9,029 of the assets of the closed Boulevard State Savings bank, of which he was formerly receiver.

Wentzlaff was covered by a $300,000 surety bond and the depositors in the bank will thus suffer no loss. The warrant yesterday was obtained by the Continental Casualty company, which bonded him. Robert J. Murphy, an auditor employed by State Auditor Nelson, testified that he made an audit of Wentzlaff's books in October and discovered the shortage.

Audit Brings Removal.

Wentzlaff was removed as receiver of the bank on Oct. 25, the day that the audit was completed. He had been appointed to the post by Auditor Nelson shortly after the bank closed on April 16, 1931. Murphy was sent to examine the receiver's accounts after Wentzlaff reported that he had about $8,000 in cash on hand. At Auditor Nelson's office it was explained that receivers are instructed to keep only a few hundred dollars in closed banks as a petty cash fund and to place the collections they make in a downtown bank where they will draw interest. Wentzlaff's report of cash on hand thus caused the authorities to act.

Wentzlaff, whose home is at 3817 North Lawndale avenue, has been active in politics for several decades. He was for a long time assistant secretary of the county Republican committee. Later he was in charge of the headquarters of a former Republican mayor at the Hotel Sherman at the same time that he was on the pay roll of the board of local improvements.

Depositors Demand Removal.

His removal as receiver of the Boulevard State Savings bank, which is at 3621 Irving Park boulevard, was demanded nearly eighteen months ago by an association of depositors in the bank. The association charged that Wentzlaff was an interested person because his wife was a depositor, and that he was extravagant in administering the bank affairs, having a dozen employés in his office when Auditor Nelson had told depositors four persons could do the work.

At Auditor Nelson's office it was said yesterday that an investigation at that time showed the extra employés complained of were law students who had asked and received permission from Wentzlaff to familiarize themselves with the procedure in liquidating a bank, and who were receiving no pay.

One reason why the complaint against Wentlaff was dismissed, Auditor Nelson's employés said, was that the charges were made by a depositors' association which made a practice of collecting fees from depositors. Nelson has refused to have any dealings with such organizations.

The receivership of the bank was consolidated with that of the Lincoln Trust and Savings bank after Wentzlaff's removal. The warrant for his arrest was sent to the detective bureau last night for service.

GIVE MRS. JUDD CHANCE TO TALK TO GRAND JURY

Story of Trank Slayer Not Revealed.

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Winnie Ruth Judd, condemned to die Feb. 17 as the slayer of her friend, Agnes Anne Lerol, appeared before the Maricopa county grand jury today, completed her story, and immediately started a 87 mile trip by motor car back to the Arizona state prison at Florence.

Mrs. Judd repeatedly has said the "whole truth" never had been told. Today she was given a chance to talk behind closed doors. What she related, if anything, in connection with the "trunk murders" of Mrs. Lerol and Hedvig Samuelson remained a secret.

Action a Surprise.

While Mrs. Judd's unexpected appearance before the inquisitorial body followed recently renewed threats of both herself and her husband, Dr. William C. Judd, to "tell all," the initiative in today's move was taken by the grand jury itself. Mrs. Judd was brought here from the state prison at Florence in response to a subpoena. Officials said she was not informed of the purpose of the trip until she was well on her way to Phoenix.

For an hour and a half she remained in the grand jury room. Occasionally her strident voice was heard beyond the heavy oak doors in the courthouse corridors, although the words were unintelligible.

Cheerful After Ordeal.

At the midday recess she appeared smiling, surrounded by her guards.

The grand jury is not able to take any action which would aid or otherwise affect Mrs. Judd's attempts to escape hanging, except indirectly, through the board of pardons and paroles. Only the Supreme court or the board of pardons and parole has the power to halt execution of sentence.

JAPS EYE CHINA'S AIR SCHOOL WITH YANK TEACHERS

Doubt It Is Only Move to Train Civilians.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 28.—Japanese military observers here as well as Japanese newspapers both here and in Japan have begun to pay close attention to the work of the so-called Chinese Aviation institute, conducted by experienced American aviators at Hangchow, 100 miles southwest of Shanghai. Col. John H. Jouett, late of the United States air service, and some 15 assistants constitute the faculty. China established the school shortly following the complications at Shanghai last spring, announcing that the government had decided to instruct young Chinese in civilian flying. It has been reported that the venture has been so successful that several more Americans are to be given employment.

Details Kept Secret.

The number of Chinese students employed, the number and type of machines used, and other matters are kept secret by Chinese authorities.

But Japanese military observers are most sarcastic regarding Chinese assertions that the institute is devoted to teaching civilian flying. An Osaka newspaper recently printed an item stating "a Dollar line steamer quite recently entered a certain port on the Yangtze with twenty odd bombing planes and large quantities of new weapons on board. About the same time twenty American air officers arrived and left for Hangchow. These officers will be charged with the same duties by the Chinese government as Robert Short, the unfortunate American airman who was killed Feb. 22 at Soochow during the Sino-Japanese hostilities."

Japanese also note that Chinese military officers frequently visit Hangchow and upon these occasions there are reports of unusual aviation activities in the vicinity.

SMOKING ROOM BOYS 'FRAME' ON G. B. SHAW; HAVE TOUGH LUCK

SUEZ, Egypt, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The smoking room stewards of the liner Empress of Britain, who were all set up about a little scheme for a lively and profitable traffic in George Bernard Shaw autographs, are downcast.

When Shaw boarded the vessel for a world cruise he averred he would not comply with a single request for an autograph. The stewards thought they would be able to get around that easily. In the lounge of the ship you can't pay for your drinks; you sign a stub. They figured they would save the stubs and cash in on them with autograph seekers.

By the time the ship reached Suez they had learned something about Shaw they didn't know before. He is a teetotaler, hence, no signed stubs. And no profits.

Vatican Receives Indiana Papers for Ratification

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The congregation of rites today received the paper of diocesan proceedings at Evansville, Ind., for beatification of the venerable Maria Maddalena Bentivoglio, founder of the Poor Claire Sisters in the United States. She was born in Rome in 1834, the daughter of a general in the Neapolitan army, who later became governor of Rome.

2 HURT, 50 SHAKEN AS CANDY TRUCK HITS STREET CAR

Two men were injured and 50 other persons shaken up yesterday when a truck loaded with two tons of candy collided with a crowded street car in front of 3956 Wentworth avenue. The injured, both passengers on the street car, are Clemons Reiter, 38 years old, 1830 South Peoria street, and Charles Whitely, 38 years old, 316 West 73d street. Each suffered a broken leg.

The truck, owned by the Brown Motor Freight company of Kalamazoo, Mich., was driven by John Jacobs, 36 years old, of Kalamazoo. He told police another truck drove out of an alley suddenly, causing him to strike the street car.

George Harris, 21 years old, 3145 Carlisle place, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bond of $1,000 by Judge Frank M. Padden on a charge of manslaughter. John Lakowski, 42 years old, 2620 West 24th place, was killed on Oct. 14 by an automobile driven by Harris. Police testified the brakes on Harris' car were faulty.

No deaths due to automobile accidents in Cook county were reported yesterday, the toll since Jan. 1 remaining at 1,102.

Michael Saplora, 46 years old, 1968 Delaware street, Gary, was killed last night when he was struck by an automobile driven by L. J. Sargent, 432 Washington street, Gary. The accident occurred in 21st avenue near the eastern city limits of Gary.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough
Saves $2. So Easy! No Cooking!

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough. It's no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle, yet it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water for a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a pint bottle, and fill up with your sugar syrup. The pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is the most effective remedy that money can buy. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and clears the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, famous as a healing agent for throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

PUSH U. S. LOAN FOR WEST SIDE ELEVATED ROAD

Small Toll Would Meet Requirements.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—David Hunter, state representative from Rockford and chairman of the Illinois road commission, this afternoon indorsed the proposed construction of an elevated highway through Chicago's west side. He was interviewed by E. A. Keplar, secretary of the Fox Valley federation, which speaks for the group of cities on the river's bank forty miles west of the loop.

"These cities," said Mr. Keplar, "are now barricaded from Chicago by the congested and hazardous condition of the streets within the metropolis. Our future growth and prosperity depend to a considerable extent upon the removal of this barricade with the construction of an elevated highway.

Suggests R. F. C. Loan.

"If the the state lacks the funds to build the improvement, Lester Norris, president of the federation, directed me to urge that Illinois request a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to cover all or part of the cost. Mr. Norris is ill with the flu or he would be here to talk for himself.

"To meet the requirement of the finance corporation, a toll would have to be charged to liquidate the federal loan. But trucks, buses, and private cars would be glad to pay a toll for a fast and safe passage through Chicago's west side with savings in time and operation costs greater than the fee."

"The Fox valley is not alone in this need for the elevated highway," Representative Hunter replied. "It is desired by all of northern Illinois. In my district, Rockford, commercial and industrial interests would benefit through the improved motor transportation facilities with Chicago. The farmers would benefit by being brought closer to the big market for their products.

Talks as State Representative.

"I'm not at liberty to talk as chairman of the road commission, but I can talk as a state representative. In the legislature next month I'll support any measure to get government money for the superhighway.

"The commission's report will not mention the elevated highway nor any other specific project, but it will recommend measures that will make it possible for the new administration to construct the improvement if it sees fit."

The commission, created by the 1931 legislature to draft a new policy and program for future road work in Illinois, completed its task in a final session here today.

Its report will not be made public until it is submitted to the 1933 general assembly in a few weeks, but it is known that commissioners favored measures friendly to municipal projects, such as the removal of restrictions on city work with state road funds and a change of policy authorizing the state highway department to acquire its own rights of way.

Put Cost at 16 Millions.

The Chicago plan commission has estimated that the cost of the elevated highway from the loop to the city limits at $16,000,000, which is $6,000,000 less than its estimate during the high prices of the recent boom. Another $10,000,000 could carry the superhighway, not elevated all of the way, but with continuous grade separation to its logical western terminus, Mannheim road, affording convenient connections with the fan of arterial highways that radiate from Chicago serving all northern Illinois.

The Chicago Motor club has estimated that a 10 cent toll for passenger cars and a heavier toll for trucks and buses would meet the requirement that Reconstruction Finance corporation loans be for projects "self-liquidating." Proponents of the plan point out that much more than the $26,000,000 for an elevated highway has been poured into California by the government with much less security. Illinois pays a considerable federal tax, and a highway loan offers a chance to get some of this government money into this state.

Trio Forced to Curb and Robbed of Cash, Gems

William Johnson of 5345 Harper avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Lipschultz of 4110 Jackson boulevard were held up this morning by four bandits at 54th street and Harper avenue. Lipschultz and Johnson are partners in a loop cigar store. The Lipschultzes were driving Johnson home at the time. From Johnson the robbers took $250. From Lipschultz they got $90 and a $125 ring, and from his wife a $500 fur coat and three rings worth $150.

AUTO TRANSPORT GROUP TO FIGHT TAX INCREASES

Organize for Defense in Meeting Here.

Representatives of some fifty trade groups whose businesses depend upon motor freight and passenger service yesterday organized the Illinois highway users' conference at a meeting in the Stevens hotel. The announced purpose of the conference is to foster "equitable policies of taxation of highway users."

Chester G. Moore, director of the conference, declared that the railroads of the country are fighting openly to put the commercial users of highways out of business and quoted statements of railway executives favoring increased taxation of such users.

"The railroads," he said, "are continually crying about oppressive taxes. Last year the total taxes paid by all the railroads amounted to only $304,000,000, while the motorists of the country paid a total of $1,100,000,000 in special taxation."

The conference adopted resolutions as follows: Favoring the principles of the National Highway Users' conference; condemning "the practice of pyramiding taxation on the motor vehicle owners of the nation"; opposing further "exploitation of the motor vehicle owners by increased taxes of any kind"; opposing diversion of gasoline taxes for any purpose other than highway construction and maintenance; economies in government that will relieve the burden of taxation already carried by highway users.

BOY TAKES $1,640 FROM HOME; PALS IN SPENDING ORGY

The great financial orgy of Keith street is over and Johnny Ragen, 15 years old, and several other boys of the neighborhood are in technical custody as a result.

Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ragen of 730 Keith street, parents of Johnny, notified North Racine avenue police that their savings of $1,340 had disappeared from a hiding place in their home. They suspected their boy, they said. Detectives Leo Schoelz and Grover Crabtree were assigned.

Soon they came upon Mike Chlopeck, 18 years old, of 724 Keith street, clad in new clothes, including spats. He told of earning big money, but later admitted Johnny Ragen had given him $600. With his $600 he had bought an automobile for $265, paid six months' garage rent in advance, paid $30 for accessories, and had purchased clothes and $49 worth of personal jewelry. He was held. Johnny was next found.

He admitted taking the money, but had only $70 left. He said he gave $100 each to John and Stanley Menarcik, brothers, 18 and 15 years old respectively, of 725 Keith street. One hundred dollars was recovered from John. They were held.

SIX ARE SENTENCED IN STOLEN MONEY ORDER CONSPIRACY

Five men and a woman, convicted of conspiracy to pass $47,500 worth of money orders from the American Express company, were sentenced yesterday by Judge Michael Feinberg in the Criminal court.

The leader, Edward Cherry, 28 years old, owner of a speakeasy at 4009 North Laramie avenue, was found guilty by a jury yesterday and sentenced to one to five years in the penitentiary.

The other members of the gang, who had pleaded guilty or had been tried and found guilty, were sentenced as follows: Dave Smith, 37, of 1827 North Winchester avenue, 90 days; Harry Hoppe, 37, of 3854 North Paulina street, 1 year in the House of Correction; Mrs. Charlotte Wood, 35, of 4009 North Laramie avenue, 90 days in jail; Rocco La Presto, 27, of 626 North Kedzie avenue, 1 year in jail and $200 fine, and Charles Merrill, 29, of 4103 North Kenneth avenue, 6 months and $1 fine.

Prosecutors Harry Ditchburne and Thomas Johnson charged the plot grew out of the robbery of Robert Kebben, a collector for the express company, in the Romans pharmacy at 5359 Irving Park boulevard on Sept. 9. The money orders and $657 were taken.

Evidence also showed that Cherry gave Merrill, a porter in the drug store, $20 for information concerning the messenger.

The men who committed the robbery never were apprehended. Authorities also are seeking the balance of the money order blanks, which would have a total face value of $47,000 if filled out for the maximum amounts specified in the margins.

WATCHMAN AND 3 AIDS CONFESS ROBBING STORE

Four men, one of them a former private watchman, were captured yesterday after a five mile automobile chase by police and confessed the robbery of Lawrence Ronning, operator of a novelty store at 3070 Elston avenue. The loot, a quantity of old coins, stamps, $60, and a revolver, was found in the car.

The prisoners are Martin Raymond, 32 years old, a former watchman in the neighborhood of the store; Edward Harrison, 32 years old, and John Collins, 22 years old, all of 906 East 62d street, and William Regan, 26 years old, 5507 South Bishop street. The car in which they were riding was stolen Nov. 25 from Robert Walinda, 4850 Justine street.

Flu Spreads Over England; 30 Deaths in Birmingham

LONDON, Dec. 29 [Thursday].—(AP)—Influenza, generally of a mild type, was widespread over England today. Birmingham, the most seriously affected, has had 30 deaths in the last week, and 100 policemen, 300 postmen, and 600 transport workers were incapacitated there.

URGES AN EARLY ETHICS TRAINING OF LAW STUDENT

Work with Older Men Is Called Best Way.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Professional ethics can best be absorbed by the law student by the old fashioned method of working in a law office and getting in contact with practicing lawyers, R. Allan Stephens of Springfield, secretary of the Illinois State Bar association, declared yesterday.

Speaking upon the topic of raising the standards of the legal profession before the Association of American Law Schools at the Stevens hotel, he described the activities of his organization in getting hold of prospective law students while still in high school and keeping them in touch with lawyer advisers right up to the time they have been admitted to the bar.

"Few believe," said Mr. Stephens, "that merely to acquaint law students with the canons of legal ethics will arouse in them a sense of public responsibility. I agree with Dean Young B. Smith of Columbia university school of law who said recently that 'the law schools would render a greater service to the profession and the community if they encouraged their students to study the organization and activities of the profession.'

Try to Help Law Schools.

"In Illinois we are trying to help the law schools do that very thing.

"Our committee on legal education writes every high school inquiring what students are thinking of becoming lawyers. Then our association gets them in touch with lawyers in the community, who advise them in their pre-legal studies. When they enter law school they are entitled to become junior members of the Bar association. In the summer months we assist many to get into law offices, without salary, and the great aim is to inculcate professional ethics and the social responsibilities of the lawyer to the community."

Others who read papers on the standards of the legal profession were Elliott E. Cheatham of Columbia university and Philip J. Wickser, secretary of the New York board of law examiners.

Increase of Lawyers Shown.

A great increase in the proportion of lawyers to the population in the decade 1920 to 1930 was the subject of comment. The 1930 census gives 160,600 lawyers in the United States, as against 122,500 in 1920. Where the population increased 16 per cent in the ten years the number of lawyers grew 31 per cent.

Recent figures submitted by James G. Rogers, dean of the University of Colorado College of Law, are that in 1932 there are about 170,000 practicing lawyers.

The Rogers analysis, made in October, showed that the increase was mostly in the larger cities. Comparing other professions, the increase in physicians and clergymen was slight in the ten year period, while the increase in dentists and engineers was larger than that of the lawyers.

The Cultural Background.

The question of what cultural background the prospective law student should take from college to the law school held the stage as one of the most interesting topics. Supplementing the comment of Prof. Zechariah Chafee Jr., of Harvard law school, that half the college graduates in his law class rooms are ignorant on history, science and literature and have not read "Pickwick Papers or "Romeo and Juliet," a statement from Prof. Karl N. Llewellyn of Columbia University School of Law, was given in the report of the committee on curriculum.

"What I want a student to bring to law school from college," said Prof. Llewellyn, "has more to do with results than with subject matter: ability to read, write, use a library, evaluate opinion and evidence, size up opinion. There is little use trying to prescribe subject matter for acquisition of such skills and interest. It is a matter of temperament and teaching."

Asks Legislative Planners.

Establishment of a permanent governmental body to plan legislation for presentation to legislatures was advocated by Dean Albert J. Harno of the University of Illinois college of law, president of the association. He said his plan would entail the appointment by the governor of a group of five to seven persons.

The University of Mississippi law school was readmitted to membership. It was dropped in 1930 on charges that it was bring run for political purposes.

McGill University Drops Out.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 28.—(AP)—New membership conditions have forced the resignation of McGill university from the Association of American Law Schools, Sir Arthur Currie, principal of McGill, said today. All members of the association must have four full time professors, according to the new regulation, said Sir Arthur, and McGill has only three such professors. The remainder of the legal staff is made up of part time professors who are practicing lawyers or judges.

73 New Prosecutors Get Advice from Veteran State's Attorneys

Newly inaugurated state's attorneys of Illinois were told how to meet their problems by veteran prosecutors at the 36th annual convention of the Illinois State's Attorneys' association in the Palmer house yesterday. There are 73 new prosecutors in the state's 102 counties.

In his annual message State's Attorney Wirt Herrick of De Witt county, president of the association, declared the new men should take the lead in helping counties out of financial difficulties.

Finances Add to Tasks.

"I do not find that changes in the economic conditions of the country have changed the peoples' morals greatly," he said. "Crimes have not increased in number. But the duty of aiding in financial problems has increased the work of prosecutors in the last few years."

State's Attorney Chauncey W. Reed of Du Page county drew from his experience to warn the new prosecutors of possible errors in procedure before grand juries and in drawing up indictments and informations. He advised judicious use of striking indictments with leave to reinstate and of nolle prosses.

"One problem which faced old timers, which fortunately will not be with you, is prohibition," State's Attorney Reed said. "We came in for much criticism from fanatical groups in dismissing informations. In more than one case I drew up an information at the request of a responsible person, who claimed to have 'an open and shut case.'

Drys Oppose Dismissals.

"On investigation I would find there was no case. And when I came into court to dismiss the information a throng of prohibition supporters would be in the courtroom to express, through their numbers, disapproval of my action. After several instances of this kind I adopted the policy of seeking grand jury indictments rather than acting on informations."

State's Attorney Ben Townsend of Wabash county urged the new prosecutors to make thorough investigations before granting probation. Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court instructed the new men on presentation of their cases in court.

In behalf of the newly elected prosecutors a message was read before the convention from State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, who said he is fulfilling his campaign promise to "clean up the county." Other new prosecutors are doing the same work, the message said.

Justice Speedier Here.

Chief Justice John J. Prystalski of the Cook County Criminal court, at the annual dinner last night at the Palmer house, said it is now possible to get a criminal case to trial here in two or three weeks and that justice is speedier than at any time in recent years.

Justice Prystalski added that "many lawyers take advantage of the Supreme court decision which gives them thirty days to prepare a murder case, which means to collect their fees."

"There is less crime today than a year ago, and much less than three years ago," he said.

GERMAN SCHEME TO TRADE TAXES FOR JOBS FAILS

Only Small Amount of Work Is Created.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 28.—"Tax defrauding certificates!" is the uncomplimentary title flung by the chief theorist of the National Socialist movement, Gottfried Feder, at the chief element of the business revival plan sponsored by Chancellor Kurt von Schleicher's cabinet. But in the Nazi governed state of Oldenburg these same "defrauding certificates" have been copied, it is revealed.

"Tax rebate certificates" was what the government of Germany chose to call the small colored forms which are to acquire value in the years 1934-'35. With these lures—$96 worth for each new worker put on the pay roll, or each old worker reëmployed—business men and factory owners were to be persuaded to increase the number of names on their pay rolls. Thus, incidentally, German governments—communal as well as federal—were to be relieved of part of the costs of support of the idle.

Tax Returns Mortgaged.

The reich had no extra cash with which to reward the business men, but it could mortgage its future tax returns—and this it did, by "paying" in the certificates, which could be used to pay taxes due during the coming four years.

Former Chancellor von Papen was indiscreet enough to intimate when he broached his business revival scheme last fall, that in this way 1,750,000 idle would be absorbed into productice work. Actually the program did not work out that way. The usual seasonal increase in the total of idle set in long ago, though it is true, at a slower rate than during the corresponding period of 1931.

German labor unions have issued figures collected by their branches all over the nation to show that less than 50,000 new workers were taken on. Instead of the $168,000,000 which was set aside for distribution, the government has found itself able to distribute less than $5,000,000. Despite this showing, members of the cabinet claim better results will be shown in coming months.

"You're Another."

Press organs given to defending the present governmental policies have found a better retort, however, for National Socialist criticism, namely: "You're another."

It transpired that at the same time Gottfried Feder and the minor Nazi economists were denouncing the tax rebates their party comrades ruling over the state of Oldenburg went the reich government one better, and issued their own tax rebate certificates.

The Nazi government of Oldenburg decreed $100,000 worth to be distributed to all farmers, tradespeople, and handworkers who would between Oct. 1 and the end of this year find work for the idle at the rate of $12.50 for each new name on the pay roll.

The Nazis, in denouncing the taxes demanded by the reich, applied the adjectives, "unsocial" and "reactionary." Yet in Oldenburg, it is pointed out, the Nazi finance minister cut the income exemption for the trade tax from $600 to less than $500. This means not only more taxes for those tradespeople who pay, but a whole host of new payers.

BEER PRICES CUT 10 CENTS A GLASS IN LAKE COUNTY

A drop in speakeasy prices for the new year and thereafter was reported yesterday in North Chicago, Waukegan, and a number of other Lake county cities.

Beer was cut from 25 cents to 15 cents a glass, and highballs, gin bucks and straight alcohol drinks were reduced from 25 cents to 20 cents. There is no change in hip liquor, gin retailing for $1 a pint, and bourbon for $5 a pint.

The general price slash is due to a saving in beer, barrels now being available for $30 each instead of $40. The cut in drink prices will be taken out of profits by saloonkeepers. Kenosha county competition was blamed somewhat for the reductions.

STATE SUSPENDS DR. L. K. EASTMAN FOR TWO YEARS

Medical Committee Finds Hospital Head Guilty.

Dr. Lewis K. Eastman, owner of the Keystone hospital, 1623 North Kostner avenue, was found guilty yesterday by the state medical committee of charges of inefficiency and professional neglect, inducing witnesses to testify favorably for him, misleading the public, and illegally lending his name to unlicensed practitioners.

The committee unanimously recommended two years' suspension of Eastman's license to practice in the state. The report of the committee was mailed to Michael Walsh, director of the state department of registration and education at Springfield. The suspension will become effective when Walsh places his signature on the committee's report.

Trial Begun on May 6.

Dr. Eastman was cited to appear before the committee last April on information obtained by J. E. Edwards, chief investigator for the department. His trial before the medical committee was opened on May 6 by Assistant Attorney General Philip E. Ringer and the hearings were closed on Oct. 6. The committee reached its decision yesterday.

Two cases were cited in the recommendation of the committee to support the finding of guilty on the charge of inefficiency and professional neglect. The complaint charged that Eastman neglected Louis Rediger, 13 years old, 5446 Fullerton parkway, to enhance chances of collecting damages in a civil suit. The boy died.

"The inefficiency and neglect consisted of failure to call into consultation another physician or surgeon experienced in pelvic fractures," the committee reported. "Particularly in view of the admission of the respondent [Eastman] that he lacked experience of the type involved."

Similar comment was made by the committee on charges made by Frank Pajewski, 23 years old, 2224 Laramie avenue, whose right leg was amputated by Eastman.

Coaching of Witnesses Charged.

The committee found Eastman was guilty of improperly catering to, harboring, and instructing witnesses to testify for him. Eastman was found to have maintained Eugene and Violet Moretti at Fox River Grove. He was also found to have driven with his attorney to Pecatonica, Ill., to give Dr. Robert McCulley, who testified for Eastman, a typewritten copy of the testimony which Eastman wished Dr. McCulley to give.

On the charge of misleading the public the committee reported: "The respondent, for the purpose of misleading the public as to the status of certain individuals, who either were not licensed to practice, or who were licensed to engage in the practice of treatment of human ailments but only without the use of surgery or drugs, certain certificates indicating that the holders were members of the medical staff of the hospital operated by him."

The committee also found Eastman guilty of lending his name to Harry Lea, who has no license to practice. Two witnesses, Mrs. Agnes Janusz and Mrs. Blanche Usajewicz, testified that they were treated in the Keystone hospital by Lea and that Eastman addressed Lea as "doctor."

The report was signed by Dr. M. L. Harris, Dr. Gilbert FitzPatrick, Dr. W. H. Gilmore, Dr. Arthur H. Geiger, and Dr. J. R. Neal, who constitute the committee.

Eastman's attorneys announced that they would appeal the decision. The appeal will be brought through certiorari proceedings in the Circuit court.

GUARD FOR MILK UNION SHOT; SEE HOODLUM PLOT

Officials Say Gang Seeks to Seize Control.

Officials of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union last night laid the blame for the shooting and wounding of Hugh Dunn, one of their guards, directly upon hoodlums striving to gain control of the organization.

Dunn, who is 37 years old, was fired on by two men in a large sedan early yesterday, as he was leaving his home at 325 South Turner avenue to go to work in the fortified headquarters of the union at 220 South Ashland avenue.

Sees Shotguns and Ducks.

Seeing shotguns sticking from the windows of the car as it approached he raised his hands and ducked. The volley from two guns penetrated his hands and at the Bethany hospital it was reported that the right one might have to be amputated.

Steve C. Sumner, 83 year old business agent of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, sitting behind a bullet proof screen in his office, gave in forceful language his opinion about the attempt on Dunn's life.

"Hoodlums," he said, "are still striving to seize control of this union. They are making war on legitimate organized labor. They can't displace us by votes and they can't scare the officers. This shooting was designed to intimidate our guards. It will fail, too.

Will "Take Care of Selves."

"Dunn is a good fellow, an honest and competent worker and a family man who stays at home nights. There was nothing in his private life to provoke an attempt at murder. He was shot at because he worked for the union."

Sumner was asked if he intended to request the state's attorney or the police for additional protection.

"It will not be necessary," he said. "We will take care of ourselves. No racketeers are going to bluff us."

The union headquarters, which are in an old brownstone residence, were equipped with bullet proof screens and peepholes last summer. Sumner said then that five gangsters, all armed, had pushed into the offices one afternoon last June and had informed him he and Robert G. Fitchie, the union president, would be slain unless they consented to turn over the control of the organization, which then had an annual income of $700,000, to them.

Once defiance had been expressed by Sumner and Fitchie, there was nothing else to do, these officials said, but to be prepared to fight it out to the last.

Names Capone Hoodlums.

Sumner declared during the summer that the ultimatum had been presented to him by Murray Humphries and Three Fingered Jack White, Capone hoodlums; George (Red) Barker, who aspired to be the labor czar of Chicago but was slain before he attained his ambition; Klondyke O'Donnell, beer gangster, and R. J. O'Malley, another hoodlum.

"Humphries did the talking," said the veteran, who is known as Uncle Steve to the union. "We'd be bombed, he told me. He offered me and Fitchie and Ray Bryant, trustee, $100,000 to get out peacefully."

The same hoodlums have succeeded since in getting control of several outlaw teamster unions and have been regarded by the heads of all regular unions as a danger to every legitimate enterprise in the city. In August the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, fearing the hoodlums would be able to slay Fitchie, Bryant, and Sumner, established a special fund of $15,000 to be paid the family of any one of them who should fall in the hoodlum war.

PERSIA ORDERS MORE WARSHIPS AND AIRPLANES

Nation Is Losing Status of Buffer State.

BY H. BASIL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TEHERAN, Persia, Dec. 28.—The Persian war office has placed another order in Italy for bigger war vessels and in Germany for military airplanes. The amount of the orders is not divulged.

This rapid arming of the country is causing surprise both to Persians and foreign observers. It was not long ago that Dr. Millspaugh, former American administrator of state finances, worked for some time before he was able to borrow a small sum from the bank in Persia—and that an English bank—to pay the salaries of at least the lowest graded servants of the state, whose pay had been in arrears for months.

Taxation Down.

The greatly improved finances of Persia are no doubt due to his five years of energetic service. The government since his departure has closely followed his system and has not taxed the people too severely.

It is due to this system of taxation that the war office is able to conscript every year 100,000 young men of 21 who serve for two years in preparation for service in the field. Persia's war-trained young men now number nearly 500,000, and this figure is being added to at the rate of 100,000 annually.

Persia is no longer looked upon as a weak buffer state between two stronger powers. She is now a force to be reckoned with in the near east.

British Ship Heads for Persia.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASRA, Iraq, Dec. 28.—The Anglo-Persian oil situation is reported quiet. The British cruiser Hawkins left today for Abadan, Persia, the oil company's headquarters. Meanwhile negotiations are proceeding behind the scenes and the solution may be a change of Persia's 16 per cent of the company's profits, as at present, to a cash royalty for each ton produced.

AWARDED SIX CENTS DAMAGES FOR DELAY IN SENDING TELEGRAM

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—County Judge John B. Coyle in White Plains awarded six cents damages today to Mrs. Martha Powers of Rye in her suit against the Western Union Telegraph company for $2,000. Judge Coyle's award was made on the motion of counsel for the defendant in which the defendant asked that the suit either be dismissed or that purely nominal damages be awarded to the plaintiff.

Mrs. Powers charged in her complaint that on Aug. 1, 1932, her sister, Mrs. W. T. Straitiff of Punxsutawney, Pa., sent her a prepaid telegram notifying her of the death of their father and announcing the date of the funeral. The message was not delivered until ten days later—too late for her to attend the funeral.

She asked the $2,000 as recompense for mental anguish.

SENATORS STUDY 30 HOUR WEEK FOR INDUSTRY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—A senate judiciary subcommittee was designated today to begin hearings Jan. 5 regarding application by federal statute of the five day week and six hour day to industry.

Despite serious doubts as to the constitutionality of such legislation, several senators expressed eagerness to look into its possibilities.

The basis of the subcommittee's hearings, which will be concerned first with the benefits of such an innovation and second with the constitutionality of it, will be a joint resolution introduced Dec. 21 by Senator Black.

Senator Norris, chairman of the judiciary committee, appointed himself as chairman of the subcommittee, and its membership includes Senators Black, Borah, Walsh of Montana, and Robinson of Indiana.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

EUROPEAN POSSESSIONS IN AMERICA.

The island possessions of European nations in American waters are the vestiges of lost dominions. In the recessional of imperial adventures they were left in the control of the nations which had receded. A new order was built upon the sites from which the colonizing Europeans had been ousted, but the new owners did not completely mop up the scene. Odds and ends were left in the possession of the older holders, although an injunction was issued against any further acquisitions.

The basis of the Monroe Doctrine is a recognition of the undesirability of having transplanted European complications in the western hemisphere, which could be reasonably certain of having troubles enough of its own without taking over any from abroad. It was known that America and Europe would be better off if they could be rid of problems which might easily arise from trespass or from contact which might come to mean conflict. Survivals of European power persisted, although they were recognized as undesirable. The disposition was not to overemphasize the probabilities of trouble and to conciliate doctrine and reality. Fragments of empire remained off the American shores. The sensible thing was to absorb them when there was opportunity and make the process as painless as possible. Some have been bought. Others remain. The occasions when it is possible to approach the subject of rounding out the territorial integrity of America are not numerous. Desirable as it is to do so, it is not a question to be taken up peremptorily.

American participation in the war made it possible to open up the question, but no advantage was taken of it. No European nation, no Asiatic nation, would have been so indifferent to its own interests. Any other nation taking the step America did would have sought compensations from the countries it was to aid. None other is too proud to stipulate what it wants as its price, and it is not often that the want is so reasonable. But America made nothing of its opportunity either when it went to war or when it undertook a negotiation of peace.

Now the debtors, presenting what they say are conclusive reasons why they cannot meet their obligations, present another opportunity for territorial compensations to the creditor. Their possessions here have lost valid title. They represent conquest which has ebbed. They belong in the scheme from which the possessor has retired. Whatever their potentialities may be, alien possession is a disadvantage to the country to the natural territory of which they belong, which is deprived of them by long tolerated political conditions inconsistent with its own good.

The debtors object that these possessions cannot be considered in relation to the debts. There is objection to any kind of satisfaction of the debt, it seems, but it is not objection which the creditor is bound to consider. The debtors should be pressed to a disclosure of assets, including their possessions in American territory.

LINING UP THE STATES FOR TAX EXEMPTION.

In an editorial reprinted on this page a few days ago the Sioux Falls Argus-Leader commented on the plan proposed by THE TRIBUNE for relieving farm distress. The Argus-Leader was disposed to favor the plan of letting idle farm land go untaxed, but found a number of objections. The most important of these was the difficulty "of obtaining cooperative legislation."

"Action of one state on a proposition of this kind would do no good," it was said. "It would have to include the majority of the states producing one commodity or another. For example, it would avail little to curtail wheat acreage in South Dakota as long as North Dakota, Kansas and other states maintained a full acreage. But if virtually all wheat growing states were brought into a plan of this nature it might reduce the production to domestic requirements, thus making effective the present tariff of 42 cents a bushel."

Exactly. And the problem of finding a way to bring the states concerned into agreement is not as difficult of solution as might be expected at first blush. The control of state and local taxation is in the state legislatures, but congress has at hand a means of exerting pressure on the legislatures to join in a concerted movement. Congress could very easily provide that any state which remained outside the scheme would receive no subsidies from the federal treasury. To use the illustration already provided: If North Dakota and Kansas declined to join in the movement they would receive no federal road funds, no agricultural loans from the R. F. C., no federal support for agricultural experiment stations, and so on. If it is not certain, it is at least highly probable, that the pressure so applied would bring results, particularly as the end to be gained implies no added cost to the individual taxpayer, but, on the contrary, a reduction of his taxation.

By this time it must be obvious that the professional farm relievers in Washington are determined to help the farmer by taking something from the other fellow—either the processor, the consumer or the taxpayer—without making a real attack upon the basic difficulty of the farmers, which is overproduction. Taking something from the other fellow may work after a fashion so long as the other fellow has something to take. Nowadays he has nothing. That puts the responsibility of bettering his lot directly upon the farmer himself. All that the government can do in times such as these is to encourage the farmer to conduct his business in a fashion which will bring him a larger return. Tax exemption for land left idle should serve that purpose better than any other scheme so far advanced or likely to be advanced.

THE ATHENIAN COMEDY.

The Greek government has refused to permit the American government to take Samuel Insull back to the United States for trial as an embezzler. The Greek court which considered the case said that Mr. Insull, far from embezzling anything, had acted in the interest of those who had invested their money in his enterprises. Indeed, said the court, the charges against Insull do not constitute the crime of embezzlement and larceny in Illinois, for have we not the sworn statement of a judge of the Illinois Supreme court [former Justice Floyd Thompson] to assure us that this is so?

The proceeding was almost as absurd as the reasoning. The Greek court tried Mr. Insull for the crime of embezzlement and without the presentation of the evidence for the prosecution found him not guilty. The Greek judges went further. They also acted as an appellate court examining the sufficiency of the indictment and decided, on the testimony of a former judge, who is now a lawyer associated with the defense, that the indictment was insufficient to hold the prisoner.

Needless to say, this comic opera acquittal has not served to quiet Mr. Insull's enemies, and we should be astonished if it gave any satisfaction to his friends. His enemies will mention Frank Smith and snicker. His friends, we should guess, will find nothing in the proceeding to hearten them.

Mr. Insull said after his flight from Paris that he would resist extradition until all danger of political persecution was passed. That day has come. The election is over. The present state's attorney of Cook county will not be a candidate for office now for four years. Mr. Insull's continued absence from the United States as a fugitive from justice cannot be interpreted here as anything but a confession of guilt. The Greek court has acquitted him without hearing the evidence, but unless he returns to Chicago at once Mr. Insull will have convicted himself at the bar of public opinion.

BARRING DELAYS.

We now read in the news of the day that "barring delays due to severe weather" the Chicago-Joliet stage of the gulf-lakes waterway will be ready for navigation by the end of February. Last summer it was promised that this long awaited achievement would arrive in October. There were no delays due to severe weather, but somehow the prediction did not come true. We hope the latest will not be equally disappointing. The midwest is in urgent need of the new economy in transport which the waterway will give. It cannot afford to wait through another summer, with every day a loss in the use of this new agency of transport. Whatever the nature of delays, they should not be permitted to carry us into another winter when the full use of the waterway will be diminished by weather and even closed for a time, disrupting schedules and increasing costs. The waterway has been a long way, far too long. Politics, self-interest, and the inertia of bureaucracy have obstructed its completion. It is time to get it done and in use. February should not mean October. If the latest promise is kept the midwest will have a season of use and development. That promise should be kept.

GOOD SHOWS FOR NEXT SUMMER.

Charles Collins, TRIBUNE dramatic critic, appeals to whatever powers may be in the world of the theater to provide Chicago with good shows during the Century of Progress.

We hope the appeal will be heard by the leading producers. Mr. Collins is unquestionably right when he says the exposition will not absorb all the time and interests of visitors. Mr. Harry J. Powers, dean emeritus of our Chicago theater managers, supports this with reference to the Columbian Exposition of 1893, during which every first class theater in the city, instead of closing as was the custom, enjoyed prosperous summer runs.

The Century of Progress is going to be the special occasion for a visit to Chicago, but by no means the only attraction. Chicago itself—its parks and institutions, its shops and places of entertainment—offers resources of which visitors will take advantage. In fact, we believe that for many visitors from abroad Chicago itself is the main attraction.

Therefore it is to be hoped theatrical enterprise, depressed as it has been, will not overlook the opportunity and indeed the duty of providing good entertainment in the theaters throughout the period of the exposition.

Editorial of the Day

MODESTY ADVISABLE.

[Decatur Herald.]

The "British Who's Who," corresponding to the invaluable biographical work, "Who's Who in America," allows every person listed to write his own life sketch. The last issue reveals that President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university has ten times as much space as Mussolini, Albert Einstein, or Mahatma Gandhi, and his only American competitors are Percy Mackaye, Robert Underwood Johnson, and Henry Fairfield Osborne.

Interestingly enough, the President elect of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt, judged by the length of his sketch, is only half as important as his distant cousin, Theodore Roosevelt, who has notoriously bad luck in running for any elective office, and even the little known Kermit Roosevelt has more accomplishments to his credit, judged from the length of his notice, than Gov. Roosevelt.

That length of sketches may be in inverse proportion to the importance of the subject is a fact observable in the American "Who's Who" and in the Congressional Record. Public men do well to be modest in recording for publication their activities. Abraham Lincoln's self-written sketch in the Congressional Record was one of the briefest in the volume. More books have been written about him than of any man save Jesus and Napoleon.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

SCIENTISTS SAY that if the present changing ological formation in the Atlantic coast area continues Charleston, S. C., and Portland, Me., will be on the tops of high mountains in the year 1001932, while New York will be a mile under the surface of the ocean. It is comforting to know that great minds find it worth while to consider that this country will still be here, even though somewhat changed, a million years from now. We sometimes wonder if the damn thing will last thirty days.

TECHNOCRACY, the electric dollar, and wheat money, all of which sprang up before our delighted gaze only a few days ago, have already grown dim and will soon be carelessly referred to as old stuff. As a people we are not looking so much for financial reforms but entertainment. We like new things if they are louder and funnier.

MASQUERADING.

Just one big masquerade, I know
(Oh, don't I, though),
This thing called Life
My parents—man and wife—
Wished on me,—yours on you, too, dear . . .
Well, anyhow, we're here!
Sometimes I think it's swell,
But, mostly, ain't it hell? . . .
Music, you say? Romance?
Sure! . . . Well, come on; let's dance.
But this I ask:
Please don't unmask.

Dance well? Thank you—of course I do!
I'll say the same for you.
Next thing you'll say
"I could go on forever and a day
Like this." But, please, please don't;
You know you couldn't—and we won't.
It's lovely, though. Oh, if they could,
I guess most everybody would!
It's such a glorious game . . .
No, don't tell me your name
Nor daytime task;
And don't unmask.

Gosh! Wasn't that last number grand?
Give them a hand . . .
A waltz that's time . . . Good-night! . . .
Not quite so tight, dear, not so tight—
Waltzes are heavenly—The First Kiss . . .
Divine—a dream—I could go on like this—
It's me that's goofy now. Excuse . . .
Why must they play them Blues?
I hate them . . . Shall we take a walk
Out in the moonlight? Let's don't talk—
Just walk . . . Have you a flask?
Thanks. Don't unmask!

EOLUS.

STUDYING the enthralling photographs spread before us yesterday of President Hoover fishing in Florida waters and Mayor Cermak and Governor Elect Horner sitting under the shade of the sheltering palm somewhere close to Miami, likewise in Florida, we wondered why it would not be better for all concerned to move the capital of the United States and all the state capitals to Florida. The idea is this, that then the great men whom we elect to office would have some sort of decent alibi for spending their time there and we wouldn't get so doggoned mad because they bask in tropic sunshine while we have to stay home in the frozen north and fight Old Man Depression.

WE SHUDDERED to see the name of the Chinese ghost general bursting into print—Ma Chan-Shan. What meat he will be for the radio croon song writers—"Ma Chan-Shan, you are my man," etc. Anyhow, it won't be any worse than what they've done, "Ma Sweet Baby" or "Ma Mammy" or "Ma Sugah Plum" or all the rest of those Ma things.

AGAIN WE RISE to ask what is the use of making a historical wisecrack when posterity gives the credit to some one else. A brother columnist says that Mr. Roosevelt's use of the word "astonished" when he read Mr. Hoover's last note reminded him of the incident of Noah Webster's kissing the cook and being interrupted by the sudden appearance of Mrs. Webster, who exclaimed, "Noah, I'm surprised!" "No," Mr. Webster replied, "it is the cook and I who are surprised. You are astonished." But it wasn't Mr. Webster who kissed the cook. It was Dr. Johnson. And it was Mrs. Johnson who said she was surprised and who was so gently corrected by her learned spouse. Dear, dear, poor Dr. Johnson! In spite of the fact that Mr. Boswell wrote a most entertaining book about him, all that the present generation knew of him was that little story. And now they're taking it away from him and giving it t Noah Webster, who couldn't have thought up a witty remark like that to save his life.

It is twice blest with golden-ness. Its gleams
Are knit with ageless and untarnished dreams
Of frost-white temples and a sapphire sea
And one for whom proud ships avengingly
Sailed forth; of dark relentless reefs that shine
Where wory limbs have risen from the brine
And hands that glimmer whiter than the foam
Untangle silken sunlight with a comb. . . .

THE YEAR is moving along—three more days and it will be the new year. It's a great comfort as we sit around waiting for congress to move along, for the government to move along, for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to move along, for the next administration to move along—that, anyhow, something is moving along if it's only the year.

PREVENTION OF RHEUMATIC FEVER.

BASED upon evidence that acute rheumatic fever is a contagious disease caused by a hemolytic streptococcus, and having three stages, the following methods of control of this form of rheumatism have been suggested by a group of outstanding British physicians:

1. Bacterial examinations of all cases of sore throat for hemolytic streptococci. In the past the practice has been to examine such cases for diphtheria bacillus, and not to pay much attention to the streptococci. Diphtheria, thanks principally to vaccination, is becoming a disease of minor importance. Streptococci in the throat will soon be if they are not now of more importance than the diphtheria bacillus.

2. If the patient lives or works in a place where there is much opportunity for exposure, the throats of contacts should be examined for the same coccus.

3. If the season is bad, the quarters are crowded, many of the contacts show the same coccus, or there is a history of a tendency to rheumatism, a skin test for sensitization to hemolytic streptococci endotoxins should be made.

4. The skin tests are simple. They can be made by any physician. The tested man need not stop work.

5. If the skin test shows that the man is sensitized to streptococci, he should be desensitized by methods approved and carried out by physicians. The method is known as the Swift method.

6. If the surroundings are such as make for the disease they should be improved. The changes especially to be considered are decreased overcrowding, spacing beds, discontinuing the use of articles used in common, improving ventilation, lessening exposure to dampness and cold.

7. If it be found that a considerable number of people to whom the man is exposed have hemolytic streptococci in their throats, efforts to overcome this condition should be made.

8. Rheumatism of this type and the sore throat and fever which preceded the joint symptoms should be systematically treated by some of the salicylate group of medicines from the beginning of the disorder. This method some physicians know as the Schlesinger method.

9. If the significance of the preliminary attack is appreciated that disease will be treated in a way that will protect against what may follow. So far as the sore throat of itself is concerned cure is easy. Not only is this disease to be cured but the possibility of sensitization, and of a second exposure through overcrowding, bad ventilation, and bad environment are to be given consideration.

DEMENTIA PRECOX.

J. A. writes:

1. Are all cases of dementia precox progressive?

2. When one who is well educated forgets how to spell correctly, what does that indicate?

3. What does flabbiness of the face in a young person mean?

REPLY.

1. No. Most cases of split personality never progress as far as dementia precox. I presume nearly half the cases that go far enough to be tagged dementia precox do not progress much until the element of senescence begins to add to the deviation of personality.

2. Usually it means senescence. Often it does not. Ability to spell is acquired by education. As youth fades into the past we forget much that we learned in school.

3. It may mean general flabbiness, or heart or kidney trouble, anemia, or parasites.

IT PROVES TWO THINGS.

R. W. S. writes: When my aunt was 30 years of age her doctor prescribed strychnine tablets for her nerves and heart. She is sixty and still taking them. Will this medicine harm her?

REPLY.

An experience of thirty years is about the best proof of two things. First, taking strychnine tablets in proper dosage is not dangerous. Second, it will not cure.

PYELITIS.

M. E. writes: 1. What is pyelitis?
2. What is pelvis trouble?
3. What causes them?
4. Can they be cured?

REPLY.

1. An inflammation of the pelvis of the kidney, generally the result of infection.
2. It may be pyelitis. There are other pelvises besides that of the kidney, however.
3. Infection with the colon bacillus is the most frequent cause. Other causes are infection with tubercle bacilli or other bacteria. Stone may be a cause.
4. Yes. That due to infection with the colon bacillus is fairly easily cured.

WARTS.

S. G. writes: Why did you advise some one to leave his warts alone? I cured a wart on my finger by the daily application of castor oil.

REPLY.

There are warts and warts. Besides, a wart in one location may cry out for removal, while a wart in another place may be another story. Never judge another's warts by your own.

EXECUTION SALE LEGAL.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I bought a place in Wisconsin, paying $1,800, of which $200 is still due. I gave a note for the amount due. As I have the deed and pay all taxes I had to put it in joint tenancy with a party I owe room and board to, as I have not been working on account of sickness. 1. Can he get a judgment and sell the property? 2. I am owner of two extra lots in the same town and also an automobile. Can he take these? 3. What can he do now? When I return to work I'm willing to pay in full. 4. About a year and a half ago I did some electrical work, supplying labor and material, but made no agreement. Can I present a bill for same?

J. L.

1. In general any person to whom you owe money is in a position to take a judgment and follow it up with an execution sale of your land. We assume that the property is not occupied as a homestead.
2. See 1.
3. In the sense that the proceedings would presumably take some time he cannot do anything at once.
4. Depends on the understanding at the time the work was done. If the understanding was that you were to do the work free, then you are not in a position to change your mind now.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WILL.

Palmer, Ill., Dec. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. My father made a will, appointing my sister and another woman administrators without bond. The administrators called at the bank and tried to withdraw the amount he had on deposit. They could not do that, so they called for his private papers, which they secured. 2. They did not notify the other heirs to meet and look them over. Since then I have found checks totaling $175 one of them had borrowed. I think the notes were in the papers and were destroyed. The papers now are back in the bank. 3. I made them probate the will and give bond. 4. I would like to know how to proceed to get an accounting. A place of business here is to be sold. 5. How soon can it be sold in order to settle and divide? 6. Would I have to sue at a certain time to make them account for the sale of this property and the $175 which they have taken? W. F.

1. The personal representatives named in a will are called executors or executrices.
2. There is no obligation to submit such papers to the other heirs, but apparently an inheritance tax examination should have been made.
3. It seems probable that in such proceedings you employed an attorney. If so he is in a better position to advise you than we are.
4. They will have to account to the Probate court and you can examine such account in the court files. Such account and report are filed at the time the estate is closed.
5. Depends upon the wording of the will, the solvency of the estate, etc.
6. Claims must be filed within a year from the beginning of the probate proceedings. In this sense you must act within a year in order to force payment of debts.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 29, 1916.

LONDON.—The Daily Mail says the joint reply of the allies to the German peace note is expected to be dispatched today or tomorrow from Paris. "This," it continues, "will reassure our friends in Russia and Italy, who are pointing out the importance of saying 'no' with all possible speed. It will enable the allied governments to concentrate their whole attention on prosecuting the war with renewed energy and zeal. The real German aim is not peace but delay. The peace note is a huge hoax practiced on the neutrals and other credulous persons."

WASHINGTON.—The peace negotiations of which President Wilson is the medium took on a much broader scope. Germany, it transpires, has advised Mr. Wilson that its proposal of a conference of the belligerents is not to be regarded as a condition precedent upon which it consents to discuss peace with its enemies. The German government proposed a conference in the belief that such would be the most effective means of ascertaining whether there exists any basis for an agreement to end the war at this time. The official text of the German reply was received at the White House. The Austrian reply, also received today, is similar to the German.

MEXICO CITY.—It is officially reported that the Villistas have suffered several severe defeats in the north during the last two days.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—One more appeal for modification of the protocol providing for the withdrawal of American troops from Mexico is made by Gen. Carranza in a message delivered to Secretary Lane by Luis Cabrera, chairman of the Mexican members of the joint commission. The Mexican first chief replied to the insistent American demand that the protocol signed by his spokesmen at Atlantic City be ratified with an 800 word document, in which he failed to accede to the demand, but refrained from writing anything that could be construed as a flat repudiation. Neither Mr. Cabrera nor Secretary Lane would discuss the nature of Carranza's reply.

WAR SUMMARY.—Braila, the important oil town of Rumania, is under fire of the Germans, Berlin says. Official reports chronicle a smashing victory for the invaders in the vicinity of Rimnik-Sarat. Petrograd admits the retreat of Russian troops in this vicinity. Paris reports that many German airplanes were brought down during the revival of air battles on the western front. Petrograd reports heavy artillery action by the Germans on the eastern front and admits damage to some of its trenches. A report from London says King Constantine has ordered the Greek division which surrendered to the Bulgars at Kavala to the Macedonian front to fight the allies. Lloyd's reports that the Swedish steamer Friga is believed to have been sunk and that it is known the British vessel Bargany has been lost.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Every able bodied male citizen of the United States between the ages of 18 and 45 is held liable for service in the National Guard in wartime, without further act of congress, by war department regulations for the government of the guard issued under the national defense act. In a circular prepared nearly two months ago, but made public only today, the militia bureau directs that where a National Guard regiment is called out for war service, a reserve training battalion to fill vacancies at the front shall be organized out of the National Guard reserve and by voluntary enlistment.

NEW YORK.—The brotherhood chairmen on every railroad system in the United States were warned officially by wire from this city that failure had marked the final conference between the companies and the trainmen in an attempt to agree on a plan of running an eight hour schedule pending the settlement of the constitutionality of the Adamson law by the United States Supreme court. Sporadic strikes are expected by the railroad executives next week on some lines, mostly western.

CHICAGO.—Mrs. John R. Thompson possesses an ingenuity quite as striking as that of her husband, who grew a mighty lunchroom business from one obscure little restaurant "planted" on the south side. Also she exhibits a sense of humor in that she permitted Mr. and Mrs. John T. Bell of 4347 Berkeley avenue to announce innocently the engagement of their daughter, Lois, to John R. Thompson III., when she knew all the time the young folks were married last June 22 in White Plains, N. Y. The engagement was announced on Miss Bell's 21st birthday, Sept. 13.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

FROM SENATOR VANDENBERG.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—The Grand Rapids Press quotes an editorial from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE as stating that I have "changed front" on the question of diversion from Lake Michigan and that I am now "recommending a redrafting of the St. Lawrence treaty." As I have not seen THE TRIBUNE editorial, I can deal only with this quotation. This I hasten to do in order to avoid needless additional misunderstanding.

Allow me to state categorically that I have not "changed front" in respect to diversion; and that I do not favor a redrafting of the treaty. I continue to hold the legal view respecting diversion which is urged by the attorneys general of the so-called lake states, and which is sustained by the Supreme court. I continue to hold the general view that diversion as permitted by the Supreme court decree [embodied in the pending treaty] is adequate for sanitary purposes at Chicago and for a commercially useful Illinois waterway as officially described in senate document No. 126. I submit that this latter opinion is supported by the dependable preponderance of engineering authority. Therefore the pending treaty offers no threat to your legitimate interests.

But the treaty goes still further. It recognizes the possibility of an "emergency" which might justify additional diversion. In such an event, after our own congress and our own courts were satisfied, a Canadian protest would go to arbitration; and I should have no fear of the outcome if our cause is just. Any other view would reject all possibility of amicable international relations in respect to justiciable questions. Assistant Secretary of State Rogers, testifying before our committee on Nov. 28, identified both sanitation and navigation as coming within the possible purview of an "emergency" within the meaning of the treaty.

Therefore, to assuage if possible needless fears upon this score in your area, I suggested consideration of a purely interpretative reservation setting forth this existing understanding of an "emergency." This must be the source of your editorial observations. But you will note that it would be in no sense a "redraft of the treaty" nor a "changed front." On the contrary, it would be a vindication of the existing "front." The detail of my suggestions upon this score makes my position consistently plain in this respect.

The reply to this suggestion has been that the naked word "emergency" has greater latitude than any specific definition of it, and that an effort to define might result in delimitation rather than latitude. Senator Borah, chairman of the committee, confirms this latter view.

My sole objective, you will note, has been to confirm what I believe to be the entirely adequate provisions of the pending treaty. The net result of the effort has been to make doubly plain that the treaty already is textually adequate. Indeed, it is adequate, according to official engineering advice, regardless of the "emergency" clause.

I beg your indulgence for this statement, which is submitted in no spirit of complaint against what appears to have been your misconception of my position, but which seeks merely to keep the record clear. I should like, if possible, to help unify the middle west in behalf nor only of the seaway but also of the Illinois waterways.

A. H. VANDENBERG.

OUR MACHINE AGE.

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 22.—I wish herewith to protest against the cartoon appearing in this morning's issue of THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE under the caption "The Robot Turns Upon Its Maker." The robot in this case is portrayed as being "Our Machine Age" and is making a very serious attempt to destroy the world.

If the artist who conceived this portrait is trying to convey the idea that mechanization of the industry is the cause of the world-wide depression and unemployment he is just as far from actual facts as he can possibly be—and if the parties responsible for the publication of this cartoon had taken the time to check into actual facts I am quite sure that the cartoon would never have been published.

I am objecting to this cartoon because among your readers are many potential buyers of machine tools, who because they do not take the trouble to check into facts will become disillusioned by this silly cartoon and consequently cause more unemployment by not purchasing the industrial equipment they know is needed.

The writer believes that you would not maliciously permit such a cartoon to be printed unless you were in sympathy with the story that it portrays, which leads me to believe that you do not know that statistics are available at the United States Chamber of Commerce that conclusively prove that machinery is not the cause of the depression.

ABOUT ASSESSMENTS.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—It seems to the writer that our new assessor might have displayed a little more intelligence in assessing the common people on their few personal belongings such as household furniture and clothing.

In the course of my business I come in contact with hundreds of families, and, in bringing up the subject of taxation, I have found that in the majority of cases the man with the smallest possessions has been burdened with the highest tax.

For example, one janitor who lives in a small basement flat and has only a bed, two cheap tables, and a few chairs is assessed at $444, while the owner of the building in which he works and who has a nicely furnished flat and an expensive car is listed for but $222, or just one-half as much as his janitor.

I could mention hundreds of similar cases, but space will not permit it. I might state though that in my case I personally appeared in Mr. Jacobs' office and made an honest declaration of my belongings, expecting to pay an honest tax. Without any investigation whatsoever the assessor doubled what I had scheduled.

Upon writing Mr. Jacobs about this I received a reply that I had to come down personally and appear before the board of appeals to make complaint, but it did not state any time when this could be done. Not seeing any notice in the papers, I went down a few days later to file a complaint, only to find that it was too late; the books were closed. Of course, the idea is to make it so difficult for a taxpayer that rather than go to the trouble of filing a complaint [which probably would be ignored anyway] the average person would rather pay an exorbitant tax.

But here is where Mr. Jacobs has made a miscalculation. For out of every ten persons I have spoken to nine have made the assertion that never will they pay such tax. Now, if they had been reasonably dealt with nine out of ten would have paid.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Minus the presence of the absolutely convincing Mr. Charles Laughton, this gruesome picture would be too utterly improbable. But there he is—and believe or not, he SEEMS to be so!

Swift thinking, sinister, cruel, determined, shrewd, diabolically clever, uncannily fast on his feet for so heavy a man, is Laughton in his present rôle. Terribly expert with a rawhide, which he cracks at the man-resembling creatures he has assembled from—animals! There he is, and because of him, a hideous story becomes credible.

He portrays one Dr. Moreau who inhabits an island that, to quote a certain ship's captain, "stinks all over the South seas." Here he lives with another white man, Dr. Montgomery, one time hospital interne, wanted in the states for "unprofessional—er—conduct," and a horde of awful things which—one CAN'T say WHOM—he dominates.

There's only one woman on the island—a strange, wild, pretty Lota, whose face is curiously flat and feline and whose fingers are—never mind! You've guessed it—the "panther woman."

A young American, bound for Apia to join his fiancée, is shipwrecked. Chance brings him to "The Isle of Lost Souls." Here his sweetheart finds him. Peril lie on every side—especially the side the doctor is on. For Dr. Moreau sees in these two clean cut whites material for further experiments. . . .

Don't ask me to tell you any more. I think I feel a little ill. . . . That Mr. Charles Laughton's what you mean when you speak of a "finished actor"!

This is the picture in which Chicago's own Kathleen Burke makes her screen debut. She hasn't much more to do than crouch and run and open her eyes wide, but she is agile and uncamera conscious, and very well suited to the part she plays.

See this number if you like to shudder—but do, please, leave the children home with their Christmas toys.

"MADAME BUTTERFLY."
Produced by Paramount.
Directed by Marion Gering.
Presented at the Chicago theater.

THE CAST.

Cho-Cho-San ..... Sylvia Sidney
Lieut. B. F. Pinkerton ..... Cary Grant
Lieut. Barton ..... Charlie Ruggles
Goro ..... Sandor Kallay
Yamadori ..... Irving Pichel
Cho-Cho's mother ..... Helen Jerome Eddy
Cho-Cho's grandfather ..... Edmund Breese
Mme. Goro ..... Judith Vosselli
Suzuki ..... Louise Carter
Peach Blossom ..... Dorothy Libaire
Mrs. Pinkerton ..... Sheila Terry
Sharpless ..... Burton Churchill

Somehow I couldn't get enthusiastic over this picture adaptation of the Puccini opera. [Sung for the first time in Milan, 1904.]

It isn't sung—which is a pity. And, somehow, it doesn't capture the imagination. Some changes have been made in the original story, but they don't really matter. It's the lack of music and "atmosphere" that hurts.

As you undoubtedly know, the tale of the outcast geisha who has renounced her own gods to embrace the deity of her beloved Mr. B. F. Pinkerton—a god, she has heard, who would have no truck with divorce—is a pitiful and tragic one.

For a hundren yen Mr. Pinkerton, a ship's lieutenant on shore leave, has purchased the companionship of little "Madame Butterfly," as she calls herself. In Japan this transaction, accompanied by proper ceremonies, constitutes wedlock, which may quite legally end in divorce through the mere departure of the husband. When he is gone the geisha is again available for marriage.

In due time Mr. Pinkerton, feeling like a dog, as well he may, says good by and sets sail for America, promising to return when the robins nest again.

Nesting time comes once, twice thrice. No Mr. Pinkerton. But the tiny Japanese girl waits and hopes, chuckles and plays with; loves an'l weeps over the little son of her marriage. . . .

The fleet sails into the bay. . . Again Mr. Pinkerton is in old Japan. And now there is a pink and white Mrs. Pinkerton to whom he has been joined in, as we say, the holy bonds of matrimony.

Poor Butterfly . . . !

Cary Grant is an engaging hero. Perhaps here is one flaw. You feel so very sure this nice chap is being libeled. Never, never would Mr. Grant have treated a cherry blossom so! [O, say, he sings a lullaby. I'd forgotten about that. Nice!]

Sylvia Sidney, one of the most talented and intuitive of the younger actresses, gives a charming performance. She never just seems to be a Japanese maiden—but, for that matter, none of the supposed orientals rings very true. Burton Churchill plays the American consul agreeably. There's not enough of Charlie Ruggles as Pinkerton's giddy friend. Other rôles are conscientiously handled. Photography is excellent; direction somewhat labored, I thought.

See you soon.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

(Copyright, 1932, By The Chicago Tribune.)

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his case book covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

THE ABANDONED POWER.

Prof. Fordney found only dust and dried leaves on the creaky old steps of the winding stairway that led to the top of the abandoned observation tower. He pushed open the unbolted door to the balcony and stepped out. One hundred and fifty feet below Sheriff Hamilton was kneeling beside the broken body of a man. Completing the circuit of the balcony Fordney hurriedly descended, sniffing the musty air that permeated the tower.

"Just sheer luck we found him in this isolated spot," Hamilton remarked as the professor joined him. "Few come here this time of year. He hasn't been there long . . . the ground under him is soaked."

From the appearance of his mud covered shoes it was apparent the man had walked some distance. There was nothing in the pockets of his well tailored clothes. They bore not even a label.

"Your first job, sheriff, will be to identify him," remarked Fordney, finishing his search. You'll notice his overcoat, except on the back, isn't very wet."

"So I see. Wonder how he knew about the old tower; he's a stranger in these parts? Well, he came to the right spot. It's the only thing high enough around here that a person could jump from and be sure to do a good job."

"You have drawn a natural inference, sheriff, but he didn't commit suicide," said Fordney, again turning the body over on its face.

HOW DID THE PROFESSOR KNOW?

Predict Great Popularity for Eye Shaders.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Goofy little hats, the very scant skimmers that have perched rather precariously during the last year on the best of heads, are gently but firmly being done away with in favor of flattering and vastly becoming new hats that should please every one, including the gals who have to pay for them. Brims are returning to frame the eyes pleasantly and what a devastating return they are staging . . . having struggled for a few wild months trying to keep the flat trifles that we call hats safely, securely and becomingly tilted over a hidden eye, we are now plunging madly in the opposite direction.

New hats are worn snugly and in some cases smugly and most circumspectly, exactly parallel with the eyes. Slightly befuddled male critics are having a time facing the uncompromising stare of the two unconcealed eyes of the former one eyed fashion knowing females. But, in spite of it all, we do manage to keep every one guessing as to how we will wear the newest headgear.

Nowadays the best hats are pulled well down over the forehead . . . corrugated brow owners should utter words of thankful appreciation . . . clever new designs show this downward dip over the eyes in many new and interesting materials. All the hats on display at this time of the year are of trick fabrics, whether you are buying hats to scurry southward or buying a chapeau to bolster up your midyear lagging enthusiasms. And all these hats are turned up in the rear and pulled down toward the nose tip . . . you'll see some fascinating shallow crowned white hats for resort wear made of deep, thick, crinkled silk crêpe, others of corded silk, still others of heavy silk that looks like homespun wool.

Some sparkling new fabrics are made with tiny metallic threads woven through the silk, and some new strawlike silks arrive with an occasional piece of thin straw woven with the silk or sheer wool. Dark colors and blue and black for stay-at-home wear in winter climates are particularly effective with these bits of straw combined with the wool. White and pastel colored resort millinery with these straw and metal threads is as sparkling as the spring sunshine and should be an instant success.

Some other white creations feature color contrast with flowers, one demure eye shading affair boasts of a very flat white gardenia pinned flat against the dip in the brim and the base of the very shallow crown, while a stunning beige and orange shaded gardenia is plastered tight against the sharply turned back brim.

Another white knitted looking affair has deep scallops decorating the edge of the brim. This hat is soft and pliable and should pack in a very tight place.

Blue gray, a slate colored gray combined with navy blue or burnt orange, is another color combination to look for . . . especially in the many collections that obligingly and knowingly feature styles for hat hungry shoppers who have outgrown the flapper flippancies.

One shop has turned over the entire floor space of quite a large room for these stunning hats, all with price tags that are more than merciful to gift shrunk budgets and clothes allowances. They are really the outstanding new hats to be found!

Goodspeed Receives Sixteenth Century Bible Manuscript

Prof. Edgar J. Goodspeed of the University of Chicago school of divinity yesterday announced that he had received a 16th century manuscript of the book of Revelation. The book was presented to Prof. Goodspeed by Miss Elizabeth Day McCormick, a cousin of the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, whose rare copy of the entire New Testament was published by the university last September.

Prof. Goodspeed announced the new manuscript before the annual meeting of the National Society of Biblical Literature, in session yesterday and today at the Oriental Institute. The manuscript is written in modern Greek and was translated by Maximus of Peloponnesus from the earlier or Hellenistic Greek. This translator is known to scholars as the maker of the first translation of the older Greek New Testament into modern Greek idiom.

Of especial interest to scholars are the miniatures illustrating the 16th century notions of "the four horsemen," the "scarlet woman," the seven headed beast, and other symbols found in the Apocalypse.

Carnival Air

The Casino, which is so lovely that it doesn't need nor lend itself very well to much extraneous decorating was even more attractive than usual last night for the dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Fenton and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin A. Traylor to introduce formally to society their daughters, Miss Honoré White and Miss Nancy Traylor. A few windblown white trees and snowmen with tall, black hats were the seasonable decorations and coral tinted calla lilies in white vases completed the color scheme. Revolving colored lights played on the dancers, giving a carnival atmosphere to the gay party, and just before supper—the usual popular scrambled eggs, bacon, sausages, coffee and milk—a shower of snowballs descended upon the dancers.

Miss White and Miss Traylor are two of the prettiest of the season's buds and both looked unusually lovely last night, the former in white tulle made with bouffant skirt and a dropped shoulder line of silver roses and the latter in nude satin with bands of turquoise at the shoulders. Miss White's flowers were small, pink tinted calla lilies and Miss Traylor's were blue forget-me-nots and roses the same shade as her gown.

Mrs. Fenton wore blue and silver lamé with white orchids and Mrs. Traylor wore pale green and gold lamé with green orchids. The guests were mostly young people with just a sprinkling of older ones. Most of the younger ones had danced earlier in the evening at a dinner dance given by Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hopkins in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house for their debutante daughter, Miss Marjorie Goodman, who made her formal bow, or bows, to society at teas at home, 1530 State parkway, on Dec. 2 and 9.

Revolving colored lights were used in the decorative scheme at this beautiful party, too, and the Red Lacquer room never looked gayer than it did last night with the unusual lighting features and the pyramids of silver balls that ornamented the tables catching and reflecting the rays of the lights as they spun around. Miss Goodman was stunning in a gown of coral velvet.

Miss Morrow Weds; to Make Home in Wales

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Miss Elizabeth Reeve Morrow, eldest daughter of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow and the late Senator Morrow, was married this afternoon to Aubrey Neil Morgan of Brynderwen, Llandaff, Wales. Only relatives of the family were present at the ceremony, performed in the library of the Morrow home, at Englewood, N. J.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Constance Cutter Morrow, and she was given in marriage by her brother, Dwight Morrow. Brig. Gen. Jay J. Morrow, an uncle, was best man.

No description of the ceremony, nor list of guests was made public, and no announcement of the couple's immediate plans was made. It had been previously announced they would make their home in Wales, where Mr. Morgan is in business.

The marriage was performed by Dr Carl H. Elmore of the First Presbyterian church of Englewood, assisted by Dr. Thomas Guthrie Speers, pastor of the Brown Memorial church of Baltimore.

Miss Morrow is a graduate of Milton academy, Milton, Mass., and of Smith college, class of 1925. She continued her studies at the Sorbonne in Paris and later taught at the Dwight school in Englewood, which she had attended before going to Milton academy. She founded the Little school as a nursery school in 1930 and later expanded it to include first and second grades.

Mr. Morgan is a graduate of the Charterhouse school and of Jesus college, Cambridge. He is a member of the firm of David Morgan, Ltd., in Cardiff, which was founded by his grandfather. The couple met in 1930, when Miss Morrow was in England with her father, the late Senator Morrow, when he was a delegate to the London naval conference.

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we give our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

This is the season when some rooms have a way of staying chilly, no matter how hard we drive the central heating plant. There is an abundance of gas and electrical "auxiliary" heating for such rooms. There are gas fired radiators which are heating units in themselves. There are numerous portable electrical devices; electric radiators which can be plugged into an outlet, electric heaters which resemble the occasional table and are quite ornamental as well as useful, and electric spot heaters of the reflector type. There are also the very efficient radiant gas fireplace heaters perfected by modern engineering methods.

Miss Sarah A. Louderback Is Bride in East

Wedding Is Announced by Her Mother.

BY JUDITH CASS.

ANNOUNCEMENT is being made this morning by Mrs. William J. Louderback of the marriage of her daughter, Sarah Ann, to John Ziegler Ennis. The ceremony was performed quietly on Tuesday at the residence of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Darragh Louderback, at Babylon, L. I.

The former Miss Louderback has been visiting her brother and sister-in-law for several weeks, and while there had been no formal announcement of her engagement or approaching marriage, the wedding was not a surprise to members of her family and close friends. After a brief honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Ennis are to reside in Philadelphia.

Mr. Ennis came to Chicago from Philadelphia a few years ago and resided here until he returned to the east a short time ago. Miss Louderback was graduated from the Ogontz school before she made her debut several seasons ago.

None of the Chicago members of her family were present at the wedding. Mrs. Louderback and her younger daughter, Miss Jane Louderback, have closed their Lake Forest house and are residing at 18 East Elm street for the winter.

Two to Make Debuts Tonight.

Two young girls will be presented to society tonight, Miss Virginia Chapman at a dinner dance at the Casino, and Miss Martha Lee at a ball at the Blackstone hotel. Miss Chapman is the third of the four daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Adams Chapman of Lake Forest and 936 Lake Shore drive, the older girls, Margaret and Eleanor having made their debuts at similar parties last winter and the winter before during the Christmas holiday seasons.

Miss Lee is the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas George Lee of Highland Park and the Ambassador. Her sister, Mrs. William E. Graham, will receive with Mr. and Mrs. Lee and the debutante.

Miss Chapman is attending the University of Chicago this winter and Miss Lee is leaving about Jan. 5 for Smith college to complete her freshman year. She started her studies there last year, but had to come home in the middle of the winter because of illness and she did not return last fall, staying at home to make her debut and to take part in the debutante activities during the busiest part of the season.

Miss Eleanor Page, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Page of 1209 Astor street, is to give a small dinner for Miss Peggy Glidden and her fiancé, John Roderic Rogers, this evening preceding Miss Lee's ball. Mr. Rogers, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Geer Rogers of Ausable Forks, N. Y., arrived on Christmas eve to be the house guest during the holidays of Miss Glidden's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Glidden.

Dinner for Miss Higinbotham.

Mr. and Mrs. William K. Meyers will give a small dinner party at their residence, 63 East Division street, tomorrow night before the Patterson ball, for Miss Florence Higinbotham and her fiancé, John Skelton Williams Jr., who is here from Richmond to spend the holiday season with Miss Higinbotham and her father, Harlow D. Higinbotham of Joliet.

Miss Josephine Patterson, for whom tomorrow's ball is being given by her mother, Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson, is Miss Higinbotham's cousin. Miss Higinbotham and Mr. Williams have decided to be married early in April, but the exact date is not set yet. Mr. Williams will be here until after New Year's.

The big event on tonight's calendar for the subdebs and boys at home from school is a joint party to be given in Lake Forest by Mrs. Mason Pheips for her daughter, Miss Betty Brooks, and Mrs. James B. Forgan Jr., for Miss Margaret and Miss Nancy Forgan. The guests are to have supper at Mrs. Phelps' residence and then go on to dance at the Forgan house. Betty Brooks and Margaret Forgan attend Farmington and Nancy Forgan is a student at the Wheeler school.

Popular Artists to Give Concert.

The crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel, which will be the scene of two of the largest debutante balls of the season tonight and tomorrow night, undoubtedly will be filled this morning to its utmost capacity for the Kinsolving musical, for both the artists, Egon Petri, pianist, and Janet Fairbank, soprano, are immensely popular with the music lovers of society.

Miss Fairbank, too, has a warm place in the hearts of all who know her and her popular parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, and all her relatives and friends always are anxious to be present when she sings. She made her Chicago debut as a singer about a year ago at a Kinsolving musical morning. Mrs. Arthur Meeker is to talk on the Chicago Friends of Music's project at the musical.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Magoun of 4 Berkeley place, Cambridge, Mass., are being congratulated upon the birth of a daughter, Margaret Boyden Magoun, yesterday morning in the Cambridge hospital. She is the Magouns' third child, but the first daughter of the family. Wee Miss Magoun has an aunt, Miss Elizabeth Boyden, who was on hand to welcome her into the world, having gone east from Leland Stanford, where she is doing

BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Hiram White sails his four master ship, the Abigail White, in search of a ship filled with pearl oysters, sunk by a French captain before the world war in a lagoon in a South Sea island. Arlette Mordecai, the French captain's granddaughter, has brought him complete instruction for finding the ship. Arlette is accompanied by an English woman of title, known as Ladybird. In his crew are Adam Eden, an unemployed engineer, an unemployed French chauffeur, named Raoul, Roberts, Millbank, and Peter Cavan. Roberts's father died after his bank failed and Peter was his trusted employé. Benny, a cook, hires up for his keep. Henery Shepard, backer of the venture, fills the boat with a cargo of his own choosing, and plans to stop at certain ports to trade cargoes. Ladybird, who is a naval officer's daughter, is made mate. The ship is seized by four stowaways on the high seas. A warning comes in over the radio about four bank robbers being at large and the captain realizes he and his crew are in their hands. After several days the bandits are overpowered and set adrift. The ship reaches Cape Town, where Henery's cargo is traded at a large profit. Their next destination is Sydney, Australia. Peter finds the robbers' loot hidden on the boat. The captain turns it over to the U. S. consul at Sydney. The cargo is discharged at Sydney and another picked up for delivery to Japan, where another profitable trade is made. The ship now sails to the island where the sunken treasure craft is located. Capt. Hiram, Adam, and Peter take turns diving for the oysters. They have them all aboard when the are beset by a ruffianly crew of a strange yacht, headed by Capt. Derring, who demand the oysters.

INSTALLMENT XXXIV.

A SURPRISING RECOGNITION.

More to gain time than in the hope of receiving even a civil answer Capt. Hiram asked: "What made you think this place was so good?"

Derring was staring moodily at the diving armor that had been dumped down on deck. He said with the hard bitterness of a man who has just staked everything and lost and finds a savage relief in describing his bad luck:

"I had damned good reason to know that it was good. Just before the war an old French Tahitian named Mordecai went off on a pearling cruise. Some months later he got back there claiming to have lost his boat and been cast away on a desert island. Nobody thought much about that. But six months later he chartered a three masted schooner at Norfolk, Va., and loaded her with grub and sailed her across to France and cleaned up a fortune. Where did he get the stake for that? Found a pearl island, of course."

"Well, Roger, so your up to your old tricks again."

"That might be," Capt. Hiram admitted, "but unless he had cleaned it out he'd have kept his mouth shut."

"So he did," Derring said harshly, "but when he died a few years later his papers were sent to his granddaughter. She found a page torn from a note book and on it were written some directions and a longitude bearing. . ."

"And showed it to you?" Capt. Hiram's voice expressed an interest that he had no need to pretend.

Derring snarled angrily: "No fear. She showed it to . . . to another woman, and I happened to overhear some of it. The longitude was quite enough to go on . . . with what I knew already about old Mordecai. This little atoll checked exactly. The longitude cut it smack in two and the physical conditions clicked. I scraped together what little money I could get my claws on and managed to get out to the Fijis and beat my way here in this tub only to find that somebody's licked the platter clean. That shell you got wasn't opened so very long ago. It would be discolored if it dated back to old Mordecai's time."

The narration of his hard luck appeared to have relieved him a little. But it had not drawn his mind from its intention. He went on in his hard incisive voice: "You say you've finished your caulkin' job and want to get to sea. Well, you load that shell aboard me and throw in that old diving rig you got no more use for and I'll tow you five miles to windward."

"You're asking too much," Capt. Hiram said. "Besides, it would take too much time to clean out that bin. What about some stones instead?"

"Look here," said Capt. Derring. "I've stood about enough." He reached to his hip. With the tail of his eye Capt. Hiram saw Adam reach for a belaying pin—an iron one from the foot of the mizzin rigging. Peter beside Adam had also seen this.

"Drop it, Adam," he said in a low voice. "No use. This crowd is all armed. We've got to think of the women."

They were all thinking of them. Resistance could only end in one way and leave the girls at the mercy of these ruffians. With this in mind no hand was raised in resistance as Capt. Derring drew his revolver and walked close to Capt. Hiram. His face that had been forbidding enough before was now murderous. It was plain that he invited the first overt move.

He said harshly: "You damned Yankees have got something else under that old shell. I'm on to your tricks."

Capt. Hiram said curtly: "Think so? Well, we're on to yours. You're a pirate."

Capt. Derring covered him with one of the big revolvers slung from either side his belt. It looked to the others as if this might be the start of a massacre. Perhaps it would have been if at that moment there had not come an interruption.

Ladybird's cool, ironic voice said from the forward end of the raised quarter deck above them:

"Well, Roger, so you're still alive and up to your old tricks again."

Derring lowered his weapon. Ladybird in her white uniform, with the first horizontal rays of the sunrise striking on her brilliantly, stood at the head of the ladder to the raised quarter deck. Derring stared up at her as a man might stare at a daytime ghost of which he disbelieves the reality but of which he is not afraid.

He said slowly: "So that's the game? You faked a drowning accident in your little sailboat off Inishmore, then got away to America and blarneyed some fool into putting up a four master to sail half way round the world after a handful of pearls."

"There was rather more to it than that, old thing," she said in her cool, mocking voice. "We've been trading and having a whale of a time."

"Don't doubt it in the least. You always do. What about the pearls?"

"O dear, we're all of us too late. Somebody's been here. You're not the only one that's disappointed."

"I'm to believe that . . . and if there isn't sweet little Arlette."

"So you were listening outside as I have always feared . . . like the horrid sneak you always were," Arlette cried passionately.

Roberts had come out behind her. Derring said ironically:

"Another beauty. Then the pearls can't be so far away. They manage to get together, I've noticed: beauties and pearls. Anyhow, this is worth all I've suffered so far, Sylvia, darlin'. When your boat was found wrecked off Inishmore . . ."

She said composedly: "I staged that disappearance. Maybe you can guess why."

"To shake me off."

"Quite so. I knew that there'd be no peace for me. It seems that I was right."

"We're going to change all that, my dear. Now that you've got the good old pearls, why not make a fresh start? Trying to . . ."

"Trying to make up for some of the things you've robbed me of; my home, my dowry. And here you are back at your old tricks of robbing me again."

He said coolly, "Well, then, you have got something under that shell?"

"More shell," she told him. "It all runs the same."

"We'll soon find out about that. Then we'll be draggin' this tub out and starting her on her way and you will come aboard the pearler and back to your husband. You will find a change in him."

"I don't doubt that. For the worst."

"That's as it may be."

Jane Addams Will Tell of Music Temple at Concert Tomorrow

Miss Jane Addams, director of Hull house and vice chairman of the Chicago Friends of Music, will be a guest and speaker at the concert of the Chicago Symphony orchestra tomorrow afternoon. She will speak on the campaign of the Chicago Friends of Music to raise $100,0000 for the construction of a permanent music building at the Century of Progress. The organization plans to build the music building by popular subscriptions of $1 each.

The executive committee in charge of the campaign to raise funds includes Frederick A. Stock, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. Waller Borden, C. B. Goodspeed, Chauncey McCormick, Miss Addams, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mrs. Francis Johnson, Mrs. Charles Swift, and George Lytton.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: The Light That Failed

WINNIE'S FAWTHAW CERTAINLY WALKED INTO A PRETTY MESS WITH HIS IDEA OF BUYING HIS OWN CHRISTMAS GIFTS, AND CHARGING THE BILLS TO HIS FRIENDS AND RELATIVES.
WITH THE REFUSALS TO PAY FOR THE PRESENTS COMING IN THICK AND FAST, THE NUMBER OF FAWTHAW'S CHRISTMAS GIFTS ARE GETTING LOWER AND LOWER AND LOWER!
I'LL HAVE TO FIX THIS
THE LIGHTER WON'T LIGHT, WILL IT ?? WELL, I WOULDN'T BOTHER WITH IT, IF I WERE YOU!!
YOU'RE GOING TO BREAK THAT CIGAR LIGHTER, IF YOU'RE NOT CAREFUL! DON'T BOTHER TRYING TO FIX IT, FAWTHAW!!
SAY, THIS LIGHTER IS MY CHRISTMAS GIFT!! WHY SHOULDN'T I FIX IT??
BECAUSE UNCLE PAUL JUST SENT BACK YOUR BILL FOR IT, SO WHY WASTE TIME FIXING SOMETHING THAT DOESN'T BELONG TO YOU!!

Story of Stage Settings Told by Simonson

Famous Designer Reveals History of Trade.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

THE drama has not had its usual prolific print lately.

Fewer plays were published in the fall than I can ever remember being offered to armchair playgoers. There is always, of course, Burns Mantle's annual. This year's edition of "The Best Plays of 1931-1932" [Dodd-Mead] contains besides the high moments of the ten best plays of the year and a running comment on the action between the crises, a year book of the drama. Every play produced in America from June 15, 1931, to June 15, 1932, is listed with the number of performances and a short résume of its plot. Every conceivable vital statistic of the drama in America for the year is also included.

LEE SIMONSON.

The ten plays which Mr. Mantle chose as the best are "Of Thee I Sing," by George S. Kaufman, Morrie Ryskind, and George and Ira Gerahwin; "Mourning Becomes Electra," by Eugene O'Neill; "Reunion in Vienna," by Robert Emmet Sherwood, "The House of Connelly," by Paul Green; "The Animal Kingdom," by Philip Barry; "The Left Bank," by Elmer Rice; "Brief Moment," by S. N. Behrman; "Another Language," by Rose Franken; "The Devil Passes," by Benn W. Levy, and "Cynara," by H. M. Harwood and R. F. Gore-Browne. Of the ten, Chicago audiences have been able to view seven.

One of the plays current in Chicago, "Springtime for Henry," by Benn W. Levy [French], was published in March. Of the successes in New York at present only "Dinner at Eight," by George Kaufman and Edna Ferber [Doubleday-Doran], has reached us in printed form, and "The Great Magoo" by Ben Hecht and Gene Fowler, came in book form just as it was folding up. "Autumn Crocus" is on the presses in an American edition, it already exists in an English edition, which I own, having purchased it somewhat sentimentally in the lobby of the London theater where I saw it done superbly by Francis Lederer [not seen it in America] and Fay Compton. [illegible] Compton Mackenzie the novelist.

"Lucrece," translated by Thornton Wilder, is promised for immediate publication by the Houghton Mifflin company.

Four plays by A. A. Milne [Putnam] published this fall include the text of "Michael and Mary," "To Meet the Prince," "The Perfect Alibi," and "Portrait of a Gentleman in Slippers."

A play which Edna St. Vincent Millay wrote while she was in Vassar, and in which she played there, was published in October. "The Princess Marries the Page" it is called.

A serious dissertation on the subject is "The Case for Tragedy," by Mark Harris [Putnam], who believes in the validity of the tragic pattern in modern art.

Margaret Mayorga's excellent "A Short History of the American Drama" discusses plays prior to 1920 with scholarliness in a volume which is so readable that the man in the street car and the woman in the armchair will find it a delight.

"The Stage Is Set," by Lee Simonson [Harcourt-Brace], was the most important book of the year about the drama. It is something more than a history of stage designing and execution. Written by one of the most successful and brilliant stage designers of today, it contains invaluable material on the contemporary methods, ideals and practices of the art.

It also tells minutely how scene designers of the past gained their effects and divulges many interesting facts such as that the classic Greek theater used a scene shifting device that has been used recently in the "Ziegfeld Follies," that Molière indulged in hippodrome spectacles, that medieval passion plays were more realistic in detail than anything Belasco ever did, that in the 16th and 17th centuries colleges showed as much interest in stage setting as American universities do today and gave much more elaborate performances. For any one even remotely interested in the art of stage designing, "The Stage Is Set" is a Capt. Kidd chest.

Three biographies of stage luminaries have been published this season, each one in its special way unforgettable. "Darling of Misfortune," by Richard Lockridge [Century], is the life story of that darling of the boards, Edwin Booth. The author has had access to letters and other material not previously used in a biography of the man who spanned the period between old and new in the theater. Booth's life was a melodrama which any playwright but Fate would have blushed to put on the boards, and Mr. Lockridge makes the most of his material.

"Duse of the Beautiful Hands," by Vahdah J. Bordeux [Farrar & Rinehart], is an imagination life of the greatest actress of her day.

"Flight of the Swan" is an intimate picture of Anna Pavlowa done by her dancing partner of ten years' standing (or should we say footing?), Andre Oliveroff.

Announcement is made of the marriage on Dec. 20 of Miss Cecile Frances Kohner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Kohner of the Windermere East hotel, to Carl Adler of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Adler of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Adler have gone to Europe for their honeymoon and on their return will reside in New York.

Parent Lacks Faith in Her Own Daughter

BY DORIS BLAKE.

What hurts more than not to be believed when you're telling the absolute truth? Out of the stinging memories of childhood this hurt outlasts almost any other!

"Diane," 17, has been permitted movie attendance with a boy known to her mother. The other evening they outstayed their homecoming hour because they missed the first part of the picture and waited to see it. Then, on the way home, there was a bad automobile accident of which these two were excited observers. Arriving home three-quarters of an hour late, they told the truth. Mother accused the pair of going somewhere. The boy says he'll never come into that house again.

It's a commonplace for blasting quarrels to rise out of such circumstances of not being believed. The young man is late arriving. He explains frankly the reason for his delay. The girl puts another interpretation on the incident. Or, the girl has an engagement, some family affair she cannot get out of. The boy friend accuses her of being out with some other chap.

The married man—some of him—has long since learned that telling a lie serves domestic peace better than explaining truthfully. The woman won't take the truthful story. Frequently, it is the woman's word that's doubted.

But always there is that stinging injustice rankling in the soul of the truth teller who is not believed. With young girls and boys we think the doubting parent extremely harmful in influence. We think it better to appear to believe than to openly express the doubt. Until such time as truly damning evidence arises, at least.

Once the youngster senses the weakness in parental faith something fine and beautiful is destroyed. Often, this lack of faith marks the break of the parents' hold.

Nation's Idle Use Time for Further Study

With the demand for library books greater than ever before, American libraries are faced with the unusual in supplying service on reduced budgets, decreased personnel and dwindling resources. This picture was drawn last night before members of the American Library association, holding the midwinter session in the Drake hotel. The speaker was James Ingersoll Wyer, librarian of the New York state library.

He reported that in addition to the reduction in the number of library employes caused by economic necessity, fewer opportunities for trained librarians exist because vacancies created by resignations, leaves of absence and similar causes are not being filled.

An unusually large number of trained and experienced school and children's library workers, usually in strong demand, are at present unemployed. Enrollment in library training schools is decreased.

The other, brighter, side of the picture reveals that the libraries of the country are playing an important part in a constructive phase of the economic depression. Dr. George H. Locke, head of the public libraries of Toronto, Canada, and former dean of the College of Education at the University of Chicago, said "people are reading more and better books and a vastly greater number of people are reading."

The demand for mystery and light romance novels, he said, is waning. Instead library subscribers are reading geography, travel, history and technical books. Idle persons are using their time to read books of educational value.

Members of the association estimated that throughout the country the number of library subscribers increased by more than a million last year. The sessions will continue today and tomorrow.

Frank Leland Tolman, director of the extension division of the New York state library, will address the meeting today on ways and means for librarians to combat the depression. Tomorrow Harold F. Brigham of Louisville, Ky., will speak on a retirement pension plan for librarians.

graduate work, to spend the holidays with her sister; and she has two uncles in Chicago, William C. Boyden and Preston Boyden.

Subject for Mrs. Roosevelt.

Mrs. Charles S. Dewey telephoned yesterday to say that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's subject when she talks here on Jan. 21 as the guest of the Illinois and Cook County League of Women Voters will be "Politics and Young People," and that should be a subject that the wife of the President elect knows plenty about, for she is the mother of five children and heads a school.

Mrs. Silas H. Strawn is in charge of the sale of boxes for the lecture, which is to be given in Orchestra hall. All the consuls in the city are being invited to attend and sit in the diplomatic loge, which will be decorated with the flags of their nations, so the picture that night should be a colorful and gay one. Mrs. Frank P. Hixon is general chairman of arrangements and Mrs. Dewey is in charge of publicity.

Two attractive young men who were here for Miss Mary Senior's dance at the Casino Tuesday night were Waldo E. Forbes of Boston and Gordon Southam of Ottawa, Can. Miss Senior is the debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Senior of 329 Lake Shore drive.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Storey of 199 Lake Shore drive spent Christmas and will spend New Year's day at the Ahwahnee in Yosemite valley, where they vacationed last spring.

Miss Edith Lapham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arden B. Lapham of Evanston, was hostess at a bridge tea yesterday afternoon for Miss Helen Marie Castle, the debutante daughter of Mrs. Frederick L. McNally. Miss Lapham is spending the Christmas vacation from Vassar with her parents.

Hold Gymkhana For Children

The children's gymkhana held yesterday afternoon in the Onwentsia riding arena was a great success and provided a lot of fun both for the youngsters who rode in the show and the mothers and fathers in the audience.

There were riding and jumping classes for children of two age groups, the juniors including those from the tiniest tots up to the 9-year-olds and the seniors from 9 years of age and upward.

A special class which won a lot of applause was a mother's and children's competition which was won by Mrs. John E. Hughes with her son, John, and by Mrs. Edward H. Bennett with her daughter, Olive Mead. Barbara Hixon, the Robert Hixons' daughter, was given the prize for the best riding in the junior class, and the Wayne Chatfield-Taylors' daughter, Adelaide, was the winner in the senior class. Laurance H. Armour judged the show, and the only tragedy of the day was the fact that his son, little "Larry" Armour, was unable to ride because of the flu.

That internationally famous character, Mickey Mouse, will appear in person for the first time in Chicago with the performance of the Hestwood Marionettes at 11 o'clock this morning at the Playhouse under the auspices of the Junior League. The performance will be repeated at 3 o'clock this afternoon and at the same hours tomorrow and Saturday.

Memorial for Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick.

The American Opera Society of Chicago is having its second operatic concert of the season this morning at 11 o'clock at the Arts club, followed by a luncheon. The concert is to be a memorial to Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, honorary president of the society from 1922 until her death last summer.

The program will include the singing of lyrics, the words of which were written by Mrs. McCormick and the music by Archibald E. Freer, and excerpts from the opera "Evangeline," by Otto Luening, a former protégé of Mrs. McCormick, who, with his wife, has come from their home in Tucson, Ariz., to take part in the memorial concert.

Mr. Luening will play the piano and his wife, Ethel Luening, will sing his opera excerpts. The David Bispham medals will be presented to Mr. Luening and Marx E. Oberndorfer at the concert. Miss Emily Larned is president of the society.

Yale graduates throughout the middle west and their sons are planning to attend the annual Lale Club of Chicago fathers and sons luncheon at the La Salle hotel today at noon. Malcolm Farmer, director of athletics, and a star Yale football player on the 1902 and 1903 squads, will be the principal speaker. Fred K. Stewart, former Evanston High athlete, now a student at Yale on a scholarship awarded him by the Chicago and Evanston Yale clubs, also is on the program, as is George A. Ranney Jr., a Chicago boy and incoming chairman of the Yale Daily News.

Williams Alumni to Meet Today.

The Williams Alumni Association of Chicago will hold its annual undergraduate luncheon today at 12:30 o'clock at the University club. Carl B. Davis Jr. of Evanston, president of this year's junior class and captain elect of the 1933 football team, will talk of activities at Williamstown.

The marriage of Miss Lucy McCurdy, daughter of D. G. McCurdy of Evanston, to John Waite Cogswell of Southampton, L. I., son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Cogswell of Winnetka, will be solemnized at 8 o'clock this evening in the chapel of St. Luke's Pro-Cathedral, with Bishop George Craig Stewart officiating. A small reception will follow at the residence of the bride's father.

Miss McCurdy will be attended by Mrs. Melvin B. Ericson of Libertyville, matron of honor, and Miss Beatrice McCurdy and Miss Josephine Puntschart of Chicago, bridesmaids. George Cogswell will be best man for the bridegroom, and William McCurdy, George Bliss of Highland Park, and Preston Farley of Kenilworth will usher.

Mr. Cogswell and his bride are to depart immediately after the reception for Southampton, where they will reside.

A post-Christmas home dressmakers' sale will be held today at the White Elephant Rummage shop at 27 East Ohio street, with Mrs. D. Mark Cummings and her committee in charge. A number of marked down dresses will be included with the regular dressmakers' articles on sale.

THE STAGE

Guy Bates Post will begin an engagement at the Blackstone theater Sunday night, Jan. 8, in Franz Molnar's comedy "The Play's the Thing." His company will include Katherine Standing, Roy Murdock, Roger Quinlan, Richard Lloyd, Edgar Jephson, and Don Willson. This play was acted in Chicago about five years ago by the late Holbrook Blinn.

"Springtime for Henry," the current bill at the Blackstone, will continue in performance until Jan. 7.

Ed Wynn's engagement in "The Laugh Parade" at the Grand Opera house will end Jan. 14. The comedian-manager will continue on tour, opening in Kansas City Jan. 15. His "Fire Chief" broadcast next Tuesday night will be a public affair at the Grand Opera house for the benefit of the stage hands' union. Auxiliary entertainment will expand the program into a two hours' show. C. C.

Improves the Hipline

Grasp a table leg or bed board with the hands. Bring the knees up on the abdomen, then quickly stretch the legs forward full length, but don't let the heels touch the floor. Repeat till you can bring the knees up to the chest.

Charming Design Inexpensive and Simple to Make

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

The dress sketched is one that you'll surely enjoy wearing, and it's easy an inexpensive to make. Two shades of brown rough silk crêpe, rustic green wool crêpe self-trimmed, cashmere jersey, tweed mixtures, and novelty silk and wool silk crêpes are all smart.

The pattern, No. 3228, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Slim Hipline Is Reward of Leg Stretching

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Now, for the hips, girls!

Down "wid 'em!" Down!

You don't need all that cushioning! Some of it, yes! But two, four, six inches extra around there only impedes your progress as a stepper. And you "jes' ain't got no lines" if you're all fat and bothered where you ought to have a lovely streamline of hip.

For today and the next two days I'm going to give you three of the best hip exercises known. Now, don't just read about them and look at the picture of my model doing them. It's your hips that have to be whittled down and you're the only ones who can "take the medicine" for them. Only, it's not hard medicine to take.

I'll let you do them to music if that will make you feel better, which I believe it will. Turn on a good tune and then stretch yourself out on the floor. By the way, how do you get down on the floor? In two or three sections? Hands carefully feeling the way? How do you get up? With even more effort? You're needing more than exercise for your hips! You'll be getting it, however, as you do these muscle limberers I'm giving you.

Incidentally, this exercise today is just as good for what ails your abdomen as your hips.

At first glance, it may look like an old exercise acquaintance, but there's a catch in this one. You're going to need a leg of a table or baseboard of a bed or something to hold on to to give the legs better play. So, grasp something substantial as you lie prone and bring the knees up over the abdomen; then [and here's the catch] stretch the legs forward on a quick move and DON'T touch the floor with the heels! Keep on bringing the knees up over the abdomen again and stretching forward with the legs and back again, without touching heels to floor. Keep on until you can bring the knees well up on the chest. This, incidentally, is wonderful for reducing thighs and buttocks.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Stevens Graham of Glencoe have announced the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Downing, to Thomas Rogers Wigglesworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wigglesworth of Kenilworth and Miami, Fla. Miss Graham attended Briarcliff college and is now a student at Northwestern university, where she is pledged to Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Mr. Wigglesworth is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Chamberlain of Evanston announce the engagement of their daughter, Gertrude Louise, to E. Jackson Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Peterson of Chicago and Saugatuck, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Edwin Berggren of 2045 Birchwood avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Grace Virginia, to Paul Aldrich Hassel, son of Otto H. Hassel of Evanston.

Throngs Guests of St. Vincent's on Anniversary

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The babies of St. Vincent's orphanage, 721 North La Salle street, had a party yesterday in honor of the third anniversary of the opening of their new building. More than 600 guests came, crowding the corridors to get glimpses of their youthful hosts, and if some of the rumors overheard prove true some of the babies are going to have brand new parents and homes of their own one of these days.

The party began with a play in the auditorium, called "One Brought a Lamp." The babies didn't understand this part of the party because it was for the Sisters of Charity who operate St. Vincent's. Members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, of which Mrs. Mary McWhorter is president, had charge of the program, and there were even lollypops for the members of the Catholic Girls' orchestra, presented by Sister de Paul.

Then the visitors scattered through the five floors hunting up the babies. They pressed their faces against the glass windows to see as many of the orphanage charges as they could. There were a considerable number of "Ohs" and "Ahs" and "Adorable" and "How cunning" and the orphans replied by bestowing their happiest smiles.

Still culinary delights and wonders continue to accrue! We are now, may I inform you, making "mince meat" pies out of that most aristocratic of salad fruits, that most educated member of the avocado family—the calavo!

It's a lemon mince meat, by the way, and connoisseurs declare themselves puzzled to tell which is the real thing—the suet mince meat or that made with the rich, fatty meat of the calavo. While this new type of pie will necessarily be slightly higher in price than the orthodox mince meat creation, it has certain advantages which may endear it to many lovers of good food.

It naturally eliminates the bother of cooking meat and shredding suet, and it is easily digestible. In addition, it may be used cold, since it need not worry about the heavy oily effect obtained from suet pies when they grow chilly. Youngsters will also find it within the approved list if it is made with a graham cracker crust instead of with the regulation pastry underpinnings.

This recipe for "calavo mince meat" will make four generous pies—about a pint to a pie.

CALAVO LEMON MINCE MEAT.

2 cups diced calavo
6 greening apples
1 orange
5 medium sized lemons
1 cup water
1 pound seeded raisins
1 pound currants
1½ cups brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon mace
¾ teaspoon cloves
¾ teaspoon allspice
1 cup brandy flavoring [optional]

Wash, core, and put the apples through the food chopper, using the large knife. Wash the lemons, cut the projecting rind from each, and put the rest through the food chopper with the orange, using a finer knife. Add the water, cover the kettle, and simmer 40 minutes.

Wash the raisins and currants and add to the apples with the sugar, salt, and spices. Let this mixture stand one hour.

Add the diced calavo and simmer—do not boil—for one and one-half hours. Add, if you wish, the brandy flavoring. Seal in hot sterilized jars, or use at once.

But mince pies aren't the only novel places in which calavos are turning up these days. We are becoming acquainted with calavo sandwich spreads, calavo stuffed eggs, and calavos blending their rich golden green with scrambled eggs, mushrooms à la king, fruit cocktails, short cakes, and molded desserts.

Calavos, by the way, unlike most other fruits, never soften on the trees, and so are never ready to eat when freshly picked but only when the flesh has softened so that the fruit yields quite easily to the gentle pressure of the full hands. For dishes in which we wish to sieve the fruit, somewhat softer calavos should be used. Cover any unused portion of the calavo with waxed paper. The fruit will soften naturally at room temperature. To hasten this softening process place in a warm room but do not overheat. It is well not to place calavos in the refrigerator until ready to serve. When they are to be chilled, edge them in to the "warmest" spot in the refrigerator.

Three Flounces of Fringe Cover Skirt of Dinner Dress from Callot Soeurs

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Most of the great French dressmakers showed at least one fringed evening frock in their fall, 1932, collections. It was a suggestion to women generally that maybe fringes might stage a comeback.

Chanel has one fringed evening dress that she tells me is a best seller. Mainbocher has one which he has sold to many of his most particular clients. Callot Soeurs have one that has been taken by distinguished Parisiennes.

This model of Callot Soeurs is illustrated herewith. It is a dinner dress of black satin, with a bodice that is made high in front, having only a modest daytime V-shaped décolleté, whereas at the back the V extends to the waistline. There is a sash of dull black velvet, with full length ends at the back, held at the waistline by a rose-shaped buckle made of jade and crystal.

The skirt is straight and is covered, from a hip yoke, with flounces of fringe, three of them. The top flounce is made of deep fringes, pointed in front; the second is narrower and also dipped down in a point in front, while the bottom row of fringe is straight.

Plan Ahead to Avoid Telling Child to Hurry

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

That it is hard on little children to cry "Hurry, hurry" to them and that it has no real meaning to them, anyway, is what we were discussing in yesterday's article. It is not fair to make them share so early in the feeling of pelting hurry that so many people today experience. Just as it isn't fair, for example, to scold them for gulping or bolting their food, after we have spent so many impatient hours hurrying their eating when they were little. In fact, although it sounds a bit too good to be true, I do not think we ought to try to bring them up so they can live and work, and even "laugh and weep" with a certain sense of composure.

Still, the facts remain and we have to be practical. We have only twenty-four hours a day and we have certain things to do in them. How are we going to manage?

The first thing is this: really to manage. Let us try to plan our time and the children's so that things "click." And by that I don't mean any of these awful inhuman schedules of living that you see laid out on paper—schedules for a day that leave you no moment in which to stop to glance over the headlines, or chat or dream, or criticize your haircut—schedules which allow you no time to be just a person.

What I do mean by managing is for you to take the responsibility for things being timed: not to leave it to the child. For instance, if your little girl has her doll out and you know she is determined to put it elaborately to bed before her supper, then let her know fifteen minutes ahead of time that it's time for her baby to be tucked in before she leaves her for the night.

If your little boy is absorbed in making a garage with his blocks and you'll soon want him to get dressed to go out, give him a little time.

In making a train or keeping a definite appointment try to plan ahead so that hurry and the consequent impatience and frazzled nerves don't get to be part of the picture.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Ask Kitchen Stove.

"Will you try to get us a kitchen coal stove? My husband has been out of work for more than a year, our gas has been shut off and we have no way of cooking. Our baby is a year old. If you can get this for me I will be so grateful to you. Mrs. W. G."

Cooking their meager rations has become a real problem for this family with no gas and no coal stove. If you have a kitchen stove not in use at this time it would mean an immense help to them.

ILLINOIS SPEAKER EXPECTED TO BE CHOSEN MONDAY

Horner, Cermak Return to City Then.

Word received yesterday that Governor Elect Horner and Mayor Cermak will be back in Chicago next Monday and announcement that a meeting of general assemblymen will be held that day became the basis for a general belief that the speakership of the Illinois house will be determined then.

Before leaving for Florida, where they have been during the last week, the two Democratic leaders told their followers there would be no action so far as the speakership was concerned until they came back to town. As the party caucuses will be held at Springfield on Tuesday it is expected that Judge Horner's wishes will be made known at least a day in advance—that is, on "Little New Year's Day," as the second holiday is called.

Horner to Decide Selection.

It has become known that if the governor elect expresses a wish for some candidate that expression will determine the outcome of the speakership contest, which, although without bitterness, has been in progress ever since the election.

The Democratic house caucus on Tuesday evening will include eighty members. Only thirty-two of them are from Cook county, but so many down state representatives have said they will follow the desires of the incoming administration in reference to the speakership that Judge Horner needs only to whisper the name of his man.

That he has not done so yet was stated authoritatively yesterday, despite reports that followed a visit to Chicago by Representative Thomas P Sinnett of Rock Island, one of the several candidates. It is known that the early favorite, Representative John P. Devine of Dixon, has fallen back in the race; but those who know do not concede definite leadership to Sinnett to Arthur Roe of Vandalia, or to James T. Burns of Kankakee, all of whom are said to have about equal chances.

Supporters Ignoe

Sinnett and Devine were friendly to their assembly associate, Michael J. Igoe, in a governorship primary candidate last spring a fact that has worked against them, and it is not believed that Judge Horner's forgiving spirit will go so far as to lend him to support either one unless some argument not hitherto advanced is made in his behalf.

The Cook county delegation has conceded its willingness to let the speakership go to a downstate man, but it has taken the position that the other important party place in the house, the floor leadership, should come up state—that both big places should not go to downstate. Among the Chicagoans mentioned for the floor leader's post are James P Boyle and Benjamin S. Adamowski.

Among the Republicans there is little question that the hard labors of minority leadership will fall upon Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago.

While Cook county will have only twelve of the thirty-two Democrats in the party caucus members of the upper house, it is believed certain that Senator Richey V. Graham of Chicago will be elected president pro tempore at that meeting Tuesday night

GOVERNORS JOIN LOBBY BOOSTING FEDERAL COSTS

Washington, D. C., Dec 28.—[Special.]—Even governors of states have joined the army of lobbyists now working to boost rather than to cut down the cost of operating the federal establishment. This was disclosed today by Representative Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.], majority leader of the house

He stated that within the last few days his office and that of many other congressmen had been inundated with telegrams from governors and directors of highways, urging huge federal expenditures for highways.

Mr. Rainey disclosed today that California heads the list of western states which have called upon congress this week to overturn the recommendations of President Hoover, the budget and the house appropriations committee in the matter of extending the usual federal aid to highways. The telegrams were prompted by the fact that the agricultural committee bill as reported to congress, provides for expending 187 million dollar less in 1934 on federal participation in public roads construction than was appropriated for 1933.

Three telegrams made public by Mr. Rainey came from Gov. James Rolph Jr. of California, Gov. George H. Dern of Utah, a man prominently mentioned for the interior post of the Roosevelt cabinet, and F. B. Balzar governor of Nevada. All urged passage of senate bill 36, which would appropriate 123 million dollars for use in matching state funds in public road construction.

ROBBERS INVADE PARISH HOUSE, BEAT 2 PRIESTS

The Rev. Blaz Jerkovic, 53 years old, pastor of St. Jerome's Croatian Catholic church, was under treatment at the Holy Cross hospital last night as a result of a beating administered by three hoodlums who invaded the parish house at 2823 Princeton avenue Tuesday evening. He was struck on the head with a poker during the fight.

Also attacked and injured were the Rev. Hugolin Feyac, assistant pastor, and Aloysius Soldo, a lay brother and cook for the priests. They were also treated at Holy Cross hospital and allowed to go home.

Their assailants took a small amount of money after tying up their victims, but failed to open a safe containing a larger sum. There was a report that gangsters had attacked Father Jerkovic because he had refused to officiate at the funeral of a gangster. He said, however, that he had never refused religious rites to any gangster.

Presidential Party Expects to Reach Palm Beach Today

With President Hoover in Florida Inland Passage, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Seeking to gain a day in arriving at his lower Florida fishing grounds, President Hoover pushed on down the Florida east coast waterways far after nightfall tonight in hope of arriving at Palm Beach tomorrow, instead of Friday as originally planned.

Instead of anchoring when darkness fell, the presidential party went on for more than three hours with the aid of an expert pilot. Lawrence Richey, presidential secretary aboard the Sequoia, said Mr. Hoover hoped to reach Palm Beach by tomorrow afternoon and possibly begin his search for sailfish and barracuda during the early evening

Guggenheim to Join Party.

Harry F. Guggenheim, American ambassador to Cuba, is expected to join the Hoover party late tomorrow at Palm Beach. Richey said, however, that the ambassador had been asked to contact the party long before its departure from Washington and that his projected visit had no connection with political affairs in Cuba.

After a comparatively slow passage during the morning, the Hoover fishing flotilla gained speed during the late afternoon after finding deeper water in the Indian river. The fleet anchored tonight near Sebastian inlet.

Calls Medicine Ball Cabinet.

Mr. Hoover has revived many of his customs of the White House during his last three days of cruising—including not only work but also his morning medicine ball game.

Calling a somewhat deflated but familiar medicine ball cabinet meeting on the top deck of the U. S. S. Sequoia this morning, the chief executive took his turn in passing a light ball among Justice Stone of the Supreme court, Senator Austin of Vermont, Mark Sullivan, writer; Dr. Joel T. Boone, the White House physician, and Mr. Richey.

With Mrs. Hoover, Mrs. Stone and Mrs. Austin as an audience, this morning's game took place just after the flag raising ceremony in the small Hoover fleet, held shortly before Daytona Beach was passed.

URGES UNITED CIVIC GROUP TO WATCH OFFICIALS

M. V. L. Head Points to Need for Merger.

Herbert J. Friedman, president of the Municipal Voters' league, said yesterday that steps would be taken to establish a permanent civic organization to watch over the preparation of annual budgets and the expenditure of public money by the major local governments in Cook county. The organization would also make recommendations to voters on the election of public officials.

In the opinion of Mr. Friedman, the nucleus of such an organization exists in the various civic agencies which are serving now to a limited extent in that field. Few of these civic groups watch more than one public body, and it time, Mr. Friedman said, for them to combine, forming a strong organization that would have the support of a large citizen group in enforcing sound practices in governmental finance.

For Unified Organization.

"No doubt," said Mr. Friedman, "the contributions to these various civic agencies that cover the political field have been severely reduced, forcing a reduction in the personnels that gather facts and investigate the doings of the local government. I believe that now is a good time to arrange to have the entire field of local government covered by one complete organization.

"When aldermanic elections were held each year the M. V. L. continually was in the limelight and was stronger because of the short term. Later, the number of aldermen was reduced from seventy to fifty and the elections were held biannually. Now our recommendation is to reduce further the number of aldermen and to provide for a four year term."

With aldermen coming up for reelection only once every four years there might be difficulty, according to Mr. Friedman, in keeping the M. V. L. alive. A consolidation with the Legislative Voters' league and with other civic agencies thus is one method, he said, of keeping a citizens' watch on the public bodies.

Another function now performed by the various civic groups that would be taken over by the proposed larger organization would be that of issuing recommendations on all candidates for public office. The M. V. L. now limits its recommendations to candidates for the city council.

Keeps Observer in Council.

The M. V. L. has an executive secretary, Frank Spelz, who attends meetings of the city council and its committees, principally the sessions of the finance committee, and on his observations are based the M. V. L.'s aldermanic recommendations. The Bureau of Public Efficience, which lately combined with the Civic federation, also has an observer present at city budget sessions.

Shelby M. Singleton of the L. V. L. also carries on investigations in city affairs besides watching the general assembly. On the basis of an investigation carried on by Mr. Singleton recently, an electrical contractor and several city employés were found guilty of skimping on a contract for the installation of city street lamp posts

DENTIST, 87, CIVIL WAR VET, LOSES SUIT OVER RENT

Dr. A. L. Graves, 87 years old, veteran dentist who served as a soldier in the civil war, appeared in the Renters' court yesterday to explain why he had not paid his landlord $175 for rent of an office at 2024 North Halsted street

After relating his war record, which included a sharpshooting assignment while he was with the 8th Wisconsin infantry, Dr. Graves declared that he had to move out of the office because of its unsanitary condition.

He admitted, however, that he owed $100 of the amount claimed and Judge Lambert K. Hayes entered judgment against him for that amount.

CUT CAR LINES PERSONALTY TAX TO $2,250,000

Total Assessments for City 953 Millions.

George F. Nixon and Fred W. Brummel, members of the board of tax appeals, fixed the 1931 assessed valuation of the surface lines at $34,249,988 last night. This calls for a tax payment of about $2,250,000. The valuation is a reduction of 18 per cent from Assessor J. L. Jacobs' original valuation of $42,500,000, and a 43 per cent cut from the $60,000,000 valuation which he submitted to the board after the surface lines complained that his first figure was too high.

Last year the street car companies paid $2,876,927 in personalty taxes after Special Attorney Lee La Rochelle, who is under contract to the county board to collect delinquent personal property taxes, fought the case for eight days before Circuit Judge Craig Hood. The 1930 tax bill was paid on an assessed valuation of $43,300,000. The car lines did not appeal Judge Hood's ruling.

Analyzes 1931 Valuations.

The board issued a long statement in which it analyzed the 1931 assessed valuations which Assessor Jacobs had placed on the various types of the lines' property. The full valuations under Mr. Jacobs' appraisals totaled $166,000,000. From this the reviewers eliminated $10,982,283 for paving, $3,956,495 for tunnels which the members said should be assessed as real estate, and $9,892,219 for the surface lines' interest in bridges in conjunction with the city, and its patent and franchise rights.

The reduction in the assessed valuation was done "in conformity with legal opinions from the attorney general of Illinois, which changed the allocation of certain items of the company's properties," according to the statement.

Assessor Jacobs asked Attorney Thomas D. Huff, counsel for the lines, if he had scheduled the property deducted from the personalty lists in the $9,892,219 item for franchise, patent and bridge rights, with the state tax commission, which, under the law, must assess all intangible property.

Jacobs' Inquiry Unanswered.

The assessor called to the attention of the board members that the lines' $10,500,000 "intangibles" assessment for 1930, as made by the tax commission, had been reduced to $1,500,000 for 1931. He asked how the state was to tax franchises and patent rights if they were not included either in the personal or intangibles assessments. Neither the lawyer nor the board members answered him.

Assessor Jacobs yesterday made public the city's 1931 total personality valuation for tax purposes, with the completion of the South town, or loop area, books. The assessed valuation amounts to $953,911,864, including $16,427,061 of valuation on the area of seven country towns whose limits overlap those of the city. Last year the total city assessment was $701,247,629, but it did not include the parts of the country towns included in the 1931 total. In 1930 these country town areas were assessed by the country town assessors.

The town of South is assessed $226,826,566 for 1931, as compared with $299,338,884 for 1930. South town is the richest of all the various tax assessing towns in the county. Only West town, with a 1931 assessment of $195,407,129, exceeded 100 millions of dollars in valuation.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 86 (for twenty-four hour period ending at midnight Tuesday).

Automobiles recovered, 114; stripped, 19 (for forty-eight hour period ending at midnight Tuesday).

Automobile case defendants yesterday: Frank Dispersa, fined $100 and costs, and John Fabiano, fined $50 and costs, for riding in a stolen car. Arthur Allschul, fined $10 and costs for tampering with a car. Stanley Bielski, Lawrence Javor, and Raymond Januszewski, all held to the grand jury for larceny of auto. All cases before Judge John Gutknecht.

PLAGIARISM SUIT AGAINST 'OF THEE I SING' DISMISSED

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The plagiarism suit brought by Walter Lowenfels, poet and author, against the composers, authors and producers of the musical play, 'Of Thee I Sing," was dismissed in the federal court today by Judge John M. Woolsey and the costs of the action including $3,500 in attorney's fees were charged against Mr. Lowenfels by the court.

"In this cause, as is usual in plagiarism causes," wrote Judge Woolsey, "obscurity is taking a long shot at success. Having failed to reach its mark the plaintiff must be made to pay for the expense to which he has put the defendants."

The action, which asked an injunction, an accounting of all profits and damages which would amount to over a million dollars, charged that "Of Thee I Sing" was stolen from his own composition, "U. S. A. with Music," copyrighted Feb. 17, 1931, and that the second acts of the two plays were directly parallel.

The defendants named included George Jean Nathan, George S. Kaufman, George and Irving Gershwin, Morrie Ryskind, A. H. Harris, Irving Berlin, Alfred A. Knopf, and the New World Music company.

LINER, $17,500,000 ON BOARD, HIT BY MONSTER WAVE

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The White Star liner Majestic, carrying $17,500,000 in gold, was struck in midocean Friday by a monster wave which mounted the forward deck, smashed in the bulkhead of the forecastle and ripped apart iron plates half an inch thick, it was learned on the liner's arrival here today. One seaman was killed and two cooks narrowly escaped drowning.

The wave struck about 11:30 a. m., Capt. E. L. Trant reported. The worst damage occurred a few feet aft of the iron covered hatch which was damaged similarly several years ago.

The scullery, where the food of the seamen is prepared, was wrecked. A cargo boom of steel, 100 feet long, was bent, and four windows on the promenade deck, starboard side, broken.

The accident occurred while most of the passengers were at luncheon or in their cabins.

J. H. Johnston, an able bodied seaman in the deckhouse, was found to have sustained fatal injuries.

ROBBED AT RAILROAD STATION.

William S Caldwell of the Carolan hotel, 5508 Ellis avenue, was robbed of $7 and his watch yesterday by two men. The holdup occurred at the 57th street station of the Illinois Central railroad.

HORNER TO CUT INAUGURAL POMP TO SAVE MONEY

A formal statement of his economy plans for the inauguration ceremonies at Springfield on Jan. 9, was issued in Governor Elect Horner's name yesterday by his secretary, Arthur P. O'Brien.

"It is my desire," the statement read, "and the desire of the other elected state officers, to keep at a minimum the expense and display in connection with our inauguration. The untold suffering of our people would make every unnecessary display and expenditure offensive to good taste and proper economy.

"To this end there will be no formal state ball following the inauguration at the armory and the reception at the executive mansion."

The Springfield Chamber of Commerce has arranged for a dance at the arsenal at its own expense following the governor's reception.

HOTEL LA SALLE'S LOSS IN 6 MONTHS SET AT $51,000

Receiver Reports to Federal Court.

Loss of $51,000 in the operation of the Hotel La Salle, in which the Illinois Life Insurance company has investments of more than $5,000,000, was disclosed in the report for the period from June 1 to Dec. 1 submitted to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday.

The actual operating loss, according to the receiver for the hotel, Thurlow G. Essington, was only $25,000, but the receiver added that the ground rent, $26,000 for the period, had not been paid. The Illinois Life Insurance company, which, like the La Salle and Stevens hotels, was controlled by members of the Stevens family, owns 72 per cent of the fee of the La Salle and $1,000,000 of the hotel's $4,000,000 issue of first mortgage bonds, according to the receiver's report. The insurance company also bought $3,605,000 of the debentures of the Hotel La Salle, which at present have no market value.

Total receipts of the hotel for the period covered by the report were $385,000 and total expenses were $410,000, including the ground rent. In addition to the losses sustained the hotel owes the county $400,000 in taxes for 1929 and 1930 and is being sued.

Counsel for Gen. Abel Davis, receiver for the Illinois Life Insurance company, said it might be necessary to bring foreclosure proceedings so that the insurance company could acquire title to the Hotel La Salle, but Judge Wilkerson ordered the continued operation of the hotel.

It was suggested during the hearing that the World's Fair of 1933 and scheduled conventions might help the hotel situation, and Judge Wilkerson said the bondholders of the La Salle unquestionably would lose more by closing than by operating it at a loss.

STUDENT 'PINKS' ARE REBUKED BY JANE ADDAMS

Members of the National Student Congress Against War, who advocate a class war, were rebuked yesterday by Miss Jane Addams, Chicago sociologist and Nobel peace prize co-winner. She spoke before 700 members of the organization at Mandel hall, University of Chicago. The membership of the congress is described as being "pink."

"The great temptation that is coming to you is class war," said Miss Addams. "The greater thing you should do is to study a strategy that will meet, without the use of force, such a potential class uprising. Your business is not to learn to march against vested authority, but to learn human nature so well that you will bring all classes together and make them see their common needs for each other."

Miss Addams said she was "a little disappointed" in the program of the congress, declaring that in their fight against imperialist wars they were waging a battle already won.

The congress will met today.

'PRINCE MIKE' BUYS FAVORITE TOBACCO AND GETS ARRESTED

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—"Prince Michael Romanoff," America's chief royal imposter, whose well bred manner of quietly ignoring the fact that he is really Harry F. Gerguson, has been greatly admired in New York's better speakeasies, was arrested today. He is charged with illegally entering the United States He was taken to Ellis Island to await a hearing in deportation proceedings.

The "Prince" was deported on the same charge only last spring. Subsequently he served a term in a Paris jail, and was expelled from France A week ago he was reported to have arrived in New York as a stowaway on the same day the liner Europa docked and then to have gone on to Canada after a brief visit to some of the more luxurious drinking places here. Since then the immigration inspectors have been looking for him, charging that he is an alien and subject to deportation.

The "Prince," whose aristocratic aplomb is such that he has never experienced the slightest difficulty in reconciling his claims to both American birth and to having been a prince in czarist Russia took his arrest with royal dignity. He was the personification of poise as he received the press in the West 47th street police station, en-route to Ellis Island, and announced that he expected to prove his American citizenship and to be enjoying his royal perquisites as well as his liberty, in a few days.

The "Prince" has always enjoyed the best things in life, whether in funds or not. It was this trait which led to his misfortune today. He has never been able to get along without a Dunhill pipe and some Royal Yacht pipe tobacco, which at $10 a pound is said to be the most expensive smoking mixture in the world.

So he went to Dunhill's shop at Fifth avenue and 43d street to make a purchase. He was not in disguise; he had merely shaved off his wispy mustache that had been a distinctive feature of his recently published pictures and clothed himself in a smart winter sports costume instead of the well tailored business suit he usually wears.

His arrest followed.

Evanston Policeman No. 1 Retires; on Job 30 Years

Evanston's policeman No. 1 retired on pension at midnight last night. He is John Kehoe, 69 years old, of 1817 Greenwood street, Evanston. Kehoe has been on the Evanston force for thirty years. He has spent all of that time except one month on patrol wagon duty. His badge number actually is 101, which is the lowest number.

ANONYMOUS $100 GIFT ARRIVES FOR HUNGRY PUPILS

Total Contributions Pass $18,000 Mark.

An anonymous gift of $100 came just in time yesterday to boost the Hungry School Children's fund over the $18,000 mark. This gift gave the fund a renewed impetus to the contributions, which had shown a decline since Christmas.

An original method of raising money for the fund came to the attention of the Hungry School Children's fund editor with the arrival of $3 from the boys of Pope college, Glenwood Manual Training school, Glenwood. The boys went caroling Christmas night and collected a few dimes. Then they all chipped in until they had a total of $3.

"We are all grateful that we have Glenwood to live in and that we received such nice gifts," the boys wrote. "We think we ought to share some of our Christmas money, so here it is." The letter was signed by eighteen boys.

The contributions in full are as follows:

$5—A Friend, M. E. Sturtevant, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Pooler, Theo Zimmermann, H. M. Kleiser, Elmhurst.
$3—The boys of Pope cottage, Glenwood Manual Training school.
$2—Tena Koener, D. M. L.
$1—D. W., A nurse at Cook county hospital, Bob Strouse, Mrs. L. T. Williams, Elmhurst; A Friend, N. A. J.

ONLY 1 ALDERMAN ATTENDS COUNCIL UTILITY HEARING

Ald. Frank J. Corr [17th], the only member of the city council subcommittee on public utility regulation to attend its meeting yesterday, received from Harry R. Booth, attorney for the Utility Consumers and Investors' League of Illinois, a nine point legislative program for increasing the powers of the Illinois commerce commission.

The subcommittee, of which Ald. Barnet Hodes [7th] is chairman, was organized eight months ago. It held several meetings and then lapsed into quiet until about a week ago. When the time for yesterday's meeting arrived Ald. Hodes and five of the other six members of the committee failed to appear.

Discussing the Insull crash in a speech to his one-man audience, Attorney Booth stressed the number of times that the rulings of the Illinois commerce commission have been reversed by the courts. He also attacked the investment subsidiary companies of public utilities as a "flagrant vice," charging that the commerce commission could have prevented the use of utility company assets for speculative purposes through the investment subsidiaries.

"Could the results have been worse if we had had no commerce commission?" demanded Attorney Booth.

FIRST WIFE SAYS KINARD YIELDED TO LIFE OF EASE

Adds to Charges Against Kansas City Doctor.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Seeking a million dollars for the loss of the love of her divorced husband, Dr. Kerwin W. Kinard, wealthy Kansas City physician, Mrs. Ada Lee Porter Kinard filed a declaration in her suit in Circuit court today charging that the doctor had been led to the divorce courts by "flattery" and promises of "a life of ease."

The declaration in the suit, in which Dr. Kinard's present wife, the former Mrs. Gail Stephens, heiress to a Michigan lumber fortune, is defendant, was filed coincident with the disclosure that the couple have left the suit for lawyers to worry about and are now in Europe.

Before they left for Europe Dr. Kinard and his second wife said their chance meeting in Detroit had revived a twenty-five year old love, broken when they separated years before, each believing the other dead.

In the declaration to her suit Mrs. Kinard charged that her husband was "lavishly entertained" by Mrs. Stephens, who "revived an alleged courtship of their youth"; further, that the marriage took place under a license procured two days before Dr. Kinard's divorce was granted. The divorce was obtained by Mrs. Kinard Nov. 11 last, and a few days later Dr. Kinard and Mrs. Stephens were married in Ohio.

Following renewal of his acquaintance with Mrs. Stephens, the first wife charged, the physician told her of his love for the sweetheart of his youth and demanded a divorce, threatening to "abandon his family and carry away the savings of their married life" if the divorce were not granted. She said she was "compelled" to make a property settlement and then obtained a decree. She was given custody of their two children and $200 monthly.

Four upsets enlivened the second round play at the University of Chicago field house yesterday as competition sharpened in the Stagg prep basketball tournament. The ratio between city and suburban teams remained equal.

Roosevelt, St. Charles, McKinley, New Trier and Morton fought their way into the semi-finals during the afternoon's long range sharpshooting, and Downers Grove, Lane and Lake View survived the evening's play. All south and central section city teams have now been eliminated.

Roosevelt Meets St. Charles.

Today's bracket will pair Roosevelt and St. Charles at 3 p. m.; McKinley and New Trier at 4 p. m.; Morton and Downers Grove at 8 p. m., and Lane and Lake View at 9 p. m.

Classed as surprises in yesterday's outcomes were the victories by Roosevelt over Parker, by St. Charles over York, by McKinley over Senn, and by Lake View over Thornton.

Free scoring rather than the tight defensive play which usually characterizes tourney winners marked the afternoon round in which an average of more than sixty points per game was registered, despite the eight minute periods.

Fred Troutewine of Lake View and Leonard Rumpf of Parker, the two tallest boys on the floor during the day, shared scoring honors with Peterson of Parker and Weinhouse of Roosevelt, each of whom accounted for 14 points.

Lake View Beats Thornton.

Thornton township's dazzling team of ball handlers put on another hair raising night cap, as they had Tuesday night, but this time it was Lake View baskets which sank through the hoop in the final seconds to give the north siders a dramatic 34 to 33 victory over the township lads.

Brilliant floor play gave Thornton the lead all the way down to the finish, despite a great height disadvantage. Sliwinski, Thornton center, was ejected on fouls with Thornton leading, 33 to 28, whereupon Buchanan counted for Lake View and Fred Troutewine, 6 foot 7 inch Lake View center, tipped in a pair of goals from scrambles under the basket to win.

Thornton led at the quarter, 6 to 5, at the half, 14 to 9, and at three-quarters, 22 to 18. Troutewine and Swanberg accounted for 24 of Lake View's 34 points, while Boudreau and Sliwinski were responsible for 21 of Thornton's 33.

Downers Grove Wins.

Downers Grove, trailing Riverside-Brookfield down to the final minute in the evening opener, snatched a 20 to 18 victory when Kayo Oestmann sank a short shot as the climax of a rally. Percival and Grear ran up a 9 to 0 advantage for Riverside before Downers Grove scored, and the Riverside boys led, 13 to 6, at the half. Riverside lost the tipoff when Percival switched positions with Nelson in the second half. Oestmann's goal put Downers Grove ahead, 19 to 18, and Slanec made a free throw for the final point.

Lane defeated Hyde Park, 26 to 21, in a game which the crowd found uninspired except for the gallant work of Bill Holliday, Hyde Park forward, who scored 7 points to lead his team and fought to break up Lane's front court stalling in the last quarter. The north siders poked through Hyde Park's defense for leads of 7 to 1 at the quarter, 18 to 11 at the half, and 26 to 12 at three-quarters. In the last quarter Lane was content to pass the ball around, holding Hyde Park to 9 points.

Fendrich Morton Star.

Jerry Fendrich, a guard, led Coach Ziebell's well drilled Morton quintet to a 39 to 24 victory over Lindblom in the afternoon final. Fendrich, who counted six times from the field to lead the scoring, and Capt. Hermanek are the Cicero team's only current players from last year's tourney champions.

Deadlocked at the half, 10 to 10, the game veered to Morton in the third quarter when the short passing plays of the defending champions began to register under the basket. Wesley Seaberg led the attack of the Lindblom team, which won the Stagg title two years ago, with three baskets and four free throws.

New Trier's sharp rally in the first half of the last quarter was enough to give the north shore quintet a 26 to 25 victory over Proviso in a game which saw two big, fast teams seeking to face McKinley in the quarter-finals.

Trailing 11 to 19 at the half and 16 to 17 at the end of the third period, New Trier's attack began to get by

BOX TONIGHT

TOMMY PAUL.

FIDEL LA BARBA.

PAUL IS CHAMP, BUT FANS PICK FIDEL TONIGHT

Featherweights Headline Stadium Card.

Tonight's Card

THE program for the Chicago Stadium's boxing show tonight follows:
Fidel LaBarba vs. Tommy Paul [10 rounds, 127 pounds].
Max Rosenbloom vs. Billy Jones [10 rounds, 176 pounds].
Martin Levandowski vs. Bob Olin [10 rounds, 178 pounds].
Freddie Miller vs. Jackie Sharkey [8 rounds, 128 pounds].

BY FRENCH LANE.

Tommy Paul, a flat nosed earnest faced lad from Buffalo, may be a very great world's featherweight champion, but the ringwise folks of Chicago evidently do not think so.

Paul battles the aged globe trotter, Fidel La Barba, in a fight scheduled to go 10 rounds at the Chicago Stadium tonight. A most natural fistic situation would find the champion ruling as the top heavy favorite. But not so in this affair. La Barba ruled as the choice at 8 to 5 yesterday and there was so little Paul money around it may be that La Barba will enter the struggle the favorite at 2 to 1.

Paul's title, won in a tournament at Detroit about a year ago and generally recognized about the country, will not be at stake. La Barba will not weigh less than 127 pounds. The featherweight limit is 126 pounds. Paul will be a couple of pounds under that mark. Maybe the three pounds difference in weight created the unusual odds. Or perhaps the Chicago ringsiders think Paul is a cheese champion.

The Sale Is Brisk.

Regardless of what they think about Paul the fans were buying tickets at a merry clip all day yesterday and last night it began to look like most of the seats in the world's largest indoor arena will be occupied when the featherweights start throwing punches.

The Stadium for the first time was offering bargain prices at $3.30 for the best grade of ringside seats and it may be that the reduction of a little more than $2.00 for a ringside seat stimulated business. Then there were other seats way up near the drab gray roof where the gallery gods congregate for as little as 60 cents. In fact you can go to a fight these days for almost anything you want to pay, the scale of prices prevailing at the Stadium tonight indicate.

Rosie Faces Trouble.

The sweep of sentiment to La Barba may be due to the fact that Paul is a stranger to most Chicago boxing fans, while it will be sort of a homecoming for La Barba, who during his long career has turned in some of his greatest fights in Chicago. Yet the cold dope shows that when Paul fought his way to the featherweight championship in the Detroit tournament he was the fellow who eliminated Johnny Pena, who earlier in the meet had put La Barba out of the running.

It seems to be a mixed up affair all around as a result of the strange betting odds. But it may make it all the more attractive to the fellows who want to see for themselves just what is going to happen.

The featherweight scrap tops a card made up of two other ten round bouts and an eight rounder.

Maxie Rosenbloom, regarded in many quarters as the light heavyweight champion of the world, meets Billy Jones, Philadelphia Negro, in one of the ten round affairs. This bout could easily stop the show, for Jones is a colorful boxer, is popular with Chicago crowds, and, if he should turn in one of his best fights, it certainly would be a most miserable evening for Rosenbloom.

Puncher Meets Boxer.

Ohio Defeats Notre Dame Quintet, 30-24

Columbus, O., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's basketball team suffered its second defeat in as many starts tonight when Ohio State won, 30 to 24. Ohio State piled up a 24 to 8 lead in the first half. Purdue defeated Notre Dame last week, ending the South Bend five's 19 game winning streak.

Ohio State's rejuvenated team, with three men playing their first game, completely dominated play in the first half, but was held to six points on one field goal and four free throws in the second half.

Notre Dame used three forwards, who were able to account for only two points, a basket by Alberts early in the first half. The remainder of the scoring was done by Voegele, Baldwin, and Jordan, guards. Krause, one of Notre Dame's offensive stars, was helpless against Ohio's defense and contributed only two points to his team's total.

Hosket Leads Attack.

Hosket and Beltner, declared eligible yesterday with the release of grades for the last semester, were Ohio's leaders.

Ohio State took an early lead when Beltner, a guard, playing his first game, scored on a medium shot from the side of the floor and Hosket added a free throw. Mattison sank a long shot for Ohio's fifth point before Notre Dame scored its first point on Krause's field goal. Baskets by Hinchman, Colburn, and Mattison and free throws by Hinchman and Beltner brought the score to 13 to 2 before Voegele sank a free throw.

Colburn Boosts Score.

The floor work of Bobby Colburn, Ohio State forward, stood out during the period and he flashed through the entire Notre Dame team repeatedly to start scoring plays. He dropped in Ohio's 15th point by dribbling the entire length of the floor, then added a pair of free throws and another basket to put Ohio in the lead, 19 to 5. Albert sank Notre Dame's second basket.

Continuing on the offensive, the Buckeyes got two more baskets, scored by Hinchman and Hosket, and a free throw by Mattison before the half ended. Jordan got Notre Dame's third basket just as the gun sounded.

During the second half the situation was reversed. Five baskets in rapid succession brought Notre Dame up within striking distance before Beltner sank a free throw for Ohio's 25th point.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

TENNIS LEADER.

HARRY S. KNOX of Chicago has been nominated for president of the United States Lawn Tennis association. Nomination is considered equivalent to election, a deserved honor so far as Mr. Knox is concerned.

Furthermore, we know of no amateur body where a little good hard common sense and a permanent removal of the "high hat" would be more beneficial. Mr. Knox has good hard common sense and the U. S. L. T. A. will not have to buy him a new motor car to accommodate a high hat as per the recent adventures of Postmaster General Brown.

HARRY S. KNOX.

When business men like Knox and Avery Brundage of the A. A. U. are willing to give their time and energy to amateur sport we think amateur sport is fortunate. From the nature of their business there can be no pecuniary advantage. This outside work involves personal time and personal expense. We ascribe their willingness only to enthusiasm, perhaps the same brand of enthusiasm which induces us to play the races in a mild way, knowing from experience and the law of averages that only expense can result from our effort to improve the breed of thoroughbreds.

Now, one might think such an office as awaits Mr. Knox would be a pretty nice thing. Possibly it is, in theory. In reality it is hard work with many petty annoyances. Professional promoters or rulers of a sport adapt themselves to circumstances because of financial considerations. And while each must keep his eye open for a "double cross," all are actuated by the desire for financial gain. In amateur governing bodies small jealousies and picayune politics are the vogue.

Knox is a constructionist. Many times he has been out of sympathy with policies of the governing powers. Instead of quitting he has fought from within to develop tennis. He is especially solicitous of development of juniors and his efforts in this territory have been mainly toward that end. The Wake has known him during twenty of his thirty years' activity. Never once during that period when we met him has he been other than sanguine of the future of his favorite sport.

The Wake likes to see square shooters like Harry Knox in amateur sport—chaps to whom it is a hobby and not a business. Therefore we congratulate the U. S. L. T. A. on the selection, however the "old guard" may view the demand of west, south and far west for more progressive administrations.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

TOMMY PAUL, featherweight titleholder who meets Fidel La Barba in an overweight match at the Stadium tonight, has concluded it doesn't pay to be a champion.

Paul, whose real name is Papa, turned professional in 1928 and in four years laid aside about $25,000 from his ring earnings. He invested most of his savings in real estate in and around Buffalo, N. Y., his home town. Then he decided he had the stuff of which champions are made.

The National Boxing association, which recognized no featherweight titleholder after Bat Battalino vacated the crown, sanctioned a tournament in Detroit last May, the winner to be awarded the championship. This was the chance Paul had been looking for. He entered the meet and came away with the belt and $250 in cash.

That was seven months ago. Paul hasn't made a dime since he annexed the crown. False pretenders have claimed the throne. The New York boxing commission recognizes Cuban Kid Chocolate as king of the 126 pounders. The California commission can see only Baby Arizmendi. Promoters have shied away from Paul's terms for defending his title on account of the chaotic condition of the division.

"The tournament in which I won the title was handled by Scotty Monteith of Detroit," Paul said last night. "My manager, Jack Singer, and myself promised Monteith we would make our first title defense under his promotion. We were all set to fight Freddie Miller in a championship match at Detroit when President James Brown of the N. B. A. stepped in with the announcement that the bout would not be recognized as a title affair. Why? I don't know.

"You give up trying to figure out boxing rulings after you become a champion. I had to leave a sick bed last week to go through with a charity match in Toledo. The promoters told me I would be suspended for a year if I failed to appear. I kept the appointment, though I was in no shape to fight. I was promised $600 for the bout but could collect only $300.

"I have signed to meet Kid Chocolate in Buffalo on Feb. 6. The winner will be recognized as champion in New York. Chocolate is under suspension in N. B. A. territory, so I may get into trouble by accepting the match, but I don't care. I want to fight. The time limit for defending my title expires with the N. B. A. on the 28th of next month," he said, "so I am in trouble no matter which way I turn."

Tommy is the fourth oldest in a family of eighteen children, twelve of whom are living. His father, Tony Papa, came to Buffalo from Italy. The father used to be a fighter of neighborhood prominence, so it was natural for the boys to take up the game. Tommy's older brothers, Mickey and Al, might have got somewhere in professional ranks if early success had not gone to their heads. They neglected to take care of themselves and were knocked out when they were just getting into important money.

Tommy got his start as an amateur. He won the National A. A. U. 118 pound title in Boston in 1927. He took the New York state title the same year. As a professional he has had 115 fights and has won them all except two decisions to La Barba and one each to Tony Sciolino, Baby Arizmendi, and Freddie Miller. He never has been knocked out.

Paul didn't give much thought to boxing as a career until two years ago. He wanted to be an air mail pilot. He bought a plane and earned a private license after eighty-five solo hours. Then came the crash that cost Knute Rockne and seven others their lives. That ended Paul's desire to fly. He sold his plane and never has been in one since.

"Do you think you can whip La Barba?" we inquired.

"I can if he will stand up and fight," he replied. "La Barba likes to hit and clinch. That's not my idea of fighting. I know from experience that Fidel is smart. He can punch and he is tough. But I believe I can whip him."

If La Barba and Chocolate both give Paul sound lickings in his next two fights he will go back to his chicken farm at North Collins, N. Y., a suburb of Buffalo, where he feels sure he can make a livelihood for his wife and two children.

1932 AVERAGES PROVE WARNEKE BEST PITCHER

Cub Leads Both Leagues on Two Counts.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[AVERAGES ON NEXT PAGE.]

It has been rather generally suspected in Chicago and vicinity that Mr. Lonnie Warneke of Arkansas and the Cubs was a right smart pitcher in 1932. The official National league averages, released yesterday, did nothing to dispel notions of Lon's greatness, for the young man in his first year as a regular led the league both on the basis of won and lost percentage and under the significant system based on earned runs. He also was the only pitcher in the league to top the golden goal of 20 victories—Lon won 22 while losing six. William Watson Clark of Brooklyn was the only other hurler in the National league to reach 20 victories.

Lon's earned run average was 2.37, the lowest in either major league, and his won and lost percentage was .786, which topped the percentages of the five American league pitchers who exceeded the 20 win mark.

Leads Grove, Ruffing.

Lefty Grove led the American league on the earned run basis with 2.84. Ruffing, the ranking right hander in the American, allowed an average of 3.10 runs per nine inning game. Lefty Gomez led the American league pitchers of the 20 win classification with .774, or 12 points under our Lon.

In addition to the aforementioned topflight accomplishments, Lon tied with Steve Swetonic of the Pirates and Dizzy Dean of the Cardinals in the matter of pitching shutouts, with four, and was second only to Red Lucas of the Reds in complete games. Red started and finished 28 games and Lon went the distance 25 times.

The foregoing comparisons with the National's rival league in the matter of pitching are not meant to be an irritant to even the most touchy American league partisans. The reference is more in the nature of post world series balm—Lon suffered some in the world series, but he sure can raise hell with his rivals when handed a record book covering the championship season of 1932.

Bush Runner Up.

Guy Bush was runner up to Warneke among the Cubs in the matter of total games won and third in the league. Bush last season topped his two previous best years of 18 wins when he turned in 19 victories. Strangely enough, Guy won four more victories than he pitched complete games.

Pat Malone was twelfth in the league on the earned run basis, though he sagged below the .500 mark for the first time in his five years with the Cubs, winning 15 and losing 17. The big boy turned in an earned run average of 3.38.

Charley Root trailed Malone in the matter of earned runs, but far exceeded him in won and lost percentage. Charley won the same number of games that Pat did, 15, but he lost only 10, for a percentage of .600 as compared to Pat's .469.

Grimes Wins Flop Honors.

Burleigh Grimes, for years among the league's leading pitchers was a magnificent flop on every basis of computation.

He worked in 30 games, but completed only five. He won six but lost 11 for a percentage of 353 and had the high earned run showing 4.79. Burleigh blamed his early inefficiency on the pitching mound at Wrigley field and his later troubles on appendicitis. His showing was by far the poorest of the Cub pitchers who worked in 10 or more games.

Other information contained in the official figures follows:

Red Lucas, with Fred Frankhouse, Boston, and Waite Hoyt, Brooklyn-New York, allowed most sacrifice hits, 26.

Three pitchers were in twenty or more complete games, two less than in 1931.

William Hallahan, St. Louis, tied the league record for wild pitches in an inning when he made three in the twelfth inning of the game of May 11, against Brooklyn.

John Quinn, Brooklyn, finished most games, 31, and established a new league record by exceeding the 29 made by Lloyd Davies, New York, in 1926, and equaled by Quinn in 1931.

Whitman, Net Champion of '90s, Suicide

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Malcolm D. Whitman, national tennis champion in 1898, 1899, and 1900, and a member of the original Davis cup team, committed suicide today by jumping from his penthouse on the five story building at 136 East 67th street. Two nurses had been attending him for a week after he had suffered a nervous breakdown.

Mr. Whitman was 55 years old. He was a member of the William Whitman company, a textile firm, which his father founded.

His tennis feats never have been duplicated, except by William T. Tilden. He was to the old school of tennis what Tilden was to the new school, which came into being with the appearance of Maurice C. McLoughlin.

Manner Appears Usual.

Mr. Whitman arose as usual this morning, bathed, and walked into his bedroom clad in slippers, pajamas, and robe. His manner seemed usual to the nurses, whom he greeted in the hallway.

Out of their sight he opened a deep French window, stepped across the landing and climbed a 3 foot parapet. From there he plunged to his death. The nurses arrived on the scene a few minutes too late.

Mr. Whitman came into national prominence as a lawn tennis player while still a student in Harvard, from where he was graduated in 1899.

For three years in succession, beginning in 1898, he won the national singles championships of the Lawn Tennis association. He defaulted in 1901, but soon afterward reëntered tournament play, helping defeat British Davis cup contenders in 1902. He was a member of the first Davis cup team of 1900.

In April, 1907, he was married to Miss Janet McCook, and by her had two children, Malcolm and Jeannetta. Mrs. Whitman died Dec. 17, 1909.

Remarries in 1912.

On July 16, 1912 Mr. Whitman was married to Miss Jennie Crocker, Pacific coast heiress. Guests presented them with $100,000 worth of presents and the pair left on a honeymoon that drew nation-wide attention.

Mrs. Whitman obtained a Paris divorce in August, 1926, on technical grounds of desertion. Mr. Whitman's third marriage, his last, came soon afterward.

OLD ELI GUARD WILL SUCCEED MAL STEVENS

Retain 2 Notre Dame Men on Staff.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Appointment of Reginald D. Root as head football coach to succeed Dr. Marvin A. Stevens was announced today by the Yale Athletic association.

Athletic authorities, in selecting Root, adhered to the time honored policy of placing an alumnus in charge of Yale football. Root, who has been freshman coach for the last year, is 29 years old.

Adam Walsh, who has been line coach for four years, and Charles A. Comerford, end coach since the world war, were reappointed. Comerford has been mentioned as head coach at Holy Cross, where there is a vacancy. He was a member of the Yale class of 1918. Walsh was captain of Notre Dame's four horsemen team.

Name Junior Staff.

Paul [Bucky] O'Connor, also a former Notre Dame star, was promoted from junior varsity back field coach to the varsity staff.

The junior varsity coaches were announced as Raymond W. [Ducky] Pond, Yale '25, head coach; Arthur E. Palmer Jr., '30, line coach, and Stewart P. Scott, '28, end coach. All of whom were on the Yale staff the last year. The seven men appointed today were chosen for one year.

The announcement today failed to make any mention of Albie Booth, captain of the 1931 team, who was named an assistant coach of the 1932 staff after his graduation. However, the freshman staff is still to be selected. It was said the personnel of the freshman staff would not be announced until late in January.

Root Coaches Mexicans.

The selection of Root was not made until after the situation had been canvassed thoroughly by the nominating committee, whose report to the Yale athletic association was indorsed. After a decision not to name an outside coach Root became the outstanding candidate, and it was generally predicted he would be Stevens' successor. Stevens' resignation to pursue a medical practice was announced two weeks ago.

Root played in the line for Yale and in 1926 was named freshman line coach. He was a member of the class of 1926 and coached the Roxbury school eleven in Cheshire in 1927 and the Taft school team in Watertown in 1928. In 1929 and 1930 he was head coach of the National University of Mexico in Mexico City and introduced the American style of football into that country. In 1931 he was appointed junior varsity coach at Yale.

He's Lacrosse Star, Too.

Root has also been prominent in lacrosse. He played on the Yale team three years and was captain in 1926. He was head freshman lacrosse coach in 1927-28, and since 1930 he has been coach of varsity lacrosse.

After attending the Leroy High school, Leroy, N. Y., Root prepared for Yale at the Hotchkiss school in Lakeville, Conn., where he was graduated in 1922. He received the degree of bachelor of arts at Yale in 1926, and the degree of bachelor of law from the Yale law school in 1929. He has been an instructor in political economy at Yale for more than a year.

Alumni Protest a Bit.

Root's appointment was unofficially announced ten days ago, when it was learned he had been selected over alumni protest. A number of alumni contended, it was declared at that time, that a coach of the Rockne type and a man of more experience than Root should be named to succeed Stevens, who had been head coach for five years.

Before the decision to name Root, A. A. Stagg, former director of athletics at the University of Chicago and a Yale star in the '80s; T. A. D. Jones, former Yale coach; and Howard Jones, University of Southern California coach, brothers and both former Yale men, were said to have been considered by the athletic association.

GRIFFITH ASKS IOWA QUIZ ON 2 BASKET STARS

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—An investigation into the eligibility status of Edward Break of Chicago and Ivan Blackmer of Iowa City, University of Iowa basketball players, is being conducted here at the request of Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner.

This was revealed today by Dr. E. H. Lauer, Hawkeye athletic director, who said that the investigation was being made entirely by the Iowa athletic board's eligibility committee.

Blackmer and Break were members of the Alberts Cleaners basketball team of Cedar Rapids, and the protest was filed with Maj. Griffith of their play with that organization from a source whose identity was not revealed.

Blackmer played last season when he was not enrolled in the university, while Break was in school at the time, but was under suspension by the conference for a minor infraction of the rules while a student at Illinois. Break has since been reinstated.

Al Albert, sponsor of the Cedar Rapids team, said that his aggregation was an amateur organization, and that this had been certified by the A. A. U.

PITT GETS GOOD NEWS: CUBA TO OPPOSE TROJANS

Doctor Reports Tackle Not Seriously Injured.

Tucson, Ariz., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Coach Jock Sutherland of the Pittsburgh Panthers was informed today by Dr. Robert Sheanor, team physician, that injuries to Paul Cuba, left tackle, were not so serious as first feared and that the star lineman would be in condition for the Southern California game Monday.

Cuba was injured in a strenuous scrimmage session yesterday and was helped from the field to the dressing room.

The Pitt team went through a heavy scrimmage today behind locked gates. All players, with the exception of Cuba, reported.

"Southern California is too strong for us," Sutherland said. "But we'll at least let them know they have had a fight on their hands."

It was reported after the secret scrimmage that a starting lineup, different than any which has started this season, will play against the Trojans. There will be several second and third string players in this lineup, according to the rumors.

The Panthers will practice here tomorrow and Friday and will leave Saturday for Los Angeles, where they will have another day of practice before the game.

JONES WARNS TROJANS.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Coach Howard Jones today assaulted the mental barrier confronting the Southern California team as preparation moved on for the Rose Bowl game Monday with Pittsburgh.

Posting of 10 to 7 odds, or 12 points in favor of the Trojans' running their series of victories to twenty, apparently was an incentive behind the move against overconfidence.

"If any man thinks the game with Pitt is going to be a setup," Coach Jones told the team today, "he'll get the idea worked out of him before Monday." And, just to prove he meant what he said, he put the team through a workout that reminded it of early September.

Names of the officials who will handle the Rose Bowl game were announced today. Two are from Pennsylvania and two are far west men. They are: Referee, Herb Dana [Nebraska]; umpire, Dex Very [Penn State]; field judge, Cal Bolster [Pittsburgh]; head linesman, Bruce Kirkpatrick [Occidental].

DE PAUL DEFEATS BELOIT, 42 TO 22, FOR 5TH STRAIGHT

De Paul university won its fifth consecutive basketball game last night when it defeated Beloit college at De Paul gymnasium, 42 to 22.

Jim Gorsky, De Paul forward, was the individual scoring star with six baskets and a free throw for 13 points.

[wrestling]

The Odd Fellows' service bureau of Cook county will present an amateur boxing show tonight at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. Eight bouts are on the card, proceeds of which will go to needy members of the organization. Boxers from Gary, Ind., will face a Chicago team. Knute Christensen, Chicago middleweight, will meet Bill Kranz of Gary in the windup. The semi-final will bring together Matty Piovanich, Chicago bantamweight, and Paul Stedina of Gary. Frank Talaber, Armour Tech institute middleweight, faces Stanley Seliga in a wrestling exhibition.

Joseph Ansorg, A. R. Hariss, Edward Dombey and Gus Kohorn of the Odd Fellows' bureau are directing the show.

The president of the Cicero board of education, Frank Petru, said he will obtain an injunction to prevent Billy Cepak from offering a professional show at the Cicero stadium Monday afternoon, it was learned yesterday. Petru maintains that the stadium, which cost $200,000 to erect several years ago, is a public building and that private promoters should not be allowed to rent it.

The Clyde park board, which has charge of the Cicero stadium, permitted Cepak to rent the building in order to obtain revenue, thus reducing Cicero taxes. The stadium has been more or less empty since its completion, a few basketball games being the only occasions for opening its doors.

Harry Dublinsky and Prince Saunders will meet for the second time in the 10 round windup at the Cicero stadium Monday. On Jan. 25 of this year, Dublinsky won in 10 rounds from Prince at St. Paul. Saunders dropped Harry in the first round. Since his last appearance in Chicago last August, Dublinsky has boxed Tracy Cox twice, Hershie Wilson and Willard Brown. Young Scotty signed yesterday to face Paddy Walther in a four round bout on the card.

Durva Scores Easy Victory at New Orleans

New Orleans, La., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Durva, 4 year old filly from the Lone Star stable, galloped to an easy victory in the mile and seventy yards of the fifth event, feature attraction here today. Stop Gap finished second, with Grimace third. Jockey Neel rode the winner, which was the favorite in the betting, paying $4.40. The time was 1:56 3-5 in heavy going.

Jockey Gilbert, with 210 victories, increased his lead over Hank Mills when he piloted E. D. Slavin's Overboard to victory in the opening six furlong sprint. Gilbert had the Paicines gelding away from the barrier in the first flight. At the half mile pole he increased his lead to six lengths in advance of Judge Dixon. The winner returned $13.40 for a $2 mutuel ticket and covered the distance in 1:19 flat.

Country Tom, coupled in the field and paying $59.40, was a surprise winner over Most Wise and ten other platers in the second event, a dash at six furlongs. Most Wise enjoyed a two length advantage over Arrow for the place. Burnside, the odds-on choice, was outrun from the start, finishing ninth.

C. N. Ingle's Bonnie Cap, even money choice, rewarded his backers with a hard earned victory over Bright Chestnut in the third race, at a mile and a sixteenth. Walter Jr. finished third.

OPERATE ON PLAYER.

Frank Purcell, veteran Chicago semi-pro baseball catcher, who has been seriously ill, will undergo an operation at the Michael Reese hospital tomorrow. Purcell, who is 34 years old, formerly played with the Nelsen Protts and the Chicago Mills semi-pro baseball clubs.

Football Injury May Halt Career of Williamson

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Ivan Williamson, captain of this season's Michigan football team, probably has finished his athletic career here. Williamson, who rested his injured knee after the football season and reported for basketball only yesterday, today was found to be in the same condition as at the close of the football season. He has been suffering from water on the knee.

Williamson won basketball letters during his sophomore and junior year and was expected to help materially in Michigan's attempt at a comeback after the holiday vacation. His knee was found today to be "blown up" after he had gone through only one day of practice.

M'MILLEN AND STECHER VICTORS IN MAT MATCHES

Joe Stecher, Nebraska heavyweight wrestler, and Jim McMillen, Chicago, triumphed last night in the windup matches of the professional wrestling show at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. Stecher threw Rudy Dusek, Omaha, with a body scissors in 31 minutes and 47 seconds, while McMillen pinned John Katan, Toronto, with a toe hold in 21 minutes and 35 seconds.

Joe Savoldi, former Notre Dame football player, used a flying tackle to throw Johnny Plummer in 12 minutes and 8 seconds. In other matches Hans Kampfer and Ernie Dusek wrestled a 30 minute draw and Jack Smith and Abe Kaskey also drew in a 20 minute match.

Name Marek C.Y.O. Captain Against Coast

Captains were elected last night by the two groups of C. Y. O. fighters who will represent Chicago in the intercity amateur boxing bouts against west coast teams to be held Jan. 6 at the Chicago Stadium under the auspices of the Catholic Youth Organization.

The C. Y. O. champion team will be lead by Max Marek of Loyola university, who won the light heavyweight crown at the Chicago Stadium Dec. 2. Marek, who won the C. Y. O. middleweight championship last year was the unanimous choice of his teammates. He comes from St. Josephat's parish on the northwest side. Marek's team will meet eight boys representing the archdiocese of Los Angeles.

Joseph Contello of St. Rocco's parish in Chicago Heights was named captain of the team which will fight against Willie Ritchie's boxers from San Francisco. Montello is a student at the Bloom Township High school and was a runnerup in the C. Y. O. tournament.

Nine Nations on Two Teams.

Nine nationalities are represented on the two Chicago teams. The list is topped by the Italians and Poles with four fighters in each group. The Italians include Henry Fuscaldo, 112 pounds; Sam Guidara, 118 pounds; Joseph Montello, 135 pounds, and Thomas Pacetti, 175 pounds. Polish boxers are William Nurczyk, 160 pounds; Charles Wozniak, 160 pounds; Max Marek, 175 pounds, and Chester Bukowski, heavyweight.

Henry Rothler, Golden Gloves and international lightweight champion last year and present welterweight titleholder, was born in Antwerp, Belgium, while Oscar O'Hanion, flyweight champion, is of Armenian descent.

Training of the 16 boys continued yesterday at the C. Y. O. athletic center, with Boxing Director P. F. [Packey] McFarland, former lightweight champion of the world, in charge. Packey has a two fold purpose in seeking to vanquish the invaders.

Wants Two Winning Teams.

First he is anxious to exemplify the "I Will" spirit of Chicago by producing two winning teams. His second reason is the desire to demonstrate to his friend and former sparring partner, Willie Ritchie, also a former lightweight world champion, that he is just as good a producer of good fighters as he was a boxer.

"It will take plenty of punches and skill to beat Oscar O'Hanion in the flyweight class," said McFarland. "I envy Rothler I believe to be the outstanding amateur welterweight in the country, and the same goes for Max Marek in the light heavy class."

BABY RUTHS BEAT DE BERRY FIVE IN CLASSIC LEAGUE

The Baby Ruths had it out with the De Berry Insurance last night in the Classic league and after winning three in a row they found themselves in second place, four games ahead of the next team. The match was featured by Jack Bishop's 704 series.

The Green Rivers won two from A. J. Cermaks, Ben Bernicchi's 734 helping them. The Moulding Brownells won the set from the Olive Cans, Bill Heerman's 279 featuring.

'I'M NOT READY TO RETIRE,' STAGG TELLS COACHES

He's Still Looking for an "Active Berth."

New York, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The grand old man of football, Amos Alonzo Stagg, took the center of the stage at the annual dinner of the Football Coaches' association tonight as he reiterated his statements that he has no intention of retiring as an active coach.

Stagg, who was coaching when many of his auditors had never seen a football, said he hopes to continue as a coach or as a director of athletics next year, even if he "had to go back to the minor leagues or coach a high school team." He added, a little wistfully, that he was looking for a job at some college which needed an experienced coach who thought he knew a little about teaching the game.

He Wants to Keep Busy.

He would rather take the smallest kind of active job, he said, than accept the retirement that the age limit at the University of Chicago had forced on him and to take the $8,000 Chicago was willing to pay him to "do nothing." His idea was to be in the game, to remain active in the sport to which he had dedicated the greater part of his life.

Stagg also appealed to his fellow coaches to pay less attention to the winning of games and to questions of eligibility of star players and help stabilize the game by concentrating on its more important aspects.

Stagg's talk was one of several on the program of the dinner at which Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of the western conference presided. Other speakers included Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale, Brig. Gen. Palmer E. Pierce, former president of the National Collegiate Athletic association who recalled his part in saving football in 1905 when a wave of injuries threatened the game with abolition; Dr. Marvin A. Stevens of Yale, the retiring president, and his successor, Dan McGugin of Vanderbilt.

Elect Dan McGugin.

The "brown derby" story telling contest, a famous annual feature of the gathering, was not on the program of entertainment arranged by Jim Marks of Kiski, but a former winner of the trophy, Gus Welch, Carlisle Indian quarter back, now at the University of Virginia, was persuaded to bring forth a few of his best yarns.

The coaches' association closed its two day session by electing its new officers, headed by Dan McGugin of Vanderbilt as president; honoring the retiring president, Dr. Stevens, with a life membership; adopting resolutions lamenting the death of Edward K. Hall, chairman of the national rules committee, and praising the career of Amos Alonzo Stagg, retiring University of Chicago athletic head.

As predicted, no fight developed on the subject of giving the Coaches' association direct voting power on the football rules committee. A committee of three, composed of Lou Little, Columbia; Elmer Layden, Duquesne, and Harry Stuhldreher, Villanova, presented a resolution providing for a committee of fifteen college coaches and five allied scholastic coaches to instruct three coaching representatives who are to sit, as in the past, with the football rules committee, but only in advisory capacity. The resolution was passed unanimously.

Here Is the Committee.

The members of the committee are Gil Dobie, Cornell; Tuss McLaughry, Brown; Fritz Crisler, Princeton; Jock Sutherland, Pittsburgh; Harry Stuhldreher, Villa Nova; Elmer Layden, Duquesne; Dick Hanley, Northwestern; Bernie Bierman, Minnesota; Hunk Anderson, Notre Dame; Harry Kipke, Michigan; Harry Mehre, Georgia; Bill Alexander, Georgia Tech; L. M. (Biff) Jones, Louisiana State; Howard Jones, Southern California, and Paul Schissler, Oregon State.

The coaches chose Chicago for the 1933 annual meeting, provided the National Collegiate A. A. does the same thing.

In addition to McGugin the officers for 1933 are: First vice president, Dana Bible, Nebraska; second vice president, Bernie Bierman, Minnesota; third vice president, to be filled by incoming president of the Pacific coast group; secretary-treasurer, W. H. Cowell, New Hampshire, reelected; trustees, Eddie Casey, Harvard; Harry Kipke, Michigan; Harry Stuhldreher, Villanova; Lou Little, Columbia.

It is believed that the National rules committee will be headed by Walter R. Okeson of Lehigh university. Since the death of Edward K. Hall, Dartmouth, William S. Langford, New York, present secretary and acting chairman, was reported to have been in line for the position.

HAROLD TEEN—SOCIAL ERRORS

Go South, Quail Hunter; Birds Are Plentiful

BY BOB BECKER.

Middle western sportsmen who can go south to hunt quail will find a happy New Year down in the pine woods. Two reports from Florida tell of an unusually large quail crop. Coveys are large and numerous. Apparently the southern bob whites had a favorable nesting season.

The Florida quail season is a long one. It opened Nov. 20 and will continue until Feb. 15. Last year the bag limit was 25 birds per day. This may have been cut down, although we have had no report of a reduction.

When quail are extremely plentiful the expert quail hunter favors the .410 gauge shotgun. Kelly Day and Peter P. Schutt, two well known Florida quail hunters who have taken us afield in the vicinity of Charlotte harbor, Shell creek, and the pine woods and everglades country, report they have been very successful with the .410 gauge weapon.

This is a mighty small gun for bird shooting unless it is in the hands of an experienced marksman. The number of shot thrown by this gun is just a pinch compared to the load of a 20 or a 16 gauge gun. One must know how to hold on his birds with a .410 gauge gun in order to secure clean kills instead of too many crippled birds.

The Florida quail offers a smaller target than northern bob whites. There is a difference of about an inch and a half in measurements of the two species. Ordinarily a northern bob white will measure ten inches in length. The darker Florida quail will run around 8½ inches.

CAPT. MAXWELL, LAST OF STRONG G. A. R. POST, DIES

Capt. Frank W. Maxwell, the last survivor of the William E. Strong post, G. A. R., died suddenly yesterday after a short illness. He would have been 90 years old on Jan. 15. Capt. Maxwell, who lived at 1072 Ainslie street, who was born in Washington county, Ill., and had been a resident of Ravenswood for nearly 30 years.

CAPT. MAXWELL.

During the civil war he commanded Company I of the 80th Illinois volunteer infantry. At one time he was captured and imprisoned at Fortress Monroe, Va. Later he was given his freedom in an exchange of prisoners and returned to his regiment.

Capt. Maxwell and his widow, Sarah, had been married more than 58 years. Two sons, Charles C., and Edgar L. Maxwell, a Spanish and world war veteran, also survive. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow from the chapel at 4542 Ravenswood avenue. Burial will be in Memorial Park cemetery.

DEDICATE NEW DEERING LIBRARY AT N. U. TODAY

The dedication of the new $1,250,000 Charles Deering library on the Evanston campus of Northwestern university will take place at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Three generations of the Deering family, members of the board of trustees and of the university faculty and the consuls general of Poland, France, and Germany will be among the 300 persons at the ceremoney. The consuls will present books in behalf of their countries.

The library was made possible by a bequest of the late Charles Deering, formerly chairman of the board of the International Harvester company, and by gifts from his family.

Mrs. Chauncey McCormick and Mrs. Richard E. Danielson, daughters of Mr. Deering, will open the building by cutting a ribbon across the doorway of the main reading room. They will present the keys to John H. Hardin, president of the university board of trustees, who will accept the building in behalf of the board.

SALVADOR QUITS LATIN AMERICAN FRIENDSHIP PACT

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The government today issued a decree renouncing the Central American treaty of peace and friendship signed at Washington in 1923, under which the signatories agreed not to recognize any government coming into power by revolution.

This provision of the agreement has resulted in refusal by the United States and some other countries to recognize President Martinez of Salvador, who overthrew the Aurojo régime in 1931, but was subsequently constitutionally elected.

Costa Rica renounced the Central American treaty a few days ago on the grounds that it had produced embarrassing situations, and had failed to achieve the expected results. Other signatories are Guatemala, Honduras and Nicaragua.

COL. M'CORMICK TO ADDRESS AD FORCE TONIGHT

Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will address the annual banquet of THE TRIBUNE'S advertising department tonight in the red lacquer room of the Palmer house. His address will be broadcast by station W-G-N at 8:30 o'clock. The subject of Col. McCormick's address will be on the effect of excessive taxation on advertising. William E. Donahue, advertising manager of THE TRIBUNE, will be toastmaster.

Youth Inherits $170,777 from Fahrney Estate

John Lyle Vette Jr., 308 Forest avenue, Oak Park, yesterday came into a $170,777 inheritance, part of the $6,000,000 estate of his grandfather, Ezra Fahrney, pioneer patent medicine manufacturer, who died Sept. 11, 1930. Young Vette appeared before Joseph J. Lisack, assistant to Probate Judge Horner, with his father, who is attorney for the estate. John Jr. celebrated his 21st birthday Nov. 6. His father turned in a final accounting of his guardianship over his son's interests and turned the inheritance over to him. The youth is attending a private aviation school in San Francisco.

Plan Jubilee of Paulist Fathers at Meeting Today

Mrs. Walter J. Cummings will be hostess today at a luncheon at the Woman's Athletic club for the sponsors of a dinner and program to be held next month in connection with the diamond jubilee celebration of the Paulist Fathers. The date for the dinner will be fixed at the luncheon. Mrs. David G. Brenner is treasurer of the committee and Mrs. F. J. Lewis and Mrs. Harry G. Mills are assisting Mrs. Cummings.

DAUGHTER DROPS FIGHT ON $2,400,000 WILL OF ESPERT

Mrs. Mary Louisa Ortseifen, 337 Essex road, Kenilworth, has abandoned her plan to appeal from the decision of the Probate court admitting to probate the will of her father, Michael Espert, millionaire president of the Monarch Refrigerator company, who died Feb. 26 at the age of 74. Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor Jr. was informed yesterday.

Espert left an estate valued at $2,400,000. In his will he left his daughter an annuity of $3,000 with a provision that at her death the bulk of the estate should be divided between her husband, George Ortseifen, and her daughter, Marion, now 14 years old.

After appearing before Judge Taylor, Attorney Walter A. Wade, representing Mrs. Ortseifen, appeared before Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Horner, and was appointed co-executor of the estate with Frederick Espert, a brother of Michael Espert. Mrs. Ortseifen had alleged her father was of unsound mind when he executed the will.

W. M. ROSSELL OF STATE LABOR BUREAU IS DEAD

William M. Rossell, for the last sixteen years an inspector for the state department of labor, died yesterday at the Holy Cross hospital. He was 69 years old and resided at 6242 Normal boulevard.

Mr. Rossell was a native of Ontario but came to Chicago in 1892. He was a charter member of Bellamy lodge, International Association of Machinists, and was the lodge's delegate to the American Federation of Labor for many years.

Gov. Deneen appointed Mr. Rossell a member of the committee which drafted the health, safety and comfort act enforced by the state labor department. Gov. Dunne made him an inspector. He remained active in this work until a week ago. Mr. Rossell is survived by his wife, a daughter and three sons. Funeral services will be held at 1107 West 79th street on Saturday at 1:30 p. m.

MRS. MAY FARGO, PIONEER WOMAN GOLFER, IS DEAD

Mrs. May Ward Fargo, pioneer woman golfer and the holder of many club championships in the Chicago district, died yesterday at her home, 5510 Sheridan road. She had been ill a week with influenza. She was the wife of Hiram D. Fargo Sr., publisher and former Chicago newspaper man and at one time a member of the civil service commission.

For six years Mrs. Fargo held the women's championship at the Edgewater Golf club. She had also won the women's championship at the North Shore Country club, of which she was chairman of the women's committee.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow from the Epworth Methodist Episcopal church, 5253 Kenmore avenue. Burial will be at Rosehill. Mrs. Fargo is survived by her husband and a son, Hiram D. Fargo Jr.

F. L. KOHLHASE, MANUFACTURER, DEAD IN FLORIDA

Frank L. Kohlhase, 210 South Hamlin avenue, a manufacturer of lighting devices, died late Tuesday night at his winter home at St. Petersburg, Fla., friends in Chicago were informed yesterday. He was 71 years old.

Mr. Kohlhase was president of the National Stamping and Electrical works, 3212 Lake street. He was born in Stettin, Germany, and came to Chicago in 1876. He established the present business in 1897.

The widow, Mrs. Minnie B. Kohlhase; a son, E. A. Kohlhase of Chicago, and three daughters, Mrs. Alice Anderson and Mrs. Charlotte Engel of Chicago and Mrs. Fairy Crossland of Oak Park, survive.

REV. J. H. ROWLAND, CONGREGATIONAL MINISTER, DIES

The Rev. John Harvey Rowland, 84 years old, 219 North Mayfield avenue, a Congregationalist minister, died at his home yesterday after an illness of four months. Born in Ireland, he came to America 51 years ago and was ordained shortly afterward.

His first pastorate was at the Congregational church in Wisconsin Rapids, Wis. He later served in churches in Union Grove, Wis.; Chicago, and North Dakota.

Surviving are six daughters. Funeral services will be held at 8 p. m. today at the chapel at 5708 West Madison street. Burial will be at 1 p. m. tomorrow at Union Grove, Wis.

Mrs. Mary Daniels, Native of Lake County, Dies at 92

Mrs. Mary Daniels, 92 years old, died yesterday at the home of a friend, Mrs. James Monahan, of 120 East Atteridge road, Lake Forest. Mrs. Daniels was born in Lake county, just west of Lake Forest, and lived in the county almost all her life. She is survived by a sister Mrs. George Flershem, of Chicago. Funeral services will be held at 9:30 tomorrow in St. Mary's church. Burial will be in Everett cemetery.

DEATH OF VICTIM RECALLS FAMOUS KIDNAPING CASE

Billy Whitla Abducted by Man in Buggy.

Sharon, Pa., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Twenty-three years ago a man drove up to a Sharon schoolhouse with a horse and buggy and quietly took little Billy Whitla away.

Within a few days the name of Whitla stirred the country to a fever of excitement nearly as great as the wave of indignation aroused when the Lindbergh baby was stolen.

But unlike the Lindbergh kidnaping, the Whitla case had a story book ending. Billy, then 8, was ransomed for $10,000, the man and woman who abducted him were imprisoned, and the boy grew up to be William Whitla, a Sharon attorney.

Dies of Pneumonia.

He died of pneumonia today at the age of 32, closing the books for nearly all of the principals in the case. His father, W. J. Whitla; John Boyle, one of the kidnapers, and Detective Frank Wood of Cleveland, who conducted much of the investigation, died years ago. Boyle died in prison while serving a life sentence. His wife and co-conspirator, Helen, sentenced to 25 years and released in 1919, was last reported living in seclusion in Chicago.

"Mr. Whitla sent me for his boy," was the excuse which enabled Boyle to obtain Billy. The boy was bundled up and hustled away to Warren, O., where the buggy was abandoned and where they met Mrs. Boyle.

Billy himself was duped into helping the Boyles. They told him police were searching for all boys who had smallpox, which was prevalent then. Billy willingly kept himself out of sight.

Ransom Money Recovered.

The Boyles later slipped into Cleveland with Billy.

Meanwhile, through notes, the father made a contact and left $10,000 in ransom money at a store. Then, following instructions, he went to a downtown hotel. That night Billy walked into the hotel and asked, "Where's my daddy?"

The next night the kidnapers were apprehended in a saloon and $9,790 of the money was recovered.

SWITCHMAN CRUSHED; DIES.

James Mutch, 50 years old, 4442 South Parkway, a switchman, died yesterday in St. Bernard's hospital of injuries suffered Dec. 24 when he was crushed between cars at the Dearborn street station.

New York, Dec. 28.—Broad improvement developed in the bond market today. The speculative coterie joined the high grade class, including corporate issues as well as United States government obligations, in an advance in which attainments of new high levels was numerous.

Market sentiment was clearly on the constructive side. Speculative issues were technically aided by relaxation of year-end selling, the railroads in particular having the moral support of better carloadings prospects. As a general background to better feeling, hope continues high for a balanced federal budget. This latter consideration continues a bulwark beneath the government bond list.

While modest improvement was spread evenly throughout the speculative bond market, high grade bonds continued uniformly firm, rising under the influence of abnormally easy money and rising confidence.

New Treasury Highs.

A few treasury issues pushed through for new highs for the year to the accompaniment of continued optimism among dealers.

Even the foreign list, which has been reactionary in recent sessions, shared in the general improvement. Argentines rallied sharply. Germans as a group were higher, with the government 5½s scoring a new high mark for the year.

Gains in the rail list extended to a point or more in such issues as Allegheny Corporation 5s, Baltimore and Ohio 5s, Chesapeake Corporation 5s, Rock Island refunding 4s, Erie general lien 4s, Missouri Pacific 5s, New York Central debenture 4s, Nickel Plate first 4s, and others.

Some of Gains.

Gains in the industrial list included American Smelting 5s, Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron 6s, United States Rubber 5s, Wilson Company first 6s, and others.

The high grade utility bond market continued into new high ground aided by the absence of new financing of important size. The averages are being pushed gradually higher by the selective buying of dealers and other investors.

United States Pipe and Foundry.

Will you please give me information on United States Pipe and Foundry stock?—G. H.

United States Pipe and Foundry company supplies about 75 per cent of the cast iron pipe used in the United States. Most of such pipe is used for water of low chemical content and artificial gas. Where chemicals are present in water they are likely to corrode cast iron pipe, so wrought iron pipe, which is more expensive, is generally used. Steel pipe, which is cheaper, is generally used for industrial purposes.

About 85 per cent of United States Pipe and Foundry's output is used for water mains. Municipalities own and operate the bulk of the water systems in this country. The company's business is dependent primarily on growth of municipalities and their ability to finance expansion programs. The former is relatively stable. The latter, is dependent on general condition of the bond market.

The company holds the exclusive license to manufacture cast iron pipe under the De Lavaud process. This enables it to manufacture pipe more cheaply, take greater advantage of mass production, and produce a better grade and a larger pipe than under the old hand method of molding. The increase in tariffs and decrease in domestic pipe prices have practically eliminated foreign competition.

Increased difficulties of municipal bond financing in the first half of 1932 were responsible for a loss of $775,000 in that period. For the corresponding 1931 period net income was $914,000, or 92 cents per common share. Net for 1931 was $1,012,000, or 49 cents per common share, against net of $2,881,000, or $3.42 per common share, for 1930. Net for 1929 was $3,581,000, against $1,812,000 for 1928.

The company finished 1931 in a strong current position. Current assets were $17,287,000 and current liabilities were $1,104,000. Cash alone was $7,387,000, and government and municipal securities (2 per cent of which were in default) were $5,715,000. Working capital was $16,183,000, against $16,526,000 the year before.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 599,810 shares of $1.20 cumulative no par preferred and 600,000 shares of $20 par common. The common pays 50 cents a quarter.

The immediate prospect depends in large degree on the attitude of the Reconstruction Finance corporation toward applications of loans for water projects by municipalities.

The preferred is medium grade and the common is speculative.

GIFT TAX TAKES ITS TOLL FROM SANTA'S POCKET

Donor of Cash Must Pay Up to 33 Pct.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Christmas this year presented a new problem for the man of means who wished to fill the family's stocking with something sizeable in the way of a check. For the first time the effects of the drastic gift tax, which became a law on June 6, began to be felt.

This law, enacted to back up the increased estate tax which takes as much as 45 per cent of large estates, provides that the federal government shall share in any gifts—money or property—worth more than $5,000.

The first return on the new gift tax must be filed on or before March 15, 1933. Rates vary from ¾ of 1 per cent on gifts from $5,000 to $10,000 to 33¾ per cent on gifts in excess of ten million. Any citizen desiring to give a son or daughter $10,000,000 must deduct a third of it to pay to the tax collector.

Donor Must Pay Tax.

Property for gift tax purposes is valued as of the date of the gift by auditors sent out by the government. The donor must pay the tax. If he fails, however, the donee is held responsible, for the tax remains a lien on the gift for ten years and the recipient is personally liable. Proof of willful misrepresentation carries with it a fine of not more than $10,000 and imprisonment of not to exceed five years.

All gifts in excess of $5,000 each are taxed. The giver is allowed a specific exemption of $50,000, but this is cumulative and if used in one year may not be applied to gifts in subsequent years. Gifts of less than $5,000 do not count against the $50,000 exemption.

The tax, likewise, is cumulative. For example, if an individual makes a gift of only $10,000 in 1933 the tax would be ¾ of 1 per cent. The tax for the same individual on a $1,000,000 gift the following year would be 12½ per cent. Then the next year, if he should wish to give a $5,000 present, the tax would be 12½ per cent. The rate depends on the cumulative aggregate of gifts since the act.

How $50,000 Limit Works.

A man who gives his daughter $100,000 for a wedding present must pay the tax collector $5,000 for the privilege, providing he has used up his $50,000 exemption. If he has previously given his wife $1,000,000 the $100,000 gift to the daughter will cost him $14,000 in taxes. Had he given his wife $10,000,000 he would not only have to pay $2,350,000 tax on the gift to the wife and he would be assessed $83,500 on his $100,000 present to the daughter.

Gifts of less than $5,000 are tax free. An individual may distribute $10,000,000 or any larger amount in gifts of $4,999 or less each and avoid sharing with the internal revenue collector. He may give away all he wishes without penalty as long as he doesn't donate more than $4,999 to each donee.

Peculiarities of Law.

The provisions of the gift tax law produce some peculiar possibilities. For example, if a man has one daughter and gives her $10,000 for a wedding present either father or daughter must pay the tax collector $5,000. But if he has ten daughters and wishes to do the same for them each daughter's gift would cost $12,500. A wedding present of a $5,000 automobile could cost the fond parent anywhere from $37.50 to $1,666, depending upon how generous he had been in the past.

Trust officers of some financial institutions have been advising customers contemplating large gifts to make their presents in the form of First Liberty loan 3½s, which under the law are exempt from all taxes.

They say that the exemption of these bonds from gift taxes has never been tested in the courts, but that their attorneys advise them that there is an even chance that the courts may decide that they are exempt from gift taxes.

Bank Sues to Place Drake Towers in Receivership

The First Union Trust and Saving bank yesterday filed suit for foreclosure against the Drake Towers, 171 Lake Shore drive, and asked that a receiver be appointed to manage the apartment building. The bill asserts that the building corporation defaulted on $3,090,000 in principal and interest due now on an original loan of $3,200,000. The bill charged that the value of the 26 story building, containing 96 apartments, has fallen to $1,500,000.

Testifies Rail Revenue Drops Billion Yearly

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—The decline in railroad operating revenues at a rate of $1,000,000,000 a year since 1929 to a point where class 1 roads probably will have a combined deficit of $200,000,000 on their 1932 operations was outlined before the interstate commerce commission today. The figures were offered in support of the joint railroad petition that they be allowed to continue collecting the higher emergency freight rates after March 31, 1933, without being required to pool the accruing revenues with the Railroad Credit corporation.

From president to traffic executive the testimony of the railroad spokesmen was unanimous that continued collection of the higher rates was essential where they are now imposed. All agreed that there were many instances where the surcharges could not be applied without making corresponding or even greater reductions in the basic freight rates, but said the surcharges were bringing in substantial revenue that could not be dispensed with at this time.

Revenue Drops Billions.

Asserting that railroad operating revenues of class 1 roads dropped one billion dollars in 1930 and 1931 under the preceding year, Dr. Julius H. Parmelee, director of the bureau of railroad economics, said the same roads in the first ten months of this year had operating revenues of $968,000,000 under the corresponding period of 1931.

"If the same rate of decrease continues to the end of the year 1932," he said, "total operating revenues for the present year will be less than in 1929 by nearly $3,250,000,000, or more than 50 per cent."

Dr. Parmelee placed the 1929 net railway operating income of class 1 roads at $1,251,698,000, the equivalent of a 4.81 per cent return on their property investment. This rate of return had declined to 3.27 per cent for 1930 and further, to 1.99, in 1931. He said that on the basis of the first ten months of this year the rate of return this year will be 1.15 per cent.

Must Operate at Loss.

During the first nine months of this year, out of the 162 class 1 roads and large switching and terminal companies, he said, 122 operated at a loss and accounted for 77.6 per cent of the class 1 mileage.

The amount by which the 122 class 1 roads had failed to meet their fixed charges in the first nine months was $231,509,000. It was emphasized that this startling record of operations in the red had been made in the face of an estimated $60,000,000 accruing from the emergency surcharges, and that without them the number of roads operated at a loss would have been increased to 128 and the amount by which they would have failed to meet interest charges would have been increased to $265,019,000. These 128 roads accounted for 83 per cent of the total class 1 mileage in operation throughout the country.

As to the actual volume of 1931 freight traffic, expressed in terms of car loadings, Dr. Parmelee testified to a drop of 25.8 per cent under the average for 1925-'29.

Notwithstanding the numerous disadvantages under which railroad operations were being carried on, it was pointed out, the carriers as a whole were paying 40 cents in taxes out of every dollar of net operating revenue.

SILVER DECLINES TO 24⅜ CENTS, AN ALL-TIME LOW

New York, Dec. 28.—New all-time lows in silver prices here resulted from declines in the London and Shanghai silver markets, the English quotation falling off 1-16d to the former low of year at 16½d per ounce. The Shanghai market declined 25 points.

The Handy & Harman quotation here responded with a fall of ¼ cent to 24⅜ cents an ounce to establish a record low. The previous bottom was 24⅝ cents, reached on Saturday. The former minimum quotation of 24⅞ cents was registered on Dec. 3.

Geo. Reynolds Quits as Head of Continental

1921, when he was made chairman of the board.

He became chairman of the board of the Continental National Bank and Trust company in 1927 when the Continental and Commercial National bank and the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings bank consolidated.

In 1929 when this institution merged with Illinois Merchants Trust company Mr. Reynolds was made chairman of the executive committee of the new bank, Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company.

On May 4, 1932, when Arthur Reynolds retired from the chairmanship of the Continental Illinois George Reynolds succeeded him.

Bank Becomes National.

On Oct. 17 the bank became a national institution and changed its name to Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company. A month earlier when they had decided to nationalize their bank directors also voted to set up additional reserves of $40,000,000 to cover losses incurred during the depression.

The Continental started as a national institution with total invested capital of $102,500,000 and deposits of $644,494,986. With resources of $802,533,372 the Continental occupied the position of fourth largest national bank in the United States.

In addition to his banking connections Mr. Reynolds is a director of the New York Life Insurance company, the Pullman company, Union Carbide and Carbon corporation. He was president of the American Bankers' association in 1908. In the same year he accompanied the National Monetary commission to Europe. During the war he was president of the citizens' war board, Chicago.

He was married in 1884 and has one son, Earle H. Reynolds, formerly president of the Peoples Trust and Savings bank, a Michigan avenue institution which was voluntarily closed and liquidated without loss to depositors early this year.

Comments On Retirement.

After handing out his formal statement Mr. Reynolds commented informally on his retirement.

"I've been looking forward to a play spell for a long time," he said. "I'd hate to have any of you say it but I must admit that I'm getting old. Three or four years ago I decided to retire, but one thing after another came up and I didn't. A little while ago I made up my mind. I'm going to try to have a little time just enjoying myself. I expect to live much of the time in California, but will be in Chicago part of the time."

CURB MARKET DELISTS SECURITIES OF INSULL INVESTMENT FIRMS

The Chicago Curb exchange yesterday voted to delist the common and preferred shares of Corporation Securities company of Chicago and Insull Utility Investments, Inc. The companies are both in bankruptcy. They were the top holding companies of the Insull system.

Shares of both companies were formerly traded on the Chicago Stock Exchange. Trading was discontinued there several months ago, however, and the curb exchange listed the securities. Recently the stocks have been traded infrequently. They have been quoted for a few cents a share.

The curb exchange also voted yesterday to remove securities of the following companies: York Share corporation; Wittbold Securities company; Central States Electric corporation, old common; Missouri Kansas Pipe Line company.

The exchange listed 5,000,000 special shares, $1 par value, of the Canadian Investment Fund, Ltd. The listing is effective today.

Germany and France Sign Tariff Treaty

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Dec. 28.—A supplementary accord amending the Franco-German trade agreement was signed today at the foreign office. While the text of the accord will not be published until tomorrow, it is understood it permits each country to change all important tariffs of the main trade agreement upon two weeks' notice. As existing tariffs are at the same time maximum rates in trade with other nations that have a most favored nation clause this amendment is internationally important.

The French delegation apparently wanted the most favored nation clause abolished between France and Germany and it is noted with satisfaction here that it was preserved, but it is realized that the increase of a large number of tariffs will result in a new accord. Germany agreed to this new extremity flexible system only because she wished to have a free hand for increasing tariffs on agrarian produce.

In addition a certain modification of foreign exchange control laws has been conceded to France. German importers lacking sufficient exchange to pay for French goods will be permitted to pay marks into a reichsbank fund to be credited to the Bank of France which in turn will pay corresponding amounts to the French exporters.

STEEL OUTPUT FOR WEEK DROPS TO 13 PER CENT

Steel production this week was reported by Iron Age yesterday as being 13 per cent of capacity—a decline of 1 per cent from the 14 per cent output of last week. However, the 13 per cent report was better than anticipated according to the trade journal in its weekly survey.

The manufacture of raw steel is being sustained mainly by the requirements of the automobile and advance rollings of tin plate, Iron Age states.

TRADE IN WALL STREET MOVES AT FASTER PACE

806 Issues Traded; Trend Steady.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 28.—Enough Christmas lingered about Broad and Wall streets today to give the share market a jaunty little air despite the efforts of the tax-loss sellers. Numerous trading favorites were marked up as much as a point or so.

Volume was the heaviest in weeks. Approximately 1,500,000 shares changed hand and 806 issues were traded in. Improved wheat, cotton and bond markets, dwindling liquidation and anticipation of year-end investment demand were among the reasons assigned for the rally by some. Technical conditions probably furnished the real key to the riddle, however, the list having been on the defensive for some six weeks or more and particularly for the last week or ten days. One of the oldest axioms of the short selling game is that a good thing can be pushed just so far.

Rails Lead Upturn.

Railroad shares, so long the shining targets of bear sharpshooters, led the recovery movement. With New York Central setting the pace, this group drove forward in the early trading at a clip that promised really important doings. Around the end of the first hour the division was showing gains of anywhere from 1 to 3 points over last night's closing prices. Then came a burst of selling in General Motors, renewal of liquidation generally, and by noon most of the early improvement had been rubbed out. The afternoon saw prices seesawing back and forth with little change in the averages in either direction.

The pressure against the motors group leader was something of a mystery. One commentator guessed that the heavy blocks of shares which came out one after another, driving the issue down nearly a point, represented nothing more serious than the determination of some large holder to take his medicine before going to bed. Another suggestion was that the selling came from holders wishing to record losses to be used in income tax returns.

Motor Industry Hit.

However, it is no secret that the current quarter has been a bad one for the motor industry and that keen observers can see no prospects of any great improvement in the immediate future. General Motors was one of the few stocks of all the 1,200 and more listed on the big board which was unable to move ahead with the market on the rally.

Buying in the rails was supposed to reflect improved carloadings last week and relatively favorable earnings for the month of November. New York Central, which led the market down last week, recovered a full point of its loss and moderate gains were scored by Union Pacific, Atchison, Pennsylvania, and Louisville & Nashville. Delaware & Hudson rose 2½ points on a few sales.

American Telephone, American Tobacco, Case and other pace-makers were fairly active and strong.

Car Loadings of 3 Systems Ahead of 1931

Increases in car loadings last week over the like period last year were reported yesterday for three important systems—the Pennsylvania, New York Central, and the Milwaukee road. The advance was partly attributed to the fact that the Christmas holidays last year occurred in the period compared with the 1932 week.

The Pennsylvania reported 75,910 cars handled for the week of Dec. 24, compared with 73,553 in the corresponding period of last year, an advance of 2,357 cars, or 3.2 per cent. Loadings by the Pennsylvania so far this year total 4,351,100 cars, compared with 5,863,822 cars for the like period last year.

New York Central Loadings Up.

The New York Central reported loadings for last week as totaling 84,175 cars, compared with 75,707 in the like period last year. Loadings were slightly under the preceding week of 1932, which also was ahead of the 1931 period.

The Milwaukee road loadings for the week of Dec. 24 totaled 20,778 cars, compared with 18,440 for the 1931 period, a gain of 12.7 per cent.

Another road to show a gain was the Wabash, which handled 10,492 cars last week, compared with 9,369 in the like period of 1931.

Total loadings of the Southern Pacific for the first ten months of this year were approximately 23 per cent less than in the corresponding period of 1931.

INCOME IS HIGHER

Reflecting lower operating costs the Norfolk and Western yesterday reported net operating income for November of $2,759,135 compared with $1,778,581 for the same month last year. Gross revenues were slightly below those of last year.

The November gross of the Northern Pacific railway is expected to be about $822,000 under the figure for the same month in 1931, according to President Charles Donnelly. Mr. Donnelly stated that from 55 to 60 per cent of the grain in the territory his road serves is still held in warehouses because of poor prices. He added that at this time of the year about a half the crop has usually been moved.

Other roads to report on November operations included the Chicago Great Western which returned a deficit of $85,062 compared with an income of $171,443 last year; the St. Louis and Southwestern which reported an operating deficit of $288,974 after charges and the Denver and Rio Grande Western which had a deficit of $16,365 after charges. The Colorado and Southern reported an operating income for November of $408,640 compared with $418,272 last year.

WILL SPEND $1,500,000

Announcement was made by the Santa Fe railroad yesterday that it is spending $1,500,000 for equipment and supplies for improvement and maintenance work on its lines west of Emporia, Kas. According to M. J. Collins, general purchasing agent, $880,000 is being spent for 22,000 tons of rails. The rails are being purchased partly from the Colorado Fuel and Iron company and the Inland Steel company which has its plant at Hammond, Ind.

Collins stated that work on the improvement would be started about March 1 and that jobs would be given a considerable number of men.

END FARM DEBT AS MARKET AID, EXPERT PLEADS

Called Greater Help Than Cut to Europe.

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Prof. Herbert Simpson of Northwestern university told the American Farm Economics association today that "cancellation of the $10,000,000,000 farm mortgage debt, almost equal to the European war debt, would do more to provide a market for goods in this country than would cancellation of the foreign debt."

Prof. Simpson's declaration followed a statement by P. K. Whelpton of Miami university, Coral Gables, Fla., that Americans are pouring back to the farm areas. Whelpton said 1932 may be the first year in which modern American cities have suffered a marked loss in population.

This back to the farm movement, Whelpton said, is threatening the farmer with too much labor, stripping him of his city markets, and bringing rural slum conditions such as cities now are beginning to combat effectively.

Favors Municipal Receivers.

Prof. Simpson said he hoped "the farmers of this country will put an end to remote and hypothetical appeals to cancel war debts while they themselves are struggling to pay off indebtedness." He advocated legislation permitting cities to invoke municipal receivership to conserve "the assets of the community" until better times.

Prof. F. F. Hill of Cornell university outlined a four point plan for handling mortgage indebtedness, proposing strengthening of federal land banks by government stock subscription and greater decentralization in management, liquidation of the stock land banks, provision for emergency loan funds provided by sale of bonds, and a system of debt conciliation commissions to bring creditors and debtors together without resort to the courts.

Warn Against Job Insurance.

Warning was given the American economic association by R. S. Merrick of Harvard that "the existence of unemployment benefits may make it more likely that unemployment will be increased and less likely that wage rates will be cut." He said the burden of unemployment benefits raised by levies upon employers would ultimately fall upon workers.

Such contribution, he said, would amount to an added labor cost. Hence employers would "save labor to the utmost," either by extending use of machinery and using fewer men, or by reducing the wages of all.

He suggested, instead, that "the only possible basis is that of deposits or savings" in which each individual worker would create his own unemployment reserve, useable as well for a retirement and old age fund.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Deferred deliveries of wheat, corn, oats and rye dropped to new low levels for the season yesterday, coincident with a further reduction in the movement of cash grain from farmer's bins to terminal markets. May and July wheat and corn sold off ½c to ⅝c as the result of scattered liquidation which uncovered stop loss selling, but the surplus in the pits was absorbed by holders of bids and by shorts and the losses were more than recovered later.

Strength in December wheat was further pronounced, that delivery closing ⅝c higher and was only 1c under May, the smallest difference of the season, sales being made at 43@43¼c at the last. May was ⅜c higher at 44@44¼c, while July was ½c higher at 44⅛@44¼c.

Cash Receipts Small.

The small movement of cash wheat to terminal markets combined with the firmness in the nearby future is now attracting considerable attention from the trade. Some weeks ago the December was around 5c under May liquidation on. The low price resulted in farmers refusing to sell and this was reflected in primary receipts of only 231,000 bu yesterday, believed to be the smallest so far during the present crop year.

Relative strength in the December wheat future has resulted in creating bullish sentiment in some quarters. It is claimed that the discount of only 1c as compared with May puts the bears on the defensive as they have lost the carrying charge which has prevailed between the nearby and distant futures for several years. Storage charges to carry cash wheat from Jan. 1 to May 1 is 6c per bu, while the actual cash grain on track was nominally quoted at a small premium over the May yesterday.

Old style March wheat in Liverpool sold at 42½c per bu early Wednesday, a new all time record low for that market, but the rally in North America was reflected to some extent in England and the close was only ⅛@⅜c lower than Friday with March at 43c. Buenos Aires was higher for the day while Winnipeg finished ⅝c higher, the latter in Canadian funds.

Corn Movement Limited.

Only 16 cars of cash corn were received at Chicago Wednesday which was believed to be about the smallest on record for this season of the year under normal conditions, and was taken as reflecting the most pronounced refusal on the part of the farmer to sell his cash grain that ever has been known. Normally between 300 and 500 cars of corn should be received daily during the latter part of December.

Liquidation of a line of long corn carried the May future off to 25c early, but the small receipts of cash grain brought in buying and the close was about the top with prices unchanged to ⅜c higher, the latter on December, which was 21⅛c at the last. May closed at 25⅝c, and July at 27¼@27⅝c. The country sold 18,000 bu to arrive on the advance while the east bought 55,000 bu. Houses with eastern connections were buyers of futures during the day.

Speculative interest in oats was small, with an early dip with other grains and a rally, the close being unchanged to ⅛c higher. May closed at 18⅝c and July at 17c. Rye was ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher with December 29c and May 31⅞c. Barley gained ¼c for the day with May at 28⅝c.

PACKING HOUSE OPERATIONS EASE IN NOVEMBER

Production of slaughtering establishments throughout the country declined 8½ per cent during November, according to a report on business conditions issued yesterday by the federal reserve bank. Compared to the 1923-'31 average and not to 1931 alone, the decline was 10½ per cent.

Payrolls for the month were 8½ per cent less than during October, but the number of employès remained about the same, according to the report. One of the reasons for the decline in production was the loss experienced in the foreign market.

ALL BRANCHES OF LIVE STOCK SHOW WEAKNESS

Swine Section Suffers Heaviest Losses.

A weaker undercurrent was found in almost all branches of the live stock market yesterday. Light weight hogs which led the recent advance were hit hardest in the swine department. Top sales dropped 10@15c, while medium weights came down 5@10c and heavier hogs sold steady to 10c lower. Packing sows were scarce and steady. Fancy 250@190 lbs. averages topped at $3.25, while the general average at $3.00 showed 5c loss from Tuesday's level. Both prices are only 10c above the 54 year low marks made the middle of last week.

Narrower eastern outlet for under weights opened the way for a drive on prices of top grades yesterday. After the lower basis had been established large local houses were rather willing buyers and only 4,000 pen holders and inferior kinds remained at the close.

Beef Tonnage Heavier.

Cattle receipts were not big yesterday, but the tonnage of beef was heavier and exceeded the demands. A big proportion of the run consisted of fed steers and yearlings, with few cows and heifers in the supply. Average weights of cattle have been steadily gaining the last few weeks and now are heaviest of the season due to the greater number of long fed steers coming. Tendency ruled weak to lower in all but the upper crust of light yearling steers. The latter showed less action, but retained the gains scored a few days ago.

Top 957@1,042 lb averages reached $7.25. Prime 1,300@1,500 lb beeves were bought at $5.00@5.50. Some at $5.75 were claimed to be as good as the $10.25@10.35 cattle at the high point of the year in September when medium and weighty steers were outselling the yearling stock. Butcher stock exhibited signs of strength. Canners and cutters ruled strong to 15c higher. Bulls were firm and calves steady.

Lambs Down 25@50c.

Buyers hammered lambs down 25@50c, but there was a better close and nothing in the late rounds sold at more than 25c loss compared with the preceding session. Larger local packers paid up to $6.15 for prime fed westerns at the finish, while city butchers and shippers were buying their selections at $6.00@6.10. Aged sheep escaped with little damage. Light slaughter ewes sold up to $2.75, equaling the highest of the week. Yearlings found the going rougher and lost 25c, with prime 94 lb averages at $5.25.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK Dec. 28.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was easier today under increased offerings of January arrival duty free. Prices declined about 1.32c to the basis of 2.75c with confirmed sales at this level of 27,000 bags Philippines and 5,000 bags Porto Rican to local refiners for first half January arrival. The only other business was a sale of 18,000 bags of Philippines concluded yesterday at 2.79c to an outport refiner. After making new 4 year record for the season, futures rallied partially and closed net unchanged to 1 point higher. The easier spot market led to increased liquidation and selling by trade and producing interests. Approximate sales were 10,950 tons. Prices follow:
